IN THE SAME ROLE.

A Funny Story of Four Sisters Who Went on the Stage

Jefferson got Used to it and When the Last Left Him was Nearly Sensing for the Dog

Anatolian Manager Rosenthal, the husband of Katherine Osterman, tells the following story:

There were four of the Osterman girls who went on the stage, and it is a singular fact that they all made their debut in the same role. It happened this way: The family live in Toledo, and when Charles Jefferson put on "Hands Across the Sea" Annie Osterman, who was then an ambitious amateur, was engaged to take the part of Lucy. She adopted the stage name of Belmont and scored such a success that she got a handsome offer to join Sol Smith Russell.

"Before she left Jefferson asked her whether she couldn't suggest somebody to take her place, and she replied very modestly that her sister Bessie was a bright girl and anxious to go on the stage. So Bessie was sent for, and also made a hit, but before long she went to Mr. Jefferson and told him she would have to quit, as she was about to be married to Chief Wall of the Toledo fire department. "However," she said hesitatingly, "I have a sister of the name of Katherine, who—"

"Great heavens!" exclaimed Jefferson. "This family beats the record! Telegraph for Katherine immediately!" Katherine arrived and proved such an acceptable substitute that the management was delighted, but in the course of time she attracted the attention of Stuart Robson, who engaged her to be his leading lady. Again Jefferson was in despair. "I suppose there are no more sisters?" he said ironically. "Oh, yes," replied Katherine. "I was just about to recommend my sister Lillian."

"Send for Lillian," Lillian came on and played the part successfully until she made up her mind to retire from the stage. When she announced that intention, Jefferson never turned a hair. You see, he had become accustomed to it. "Sorry, very sorry," she said. "And will you please wire to your sister this evening?" There are no more sisters, said Lillian mournfully.

"No more sisters?" exclaimed Jefferson. "No, sir," she replied. "All we have left now is the house dog, but he's very intelligent!"—House Ours Times-Democrat.

IN THE HIMALAYAS.

The Workman Exploring Expedition to the Orient Makes New Climbing Records

They Reach a Height of 19,450 Feet—None of the Party Suffer From Mountain Sickness.

Dr. W. H. Workman and Mrs. Fanny Bullock Workman, F.R.S.G., authors of "Algerian Memories" and "A Journey to the Fin de Siècle," accompanied by the noted Swiss guide, Mr. Zurbriegen, have made a mountaineering record in the Korakoram Himalayas in the past season. In July they spent eighteen days on the great Lhasa glacier, and then, following it up for thirty miles to Snow Lake, which lies at 16,000 feet. Crossing this, they ascended the snowy Hispar Pass (17,500 feet). Sir W. Martin Conway and his party, with the guide Zurbriegen, made the first crossing of the Hispar in 1891. The Workman expedition is the second to visit this almost inaccessible ice world and the first to see and photograph the unnamed snow-capped peaks, bordering Snow Lake and the Pass. Mr. Conway crossed this portion in a snowstorm and saw nothing of the higher landscape. The lowest camp was 12,800 and the highest, on ice, at 16,400 feet.

Returning to Askole, new coolies were taken for an exploring trip to the circle of snowy peaks adjoining the Skoro La Pass (17,000 feet), the upper passage from Askole to Shigar. Here moraine and glacier camps were made at 16,000 and 17,400 feet and two virgin snow peaks ascended. The first, which was partly of rock and partly of snow, was made from the lower camp. Photographs were taken on the highest summit, which is a narrow white horn, and a stone cairn built on a slightly lower rock-summit. In this a jar was placed, containing names of climbers, name given to peak, the "Siegfriedhorn," height 18,600 feet and details of ascension.

Three days later, from the upper camp, a higher peak, wholly of snow, was ascended. Two porters were of the party, which was roped from camp. After a short bit of glacier the whole ascent to the narrow knife-like summit was over steep snowfields. The top was reached between 10 and 11 o'clock a.m., from which the grandest known and unknown peaks of this part of the Himalayas were visible. Nanga Parbat, 26,600 feet; K2, 28,250; Machharbur and Gusharbur, each 26,000 feet, the lovely golden throne of the Baltora glacier and the endless unnamed, but equally immense, snow kings of the Bialo and Hunza regions.

None of the party suffered from mountain sickness, although at that height, 19,450 feet, any sudden exertion caused sudden loss of breath. The peak was named Mount Bullock Workman. The height of both these peaks was taken from the average aneroids, which was judged to be approximately correct by comparison with the officially measured height of the pass, 17,000 feet. Mr. Workman, says the London News, has thus exceeded all previous climbing records for her sex by nearly or quite 3,000 feet.

The method of communication reverses that of discovery, the last word of science should be the first word in teaching.

Seems as if all the things we like disagree with us, and all the things we don't like, agree with us. Dyspepsia, indigestion, nervousness, etc., are all signs of indigestion, and indigestion follows the gratification of appetite. Of course, it isn't Nature's fault. Nature does the best she can, and if a man will only help her a little bit at the right time, he may eat what he likes and as much as he likes. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are for people who are troubled with indigestion. Pleasantly for those in whom it manifests itself in the form of constipation. The "Pellets" are quick and easy in their action. They are in perfect harmony with Nature. They do not alter the natural course of the system, but they cure. You need take them regularly only a little while. After that, use them occasionally when you need them—when you have eaten anything that disagrees with you. They may be taken just as freely as you would take water or any other necessity of life. Once used they are always in favor.

We speak too much of vocations; apart from a few fields of arts and mechanics, an able man may succeed in one career as well as another.

THE FIRST LADY OF HAWAII

Great Speculation as to Who Will Grace the Position.

Who will be the first lady of Hawaii under the new order of things? Just at present gossip points the finger at Mrs. Sanford B. Dole, wife of the president of the former provisional government, who may be appointed governor by President McKinley.

Mrs. Dole was Miss Annie F. Cate of Massachusetts. She is a few years younger than her husband. Americans who have met her in Honolulu have been charmed by her, and agree is the opinion that one rarely sees a more intelligent, attractive and yet unassuming woman.

President and Mrs. Dole are childless, and live in a beautiful cottage on one of Honolulu's prettiest avenues. Their home is described by one who has visited it as being embowered in ferns, palms and evergreens. The walls of the large reception rooms are covered with native tapestry and pictures, while the nooks and corners hold pieces of statuary. The floor is carpeted, but also supplied with rugs, some of these of native weave, and through the broad, low windows the tropical shade and cool breezes whisper of genuine comfort. The house is not as grand or imposing as the magnificent and expensive structures of the kings and queens who preceded them. It is but a neat and comfortable cottage, where Mr. and Mrs. Dole live in the simple style of old colonial days. They are loved and respected by everybody in Honolulu, not even the most bitter opponent of the provisional government or of annexation ever speaking unkindly of either.

Should Harold M. Sewall, now United States minister at Hawaii, be appointed to the Hawaiian governorship, another bright and attractive American woman would grace the position of first lady of the land. Mrs. Sewall was Miss Carrie Ashe of San Francisco. Her father, Major Richard P. Ashe, was an officer in the Mexican war, and one of the youngest in the American army at that time. Her grandfather and great-grandfather were also American soldiers, and one of her brothers is serving as private in the Fourth United States Cavalry at Manila. Her aunt was the wife of Admiral Farragut. Mrs. Sewall was one of the belles of San Francisco society before her marriage. She is greatly admired for her dash and spirit and inexhaustible fund of good humor. At Honolulu she is very popular and is one of the leaders in the society in the place. The Sewalls have a charming home at Waikiki, which is at once the Newport and Long Branch of Hawaii.

Fads in Doorways.

Artistic doorways afford another opportunity to the aesthetically inclined to fill up doorless apertures and bid fair to relegate the most overworked portiere into innocuous desuetude. The doorways are one of the latest fads of inventive genius for home decoration. Some of them are made of the Japanese fretwork which lends itself to the most elaborate designs. The doorways are made of carved wood, some of wrought iron or metal repousse, some of papier mache, enamel or leather in bas-relief. The doorway must be large enough to admit of the insertion of this outside element. An ordinary door can be enlarged by a little carpentering, but the folding door aperture is the most satisfactory for initial attempts. The doorway consists of three pieces, the crosspiece for the top and the two uprights for the sides. Sometimes a single piece is shaped in the triple form, especially in the case of the doorway, where the mass to be manufactured to order, so that exact measurements may be adhered to.

An artistic doorway is a delight to the eye and changes the whole appearance of an otherwise commonplace room with an expenditure of comparatively little money.

A well known artist in the city has a doorway which has come from far across the seas. It is of a silvery, frost like metal, with queer Moorish designs in scroll work and edged with rounded minaret suggesting a projection of the doorway once stood in a Turkish harem, and to the beauty of workmanship and design is added the crowning touch of romance always a factor in the house furnishing of the true artist.

MOST DAZZLING CITY IN THE WORLD.

The whitest city in the world is Cadiz. There cannot possibly be a whiter, unless it is built of snow. The best way to approach the port is to take a trip on one of the small steamers which ply between the ports of Morocco and Spain. As you near the coast you see in front of you a white mass which appears to be floating upon the water, just as you are. The first thought of a foreigner is that he is in sight of an iceberg. The white mass glittering in the sun and rendered more dazzling by the blue sea and sky, looks exactly like a monster ice mountain partly melted, so that outlines of
