Kirk Christmas Fair.

OPENED BY LADY ALLARDYCE.

The Kirk Christmas Fair, held under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid and the Young Ladies Guild of St. Andrews Church was formally opened at 3 p.m. yesterday in the Presbyterian Hall by Lady Allardyce, who was accompanied by Miss Viti Allardyce and Capt. Wilberforce Bell, M.C. The presidents of the various societies received the party, after which the guests were introduced by Rev. R. J. Power, pastor of the church. Lady Allardyce in a very happy speech wished the ladies a full measure of success and wished to make it known that whenever her services were required to help at any affair she was most willing to oblige. The fair was then declared open and a brisk business was conducted throughout the whole afternoon. A large number of visitors were present. The Hall presented a very pleasing appearance, the decorations, coupled with the general excellence and beauty of the stalls adding greatly to the other attractions. The following is the list of stalls and holders

During the afternoon teas wer served by the Young Ladies' Guild. while at night hot partridge suppers were served by the Ladies' Aid assisted by the Guild. The teas and supper were largely patronized, a goodly sum having been realized in this connec tion. Messrs. Hector Ross and J. W. Morris erected a miniature shooting gallery in the gymnasium of the building and keen interest prevailed amongst many former members of the regiment who tried their skill at the target. Many fine scores were made, and a prize was awarded to the highest individual scorer. The proceeds which will be devoted to church funds were away beyond expectation and the ladies in charge are very well pleased with results. The sale will be con tinued this afternoon at 3.30.

THREE LITTLE MAIDS FROM RE-FORM SCHOOL.

"The Blonde, the Brunette and the Hungry One" was the way the Bebe Daniels Company designated three girls employed in nameless roles for the star's latest picture, "One Wild Week" which opens to-night at the Nickel Theatre.

"The Blonde" is Charlotte Pierce, a pretty young girl who is getting better parts in every picture in which she appears

Standing, daughter of Herbert Standing, who plays Judge Bancroft in the same picture. If heredity and envir orment count for anything. Jos should become a good actress for no only is her father notable in the field but she has several brothers, all act on recognized for their ability. As a final touch, she looks like Connie Talmadge.

"The Hungry One" is Blanche Fason, who has played many roles calling for the statuesque or Amazonia: type of woman. She was the policewe man on the concession street at the San Francisco Exposition, whence she come to Southern California and boger her apprenticeship in screen comedr, where so many present-day stars "got their start."
