ITALIAN RESISTANCE STRONG.

ROME, Nov. 18.

Further attempts by the enemy to force a crossing of the Piave River were frustrated by the Italians yesterday, and in brilliant counter attacks the Austro-German forces which previously had gained a footing on the west bank in the Pagare zone were completely swept out of this area, the war office announced today. The text of the situation reads: On the Asiago plateau on the night of Nov. 16th, the enemy trying to force our line from Monte Sisoni to Monte Costel Gome, attacked in the direction of Monte Zomo, east of Gallo. The attack was operated four times with violence, but was completely broken up by the gallant Lieugera brigade. More to the north in the direction of Casera and Meletta Davanta our parties of the Perugia brigade retook with great courage some advanced elements lost during the previous days, capturing about 100 prisoners. Between Brenta and the Piave enemy pressure has been increasing from the evening of the 16th, and masses of the enemy obliged our troops at some points not to prolong their defence at some advanced positions which have been abandoned in orderly withdrawal.

after fierce resistance and brilliant counter attacks. North of Quero the Come brigade has again shown its valor. Yesterday along the Piave parties of the Cosetta brigade, together with elements of other units in an irresistible advance completely swept the enemy from the Pagare zone, and the Spinerole brigade repulsed with great loss for the enemy an attack attempted by the troops closed in at Zeenson, driving them further back into the loop of the river. Attempts to cross the river carried out at other places were promptly frustrated.

ITALIAN LINES STILL HOLDING.

Italian Headquarters, Nov. 18.—An Associated Press cable says the Austro-Germans made furious attempts to break the Italian line and cross the Piave River at two points, but were annihilated at one point and driven back at another. The Italian lines are holding, but the situation is grave.

ITALIAN NAVY ASSISTING.

Italian Headquarters in Northern Italy, Nov. 18.—The bombardment of Italian naval guns could be heard distinctly here this morning, showing that the Navy as well as the Army was doing its share. The fire of the naval guns was directed against the enemy positions on the Lower Piave. Reports received during the early hours continued to be favorable. The inundated section between the Piave and Sile Rivers effectively holds the enemy at most easterly points and for fifteen miles on the west bank of the Piave. The flooded section covers about seventy square miles and water is from one foot to five feet deep making it impossible of occupation or movement of enemy troops. While this section is blocked by water the enemy still clings to the west bank at Zeenson, but they are crowded into a small U-shaped position and are relying on their batteries across the river to keep the Italians back. Austro-German efforts to bring over large forces by pontoons have not succeeded, according to latest reports either at Zeenson or at points further north, where the invaders are feeling their way toward getting across. Enemy air raiders were seen flying over the Italian headquarters early to-day. The batteries fired on them but the craft got away.

KERENSKY HAS DISAPPEARED.

PETROGRAD, Nov. 18. Deserted by most of the officers and virtually ordered to surrender to the Bolsheviks, Premier Kerensky evaded the guards sent for him and has disappeared. General Dukhanin has resumed temporarily the post of Commander in Chief of the Kerensky forces recently defeated at Tzarke Sioe. General Karasnoff, former commander under Kerensky, who was arrested with other members of the Premier's staff, has been released on the ground that he was only obeying orders of his superior. General Karasnoff's report concerning the disappearance of Kerensky confirms that he fled under disguise. Kerensky when told that his officers were against him and that his men were on the point of deserting agreed to come to Petrograd, but while a guard was being arranged he dropped out of sight. "At three o'clock on the afternoon of Nov. 14th, I called at headquarters of the Commander in Chief," said Karasnoff. "He appeared nervous and excited. General," said he, "you have betrayed me, your Cossacks say they will arrest me and give me up to the sailors." Yes, I answered, such a discussion is now going on; there appears to be little sympathy for you. "Do the officers feel the same way?" he asked. Yes. "What shall I do, will I have to commit suicide?" If you are an honest man you will go to Petrograd and appear before the revolutionary committee where you will negotiate as the head of the Government. Kerensky agreed to this and he was promised a guard. He objected to a guard of soldiers on the ground that some enemies were among them. He wanted to wait until night, but finally agreed to make the trip by daylight. He went and called Colonel Kishkoff of the 10th Don Cossacks and ordered him to appoint a guard of eight men. A half hour later the Cossacks told me that Kerensky could not be found. I raised the alarm thinking that he could not have left Gatchina. M. Bilenke, member of the Committee on War and Marine, has reported to the Workmen's and Soldiers' Congress that Kerensky fled garbed in a sailor's uniform. Before Kerensky's flight Bilenke said he talked to the Cossacks, and found they were willing to come to an agreement with the Maximalists, only the officers being opposed. He said that he had promised the Cossacks that they would be released and possibly be allowed to retain their mounts and to return to the Don region. Bilenke denied that Michael Romanoff, former Grand Duke Michael Alexandrovich, was with Kerensky, he denied also that General Korniloff had escaped from prison."

NO SYMPATHY FOR KERENSKY.

LONDON, Nov. 17.

Nowhere throughout a journey from the Caucasus to Petrograd did a correspondent of the Daily Telegraph hear a word of sympathy for Kerensky. The educated passengers he met, he says in a despatch sent from Petrograd on Monday, were infuriated at Kerensky's laxity in permitting the Bolshevik agitation and the soldiers were indignant that the Premier was unable to maintain authority and order.

THE RUSSIAN SITUATION.

PETROGRAD, Nov. 18.

Peace has been declared in Moscow with victory for the Bolsheviks. The White Guard has been disbanded, also the Military Cadets. Cossacks are, however, reported making progress north, and the Bolsheviks are in a panic, while it is reported a corps of mixed troops from the southwest front en route to Petrograd intent on

BRITISH SHIPS CHASING ENEMY.

LONDON, Nov. 17.

British light cruisers to-day engaged German light cruisers off Heligoland, the British Admiralty announced. The German warships retired and the British forces are now chasing them.

The German light cruisers which fled through Heligoland Bay yesterday before British warships of similar type were pursued to within thirty miles of Heligoland where they came under the protection of the German battle fleet and mine fields. The Admiralty announced one of the light cruisers was observed to be in flames and the machinery of another apparently damaged, while one German mine sweeper was sunk. The British light forces returned without losses, having suffered but little damage to the ships and slight casualties among the personnel.

A strong British naval force for the first time since early in the war attempted to break into the German Bight of Heligoland yesterday, says a Berlin despatch to-day, quoting the official statement dated Saturday. The British were engaged by German guard ships on the Horn Reef, about sixty miles from Heligoland Island. It is declared there were no losses on the German side.

ARTILLERY DUEL.

LONDON, Nov. 18.

An artillery duel of considerable intensity is in progress on the Flanders front, according to to-day's war office statement. The only infantry operation mentioned was a trench raid near Monchy, in the Arras sector.

BRITISH OFFICIAL.

LONDON, Nov. 17.

A successful operation was carried out late yesterday evening by detachments from the Highland, Berkshire and Lancashire battalions in the vicinity of Passchendaele. Further portions of the enemy's defences of the main ridge north of the village, including a strongly fortified farm, were captured by us. We also took a number of prisoners. West of this locality, also, we have advanced our lines slightly at certain points. The enemy's artillery has again been active throughout the night on the battlefield. The German shelling has been particularly severe in the Passchendaele sector.

GROUND CONSOLIDATED.

The various official reports from British headquarters in Flanders state that the ground captured by us last night north and northwest of Passchendaele has been consolidated. The hostile artillery has again shown considerable activity east and north-east of Ypres. Highland troops carried out a successful raid this morning south of the Scarpe River.

MORE CRITICISM.

LONDON, Nov. 17.

The military correspondent of the Times referring to Premier Lloyd George's recent speech in Paris, says: When the Premier narrates the follies of his British and foreign colleagues and lays the responsibility for Allied misfortunes on them while forgetting his own share in these transactions, it becomes necessary to speak out. The writer then examines separately some of the Premier's assertions to show that the Government of which Lloyd George is a member is responsible for the failures which he pilloried in Paris. The writer asserts among other things, "The British army virtually was placed under General Nivelle, former French Commander, at the Calais conference by Premier Lloyd George without consulting the soldier beforehand. Our losses in the later stages of the Arras Battle were due to our loyal efforts to take a strain off General Nivelle and the tardy opening of our Flanders offensive was due to the delay caused by this. After commenting adversely on the Premier's reference to Russian and Italian campaigns, the writer says, "It would have been better had Lloyd George adhered to the facts."
