COURTESY TO BROTHERS.

Not all sisters realize what powers for good they may be in the lives of their brothers. They also forget or ignore the fact that courtesy is as much a brother's due as to any other young man.

An incident which came to my notice will serve as an illustration. brother and sister, both students of a university, received invitations to an entertainment, and the brother offered himself as his sister's escort. Later, Nat under the apple tree dreaming of she received a like offer from a young gentleman whose company was both acceptable to herself and considered desirable by her young friends. She | pulpit, or anywhere else. Brains, declined, saving "she had a previous character, and a lot of hard work will engagement." The matter chanced insure success, and nothing less. to come up in family conversation, not in presence of her brother, and instead of regretting her engagement has been dreaming of his development Westminster, B.C., papers, and I am g ad Charles; I always have a good time!

It is pleasant to be able to add that when the young gentleman saw, on the evening of the entertainment, for whom his invitation was declined, he promptly, and carry his mother an honoured her for her courtesy to her brother, but took care a second time to be earlier in his invitation. How many sisters would have considered a like engagement to a brother one that the dreaming or wishing. They are could not be broken, or at least excused?

A sister's influence may be second only to a mother's; in individual cases | a broom-handle for mother's sake, or not even second. Sometimes common for home's sake lugging a well-worn interests, congenial tastes, similar shopping bag in the morning to her pursuits, make it possible for her to be first.

The best mother, of necessity, has lost something ofher early enthusiasm, forgotten a part of her early ambitions, hopes, and fears. The daughter, because of her youth, may be an invaluable assistant to her mother. She may enlighten the mother's understanding as to the needs of the son and brother. Together they may plan measures for his good, which neither could either plan or execute alone. Brothers of such sisters, in after years, will not only in the words of the wise man, " Rise up and call their mothers blessed," but their sisters also. Girls, do you covet the blessing? Then go and do likewise.

PRACTISE ECONOMY

In buying medicine as in other matters. It is economy to get Hood's Sarsaparilla because there is more medicinal value in Hood's Sarsaparilla than in any other. Every bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla contains 100 doses, and will average, taken according to directions, to last a month, while others last but a fortnight.

-Hood's Pills are the only pills to take with Hood's Sarsaparilla. Easy and yet efficient.

WINDFALLS, RED AND YELLOW.

Nat Peavey is lying under an apple tree gold and red with its autumn fruit. He looks up longingly. He wishes he had one of those gold and red beauties. Let him get up, stir round, climb the tree. No, he waits. Suddenly an apple, round and plump, drops near him. "How lucky!" he thinks, and promptly he sinks his t eth into its yielding pulp. Looking into the next orchard he sees Bob Shirley squirming into an apple tree.

"Unlucky Bob!" he murmurs. He works hard for his apple. Let him wait! A wind will come along and help him. Yes, and that will be a good way through life. Just wait for things to turn up, or come down. What's the use of worrying and working? There will be a windfall some time.'

There are many young people relying on windfalls in life. They are hoping for windfalls by way of professional success. You can imagine his big success as a doctor, lawyer, or clergyman. Windfa'ls, though, don't make great men at the bar or in the Then again the windfall of a great, heroic name may be coveted. Nat which heroes will come. Heroes are not made for made out of daily work and daily sacrifices. So for girls, heroism grows out of the heroine toiling at the end of place of work. In this humble, stead. fast way character is built up. After this fashion are brought together the materials from which at God's directing the great deeds of humanity are evolved.

Then there are windfalls of money. We sometimes hear of the unexpected inheritance of money; that a windfall has come to so-and-so. Those instances are rare and not worth waiting for. The usual and reliable way to get money is to make it, work early and late, and to save all the time. By such piece-meal work fortunes are

And look out! Windfalls sometimes gnawing at the stem, or there has been out.' a stunting of the growth, a weakening of the hold upon the tree; and there is a windfall some day of inferior fruit. We knew of a minister who received one day a present, and in it was a barrel of windfalls, shrunken fruit, and they had been raked up, leaves with them; and the minister got them as part of a present. You would not have given them. They were interior fruit. If you want something superior by way of money, earn it. Have the satisfaction of getting it yourself. Climb the tree for it. It will be hand-picked fruit. Try that for eating!

THE DEPTH OF THE SEA.

Small boys often ask their parents, How deep is the sea?" The answer depends entirely upon the sea. The following table compiled by one who has investigated, may help to the solution of the small boys' problem: Average depth in yards—Pacific 4,252; Atlantic, 4,026; Indian, 3,658; Autarctic, 3,000; Arctic, 1,690; Mediterranean, 1,476; Irish, 240; English Channel, 110; Adriatic, 43; Baltic, 48.
