vided on the stage for the party stalwarts but the empty chairs were eloquent. Dr. Samson, of Windsor, made one of his happy and moderate speeches. The doctor is always a pleasing speaker, and the Conservatives as well as the Liberals like to hear him talk. That is why there was such a good sprinkling of Liberal-Conservatives present. George Stephens made a rather fengthy speech, in which he told all he had done for the County. Fred. Stone, N. H. Stevens, George Stephens, Bishop Willmore, Rev. Mr. Early, J. W. White and Dr. Samson were on the platform.

FIRST NEWS IN THE G. H. J. He had discovered in one of the leading journals. The Planet, a statement made by J. M. Pike to the effect that he (Mr. Stevens) had tost $20,000 because the electric road had not been built in Dover. "That is the first time," said Mr. Stevens, "that I lost $20,000 and a newspaper found it out first." dressed too well. Free corn was urg-ed as a reason for voting against another candidate. There were three constituencies in the Dominion that had corn to sell, while their 236 neighbors wanted free corn. The Doctor dealt at some length with the Tariff question and the Grand Trunk Pacific. The meeting closed with the usual cheers. found it out first."

Mr. Stevens, when introducing Geo.
Stephens, gave him a certificate of character. He was a first class business man without reproach.
George Stephens said he was glad

REAL WARRAN There are many things to take into reckoning when accouning for the tremendous vogue of "War Down East" which will be at the Grand on Monday, Nov. 7th, The simplicity of the story preals to everybody, the broad fan of the inimitable Hi Holler and the comedy of the other characters the realism of the various characters, the realism of the various scenes, the wonderful simulation of scenes, the wonderful simulation of the blizzard, the strength of the Com-pany, and the power of the third act scene; these things in some measure will tell why "Way Down East" fills the theatres season after season, Added to this is the fact that the cast is kept up to its original stand-ard of excellence while the production is made more elaporate cast.

Willings Rev Mr. Early, J. W. White and Dr. Samson were on the platform.

N. H. Stevens presided in his usual happy manner. He was glad to see seuch a representative audience present. It augured well for the coming elections. Mr. Stevens would have a good opportunity to address the electors and give an account of his stewardship. This County had received more benefit from the Government in the past four years than it had in the preceding 30 years. There was still a great deal that required to be done and the County needed a member who wasn't in the opposition. Mr. Stevens paid a warm tribute to Sir Wilfrid Laurier. English states men had praised him in words that could not be misunderstood. He predicted that Sir Wilfrid knyll by a large majority. The franchise and gerrymander bills had kept the Liberals and done away with the gerrymander. He was satisfied that hundreds of Conservatives themselves became disrusted and helped the Liberals to get into power, The Liberals had done away with the gerrymander. He was satisfied that hundreds of Conservatives themselves became disrusted and helped the Liberals to get into power, The Liberals had done away with the gerrymander. He was satisfied that hundreds of Conservatives in Essex and Kent would still vote with the Liberals policy in the fact had ever produced. More success had land work of importance and a support of the conservatives in the control of the conservatives in the most of the control of the conservatives in the control of the control of the control of the conservatives in the control of the c proclaimed Marie Wainwright as the greatest exponent of Viola. William Winter, of the New York Tribune, Nym Criakle of the World; have written columns of peais about Miss Wainwright's work. Such churchmen as Beecher, Talmage and Bishop and Talmage and Bishop Potter; such men of offairs as Grover Cleveland, William Jennings Bryau, the late Colonel Robert G. Ingersoll, have commended her artistic attainment in eulogistic terms. But among all the tokens of admiration which have come to her hands she prizes none so highly as those from the great ones of her own profession. Their training and exprises make them the on aer own profession. Their training and expricace make them the critics of critics, and nothing can be sweeter or more reliable than their unsolicited praise. Madam Bernhardt wrote — "Without question you are the Viola of Violas." Mary Anderson, after witnessing a per-formance of "Twellth Night," call-ed on Miss Wainwright in her dressed on Miss Wainwright in her dressing room and said to her — "I am jealous of your Viola. If some good fairy bade me wish, and promised to realize my wish, my wish would beplease give me the grace and ability to play Viola as well as Marie Wainwright plays the part." Edwin Booth wrote to her — "I consider your Viola in "Twelfth Night' an artistic gem of the purest water. You make Viola a living, breathing, human and humane being." In an interview, Lawrence Barret said — "Marie WainWright as Viola in 'Twelfth Night' has caught the real Shakespearean spirit. The music of her voice is as beautiful as the melody of the Shakespearean roetry, and the spirit of her spearean roetry, and the spirit of her reading and the rhythm of her elocu-tion is as fraught with meaning and beauty as Shakespearean thought."

"The Mummy and the Humming Bird," the sparkling and amusing comedy that scored such a remark-able success in London and New York, as well as in nearly every part of the civilized world, comes to this city in the near future, and Manager Jules the near future, and Manager Jules Murry, not content with the knowledge that he has one of the greatest plays ever written, has formed a company that is so perfect that the auditor in witnessing their interpretation of this charming comedy is ready to believe that it is not acting, but that the beautiful story is occurring before his very eyes.
