

WHY IS IT

that chronic skin diseases which have defied all other treatments yield to Zam-Buk?

It is because Zam-Buk is germicidal, and also has such power of penetration that it reaches disease in the underlying tissues and cures from the "root" up. That is the only way a permanent cure can be effected.

Mr. H. C. Buckley of 461 E. Broadway, Portland, Oregon, says: "For chronic skin diseases there is nothing like Zam-Buk. For fifteen years I had eczema, and I tried an endless number of so-called 'eczema cures,' but nothing was capable of curing me permanently until I used Zam-Buk. Ten months' use of Zam-Buk has effected a complete cure."

For ulcers, abscesses, boils, ringworm, blood-poisoning, piles, burns, scalds and cuts, Zam-Buk is equally good. All dealers or Zam-Buk Co., Toronto. 50c box, $ for $1.25.

Via Italy.

The news from Russia does not make cheerful reading. The issue joined between Kerensky and Korniloff may too easily become one between the army, or a large part of it, and the Government, in other words, civil war. It is for Kerensky the hour of supreme trial. The Allies the world over will pray that he emerge from it victorious, confirmed in power and in the confidence of the people. But it seems more than ever hopeless to expect any effort of worth from a country in such a condition.

It is more pleasant to turn from that gloomy prospect to the remarkable events on the Italian front. We say remarkable, because the achievements of our Allies there and the bitter fierceness of the struggle in the mountain passes are such even in a war like this, and because possibilities are beginning to emerge from that struggle which, realised, may transform the whole character of the war. The situation recalls to our mind a prophecy we read some time ago and which, but for one peculiar feature, we should have forgotten as soon as read. It professed to be the prediction of a seer who lived a few centuries ago, and was similar to a hundred of other prophecies in the marvellous accuracy with which it foretold what had already happened. But it differed in one bold respect from all the rest—it saw the end of the war brought about by Italy (designated in the usual symbolic but clear manner) or at any rate from that quarter. This was as highly conjectural six months at six centuries ago, but it is realised there is a modern Cagliostro somewhere.

It now seems as likely as not that it will be realised. Something entirely new has happened in the war. England and France have had their eyes opened and it is a taciturn, unassertive Italian general that has opened them. A short time ago it was announced that the Russian collapse and the Italian success had influenced the Allies to change their entire plans for the fall and winter, and that a military conference would shortly be held in Paris to effect the change in all its details. This, the New York Times thinks, can only mean that the plans are to centre around Austria. That paper goes on to show that the other Allies have given Italy hitherto a half-hearted, sceptical assistance, believing their ambitions to include nothing more than the recovery of Trieste and Istria. Cadorna, who had quietly gone about his business for two years and deviated not an inch from his first settled purpose, has at last furnished his unimaginative Allies with a possible key of the whole war situation, and shown how much larger that purpose is than was supposed by the rest of the world. The following quotation from the Times will explain what it is:

"Cadorna is striking in two directions at once, south and north, toward Trieste and toward Kigenfurt."

"toward Vienna," as the latter direction is sometimes called, in the sense that if there were nothing in the way he would proceed from Kigenfurt to Vienna. In his northern movement, he is gradually mastering the Bainsizza Plateau. When he has that plateau in his possession he can descend from it into the Chiapovano Valley, and when he gets there he will be able to strike between two wings of the Austrian army and separate them. That will leave their flanks in the air, and he can turn on either or both and roll them up.

"If Cadorna does that, the description of his northern movement as 'toward Vienna' will cease to be merely geographical and become military. In other words, his objective at present appears to be neither Kigenfurt nor Trieste, but the Austrian Army, and he seems to be working to encompass its destruction as a military force. It is a vast objective than any that any allied commander has aimed at since the war began. If he can break through the Austrian Army in the Chiapovano Valley and then turn on and defeat its separate wings, Italy can begin a campaign that has Vienna for its object."

There is after all nothing preposterous in such a project. It has not been seriously considered before because the great mountain doors that barred Italy from Austria were supposed to be impassable and impregnable. Italy has blasted them open. The changed plans of the Allies are simple and feasible enough. They will continue the unrelenting pressure upon Germany, in France and Belgium, diverting to Italy only great stores of ammunition, parks of artillery and tons of coal. With these strengthened and renewed, Italy can use her magnificent army to the last man, making it the van of the Allies. It fights everywhere on enemy territory, and that counts for much. It aims at the most vulnerable spot, the weakest defence, that the enemy offers. Assuredly we will hear much about peace before Christmas. And most of what we hear will have its origin in Austria.

Belgian Relief Ship Ashore Near Cape.

The S. S. Ebuuron, Captain Delglace, bound from New York to Rotterdam with a general cargo, is ashore at Portugal Cove, Trepassey Bay, near Cape Race, and her chances of being refloated are slim.

Messages were received by Messrs. Bowring Brothers, Ltd., the Furness Withy Co., Deputy Minister of Customs LeMessurier and others telling of the condition of the stranded vessel. Her general cargo is known to consist principally of sugar and tinned meats. The Customs Authorities received this message from Portugal Cove last night:—
"S.S. Ebuuron, Captain Delglace, Belgian relief ship from New York bound to Rotterdam with general cargo, ran ashore at Portugal Cove at 2.30 p.m. Crew landed. Ship full of water; will likely become a total loss; heavy sea on."

The Belgian steamer is 1,722 tons gross and 1,145 nett.

Vessels Torpedoed.

The Furness Withy Company have received word that the S. S. Haakon VII., a Norwegian built vessel of 2,175 tons gross, 1,373 nett and 10 years old, has been torpedoed. She had been chartered by local parties to load fish.

The schr. Minas Queen, which is mentioned in a despatch this morning as having been torpedoed, was practically new and was owned by Job Bros. & Co. of New York.

Bay de Verde Notes.

The fishery up to date is fairly good. The trap voyage here ended last week in August. About 100 codtraps prosecuted the fishery and of this number about 80 secured fairly good voyages and ten remarkably well; the remainder secured poor voyages. Some of our trappers made a mistake in hauling for higher catches than they have and your correspondent is under the impression that this season's catch has been exaggerated and that the voyage will be far behind what is counted.

Since the trapping ended very little has been done with hook and line notwithstanding that squid is abundant. Motor boats are every day prosecuting the fishery and report a great scarcity of cod on the ground. The Gorton Pew Co. are purchasing fish here at $9.50 a qtl. for tal qual. This enterprising company is also buying fish at Lower Island and several other places in the district. The Business Profits Tax is strongly condemned here and the people consider it unfair to tax merchants and permit lawyers and others with large incomes to go scot free.

We want more fish exporters in the country, and Morris and Coaker's Business Profits Tax will not gain them popular approval.

The Coalition Government is strongly denounced here. The spectacle of Coaker and Crosbie arm-in-arm is enough to make Angels weep. It is indeed time for a change.

The only hope for the country is in a new government with a new leader, one who cannot be purchased, and people are wishing for Sir Robert Bond, the man who can be trusted to lead a party to victory.

The country is tired of Morris and Coaker and we want Sir R. Bond to come to the front again, and we believe that if he can be induced to re-enter public life his party will sweep the country.

THE KORNILOFF

PETROGRAD.
Concerning the dismissal of General Korniloff, the Ministers of the War have refused to make a statement, but the Associated Press has collected the main facts. On Saturday afternoon, Korniloff had inspected Russian soldiers from Deputy Lvoff called him and demanded an explanation of his mission. Korniloff's mission was to receive Lvoff, but he declared he had some of Korniloff's agents on the surrender of the Korniloff's hands. Lvoff said did not emanate from him but was supported by military workers, mentioning the action of Duma and industrial interests and of officers, which had caused opposition at the station at Moscow. The group did not object to Korniloff, but demanded that the portfolio of war be transferred to Lvoff. Lvoff said: "We invite you to come to me and meet General Korniloff."
