We do not hold ourselves responsible for the

It Doesn't Rain—It Pours.

To the Editor of The Signal.
Sir—Dean Ramsay tells the following story of an old Scotch minister, who in a very wet season was praying earnestly for dry weather when, hearing the rain rattling on the roof, he cried out, rain on, rain on, rain on, Lord, spoil a' the pair folk's corn, as ye'll hae muckle credit o' your handiwork. Now, Sir, might we not pray the above for the benefit of our town rulers, (for this has been a worse year for Goderich than any wet season could have been) in this way, "Gang on, gang on, gude lords; add bit by bit to the public expenses, never mind where the ends'll be, dig deeply into the pair people's pouches until the first of January, and then ye'll maybe get muckle credit for your handiwork."
