A PHOTOGRAPHIC TIMEKEEPER

The latest mechanical time recorder for use in factories and other places of employment is called the "guv"nor," and it not only registers the precise aminute at which the employe arrives at his work, but it photographs him neatly and expeditiously-on a film, so that his employer may see just how he looked when he pressed the but-

Guy nor," by the patenteees. Its accuracy and simplicity of operation are held to be the chief advantages which ecommend it to the favor of large employers of labor. In point of size and general appearance "the guv'nor" a good deal like a polished oak portable photographic camera.

To insure correct results the instrument must be so fixed against a door that the light, being at the back of the employe as he faces the lens, will fall through a glass lid into the That is the single condition of success. All that is further necessary is for the employe to look squarely at the lens, smile softly if he feels that way, and push the knob that protrudes invitingly from the and expose a section of a celluloid film, upon which the face of a small clock, showing the exact minute at which he arrived will be photograph;

his own will be "fixed by a sumbeam in eternal prime" for future reference For days when there are no sunbeams a special contrivance has been provided in the shape of a regulator at the side marked "Fine, medium, and dull," and a small indicator moved around to the proper description will arrange an exposure to suit the prevailing at mospherie condition.

Each instrument contains 12 feet of film, upon which 228 pictures may be taken, and for establishments with a greater number of hands larger ma

Apart from its purely commercia uses, "the guv'nor" promises to furnish a highly interesting record for anyone who may want to turn up of films and see how he looked on each morning of the year.

The old flag, the old policy and the old man's son made a gallant run in Manitoba.

The sanctimonious promises of the Ress government were not forthcoming until their machine was caught and

It was expected that one side or the other would win by a nose. That is where Hugh John had the advantage He sports the old man's.

In refusing an application for divorce the other day, Judge Fraser, of Detroit, remarked: "It has gotten to be the idea among certain people that whether they are married thirty years or thirty days, if they get dissatisfied with each other all they have to do is to apply to a court of chancery and the marriage relation will be severed. It is the policy of the law to prevent divorces and not grant them, and as I understand my duty, in the ap lications of the law to the facts ie this case, that duty is to deny a di-

Brigaded with the Black Watch and Seaforth Highlanders, the Canadian regiment is in pretty fast company. But we think the boys will hold their own.-Hamilton Spectator.

That won't do. They're expected not only to hold their own, but to grab what belongs to the other fellows, and hold it, tho.

Referring to the acceptance of the resignation of the United States Con sul at Pretoria, the Washington correspondent of the Tribune says:-"The only plausible explanation of Macrum's actions is that he is frightened out of his wits. His conduct is in sharp contrast to that of the British Consuls who represented the United States in Spain last year, and particularly to that of the heroic Ramsden, whose instrumentality in securing the surrender of Santiago was incalculable, and whose death was due to his devotion to duty."

A Brandon lawyer has brought an action for $20,000 for slander against Sir Charles Tupper. A Brandon lawver with a reputation that can be damaged to the extent of $20,000 should be regarded as one of the greatest living curiosities of the clos ing year of the nineteenth century.

THE BRITISH INFANTRY.

Toronto Telegram.

There is a difference in the valor which takes a position by storm and the bravery which tries to take a position by siege. The British infantry has lost none of its old heroic quality and the battles in South Africa show that the foot soldiers of the Queen are still worthy of the eulogy pronounced by old Marshall Boufflers, of the French army, in these words: "The British infantry-the finest in the world; thank God there is so little of

The opening of the new Victoria bridge at Montreal calls attention to the amazing progress in this important science and art. The old bridge, opened by the Prince of Wales in 1860, was justly regarded as one of the wonders of the world. It weighed 9,060 tons, and was 16 feet wide and 18 feet high, and cost $8,813,000. The new bridge weighs 2,200 tons, is 65 feet wide nd 40 feet high and cost $2,000,000. The new bridge is many times more capacious and more durable, yet weighs less than one-fourth as much and cost less than one-fourth the

"ORDERED TO THE FRONT."

London Daily Telegraph.

On Monday evening, 20th November, Mrs. Brown-Potter, the celebrated American actress, recited, at the Empire Theatre, London, the following patriotic address, written by Mr. Henry

For England! Once again out rings our battle-cry of old, No lust of conquest taints its note, no huckster's greed of gold. springs from free men's souls a fire, from gallant hearts a-beat,

That wave of cheers that breaks to song adown the stirring street, Out-ringing, irresistible, up-thrilling to her Throne.

The voice of England for the Right and mindful of her own. From Capital to Coast it finds its echo near and far. To light the land and warn the world that what we were, we are!

was no host of holiday; no passing show, I ween, That chivalry that two years gone with love engirt our Queen.

e them to-day—no gold, no gaud—
in Lighting khaki clad, mmander, Captain. Subaltern. and simple soldier-lad, Gone forth with "Duty" on each lip and

"Duty" at each heart
As went their Fathers, and we know -to bear their Fathers' part! These are the Builders that have set

our. House upon the rock,
And hold it against foes who fight—
and foes who dare but mock.
How ran their scoff?—"Fine soldiers,
these!—a pampered nation's toys,
A motley rabble hired with gold—half blackguards and half boys.'
Back from the battlefield to-day there comes the proud reply, e may be boys, we're not too young to show men how to die! y've told us we're for ornament they'll find that we're for use, fire as straight as does the foe-though not on flags of truce.

Blackguards we are not-witness bear both countryside and town, Ask heathered hill and turfy bog and English dale and down.
Ask hearths that miss and long for us; the homes where we were born, mothers proud of us that pray 'God bless them night and morn."

"God bless them one and all!" say we
"Our Tommies and our Tars. Whose four point seven marks the track of England's shooting stars. Indomitable English hearts! as cool as on parade,

That face disaster's brief defeat un daunted, undismayed.
Disaster dear to those who seek find Achilles' heel!

Who glory in the hoped-for harm the lack the pluck to deal.

Laugh, little folk! for joy to think that England's sun has set, But Fame laughs louder than ye all-and Freedom louder yet. Take back your spite-engendered sneer, your conscript-nurtured

Hark! to the cry that comes from East out heralding the Morn, And Westward of the sunset — from the Race ye so revile, From Continent to Continent it sounds

-from Isle to Isle! From by the broad St. Lawrence — from beneath the Southern Cross, e-we are England's! Count with us before you count her loss!" nger than ocean's leagues it comes and louder than its foam, "The Motherland is calling us-we'r wanted, boys, at Home!

To fight the Empire's battles and to wear the English rose."

And clarion-like and clearer still i gathers and it grows!
"Take us!" their manhood cries
one, "we heed not limb nor life!"

'Take them! they're yours! we grudge them not," cry mother, sister, wife.
"Ten thousand men to fight for you of British blood and breed, Ay, twice ten times ten thousand shall be with you if you need, are as staunch as brave Natal that bears the battle's brunt, gear and gold and side by side fights with you at the front!" at rule the world has ever seen, what yoke of blood and iron

Has e'er compelled such service as ou England doth environ? Rule-rule Britannia! since your rule makes ever for the Right, Ring the round world, and with the world roll onward into light.

True Country and tried Colonies, God keep you safe, serene, With one voice, 'neath the Union Jack to sing "God Save the Queen!"

This institution has prepared over seventy teachers for other Business Colleges and Commercial Schools in Canada and the United States; more than twice as many as all other Business Colleges in Canada combined, have so placed.

The proprietors of five of the leading Business Colleges in Western Ontario, who are to day among our strongest opponents in the field of Business and Shortband training, received their training under the Principal of this institution. Besides these, there are five others holding leading positions as teachers in Business Colleges and Commercial Schools in Canada and the United States; another is now negotiating for a similar opening in a Business College in a leading American city and there are still five unfilled calls of this kind on hand.
