Pretty Romance of Acadia

Novel Celebration of Wedding Anniversary Also Marked by Presentation of a Chest of Silver

(Brooklyn, N.Y., Daily Eagle.)

Never before was the anniversary of the marriage of a pastor and his wife celebrated in such a notable way as that of the twentieth of the Rev. Dr. William B. Wallace, pastor of the Baptist Temple, Third avenue and Schenierhorn street, and Mrs. Wallace, last night. The lower temple was filled to its utmost capacity and many stood up during the entire programme. As part of the celebration, a playlet, entitled "Betrothed," by John E. Orchard, a member of the temple, was cleverly enacted. The little playlet rehearsed the scene of the wedding of William and Alice in the parsonage of Granville Ferry, Nova Scotia, June 1, 1893. The scene was the gift room in the home of Miss Alice Young, the bride of the day.

There was some touch of pathos in the playlet, but there was much fun, too, and Mr. Orchard wrote into the play a description of a football game in which young William Wallace was the star, which would go anywhere for a fine piece of dramatic work, he delivering the words himself with much force. The young student at Acadia College who was in after years to become the successful pastor of the Temple, was a noted football player, and of course, it was he, according to the play, who was the hero of the day, and who had all the girls of the town enthusiastic over him, particularly Alice, for his incentive to playing effort was a pennant made by her and which he had wrapped about his arm.

The coach and managing director of the little play was Harrie J. Stokum, who for many years was the coach of the Amaranth Dramatic Society, and he had certainly drilled those in the cast well, for they did their work in a manner to prove themselves capable actors and actresses. Miss Kathryn Gunn Stables was the musical director, and the large orchestra under her guidance played excellently giving Mendelssohn's "Wedding March" in fine style. The cast was as follows:

William Wallace, a newly ordained minister, Dr. Milburn, a retired physician, Jimmie, a chore boy, Ernest A. Martin, Alice Young, William's fiancée, Anna E. Fossum, the doctor's ward, and maid of honor, Lucie A. Pinkham, Grace Asheley, an ardent admirer of Alice, Mabelle L. Davis, Miriam Evans, an ardent admirer of William, Florence E. Quick, Wahneta, an Indian maiden, Edna M. Burp, Della, a maid, Mary E. Redding. Each one of the characters did excellent work, the lines had been perfectly learned and there was not a hitch anywhere. The close resemblance of Mr. Wetmore to the portrait of Dr. Wallace, shown later on the screen, was remarkable, as was that of Miss Fossum to Mrs. Wallace. The scene between Dr. Milburn and his wife was a beautiful piece of acting full of tender feeling, as was that of the goodbye to the bride by the Indian maiden who brought her modest gift of moccasins from herself and her father, the chief.

Following the playlet, there was a stereopticon lecture, showing milestones in the lives of the pastor and his wife, which was delivered by Mr. Stokes. Thrown upon the screen were pictures of the home- stead in Granville Ferry, where the wedding took place in 1893; Acadia Seminary, where Dr. Wallace received his education; Acadia College, where Dr. Wallace attended; the churches of Newcastle and Florenceville, where Dr. Wallace preached while a student; the Rev. Isaac Wallace the father, who performed the ceremony twenty years ago; the church in Oswego, where Dr. Wallace was ordained; and which was his first charge; the churches at Utica and Cleveland, and the Baptist Temple; pictures of Dr. and Mrs. Wallace and their three little sons, one of whom was present at the celebration last night notwithstanding the fact that he had broken his arm, in the afternoon.

Brief addresses of congratulation to Dr. and Mrs. Wallace were made by the Rev. Dr. Charles A. Eaton, pastor of the Madison Avenue Baptist Church, Manhattan, who was a classmate in "dear old Acadia" with Dr. Wallace, and the Rev. Dr. Curtis Lee Laws, pastor of the Greene Avenue Baptist Church, who closed his speech by presenting to the pastor and his wife a beautiful chest of solid silver from the people of the Temple. To these addresses and for the gift Dr. Wallace feelingly responded on behalf of Mrs. Wallace and himself.

The celebration of the evening was under the auspices of the social committee of the Baptist Temple, of which George E. Tompers is chairman.

A Valuable Report

The Forty-Ninth Annual Report of the Fruit Grower's Association of Nova Scotia, which has been published recently from the press of the "Kentville Advertiser," is a most comprehensive and valuable report. It contains the fine address of the President, a concise and very encouraging report of the Secretary, very valuable articles from such well-known fruit growers as John N. Chute, R. J. Messenger, John Buchanan, F. H. Johnson and R. S. Eaton, valuable articles were also contributed by W. W. Moore, Chief Markets Division; C. W. Baxter, Chief Fruit Inspector; Robert Matheson, Provincial Entomologist; George E. Sanders, Field officer, Division of Entomology; Mr. J. P. Stewart, Experimental Pomologist; Prof. W. S. Blair Supt. Experimen-

Station for Annapolis Valley in some Important Points in Box (acking) Dr. J. P. Stewart, Experimental Pomologist, J. M. Robinson, B. S. A., Asst. for Horticultural Experimental Station. These articles are of immense worth as they give inestimable instruction on Orchard Pests, marketing of apples, Western Markets, Fertilizers, Box Packing, Sprays & Spraying, Thinning of apples, etc. The publication Committee, and all those who rendered assistance are congratulated on placing before our fruit growers such valuable advice, in a neat and concise form.

These Reports may be obtained by applying to the energetic Secretary Manning Ellis, Port Williams, N. S.

Attention Subscribers!

We have stated several times that the increasing cost of production of newspaper is causing many weekly publishers to increase their subscription rate. Nearly every publisher of a paper issued twice a week has already advanced the subscription price and we hereby give timely notice to all of our intention to do so.

Every subscriber who pays in advance will still receive "The Advertiser" twice a week at the original price of one dollar a year. We do not intend that the one who habitually neglects to pay for his local paper shall get it at a low figure as the one who pays cash. The cash business is growing so rapidly among wholesale dealers and home merchants that the person who gives long credit cannot compete with the other fellow who has the money he earned right in his hand to pay his bills.

On and after June 30th, 1913, the price of "The Advertiser" will be strictly as follows:—

In advance per year $1.00
When not in advance but paid during the year 1.25
After end of year, per year 1.50

United States Subscribers—
One year in advance with postage 1.50
One year not in advance 1.75
Two years or more in arrears per year 2.00

Subscribers who are now in arrears can settle their account in full if the money is received by us before the end of June at the rate of one dollar a year, for any part of Canada, or one dollar and fifty cents per year in the United States. This will give every subscriber plenty of opportunity to pay up their account in full at the former rate and receive for a full year in advance with no increase in cost. Those who neglect to do so will find it impossible to settle with us except at rates quoted herewith. We give all fair notice and will treat all subscribers alike.

After July 1st, a large number of old subscription accounts, due for 3 years or more will be left for collection at the $1.50 per year rate, or $2.00 in United States. Those who wish to avoid unnecessary expense can do so by remitting us the amount due within a month.

The label on each paper shows to what time the paper is paid; 12 on the label means paper is paid to Jan. 1st, 1912, and the subscriber owes for two years to Jan. 1st, 1914.

Remit by post office order or postal note in preference to enclosing bills or registering letters.

The Colonial Stock Co. is coming to Canning.

The Colonial Stock Co. who played "The Prince of Lairs" here last September are coming again on their Annual Tour and will be in Canning on the evening of June 10th.

The company have been coming here annually for the past four years, the last two trips under the auspices of the Canning Band. And the fact that each succeeding year finds a larger and more appreciative audience, is strong evidence of their increasing popularity.

This year they will play "THE TURNING POINT," at the under the auspices of the CANNING BAND.

The CANNING ORCHESTRA will furnish the musical part of the programme.

Watch for advertising and posters.

SPECIAL NOTICE!

To afford every one engaged in our Establishment a much needed and well earned vacation, and to facilitate a few changes necessary thought the evergrowing increase in our trade, we have decided to close from June 28, until July 15.

As we will not likely be overburdened with work toward the end of June, it is of advantage to those who desire the very best of satisfaction, to have their garments made then.

We will also give a discount on all orders taken during June and finished before the end of that month if materials and trimmings are brought from us.

Thinking for the liberal patronage accorded us in the past.

We are most grateful to yours
