London Adbertiser. (ESTABLISHED 1863.)

FOUNDER AND John Cameron, London, Tuesday, June 28, 1898.

First Aid in Electric Railway Accidents. As an outcome of the recent accident on the London electric railway, it has been suggested that the conductor or motorman, or both of these officials, should have some practical knowledge of how best to deal with persons who are hurt. It has been proved that ordinarily the employes of the electric railway company are careful men, and that they do everything within their power to avoid accidents of every kind; but it has been demonstrated that in this city, as well as in other places, no matter with how great care these rapid transit facilities may be carried out, accidents are bound to happen. Therefore, it is much to be desired that those in charge of the cars should at least possess the elementary knowledge, to give reasonable care to the injured until such time as medical aid and the ambulance can be summoned. Take the case of a person who has been severely injured, and is losing much blood. His life is in great Jeopardy, yet it may be saved if the flow can even in a measure be stopped till the doctor arrives. A simple These aids could be carried in every car, and the information how to use difficult to communicate or to retain. Advantageous for one or both of the

An extraordinary suit to recover $50,-000 of life insurance from the Mutual Life Insurance Company of New York Queen's Bench Division of the High Court of Justice on May 25, 26 and 27. An adjournment was then taken until June 10, as the judge had to go on circuit outside of London. Upon his return, on the 10th inst., counsel summed up the case and it was submitted to the jury, who found for the insurance company after an absence from the courtroom of only a quarter

There was much that was mysterious about the alleged death of the man for the insurance on whose life the suit experience of difficulty, in making laws was brought. In March, 1896, the Mutual Life Insurance Company of New York insured the life of Thomas Johncompany at the time that he had never a "place" is, and now the London made any application for insurance on County Council is obliged to ask legal his life which had not been granted. It turned out subsequently, however, The council recently summoned a man without success, to procure insurance against fatal accidents, and that it was not until he found himself unable to obtain this cheaper form of policy that he took out the life policy in the 1896, Thomas Johnson, being thus insured, went with his brother Henry Johnson for a summer holiday to the isle of Man. On the 23rd of July the brothers took a boat at Port Erin and rowed off in the direction of a precipi-Bradda Head. Thomas Johnson has never been seen since. Henry Johnson was discovered by some boatmen later in the day on a rock swept by the sea at the foot of the headland, in an exhausted condition, with the boat floating full of water at a short distance. He declared that when he and Thomas were turning the boat in the choppy sea which was running the craft gave a sudden pitch which threw him overboard, and that when he came to the surface his brother had disappeared and must have been drowned. A very careful search was made, but no body was ever found.

The contention of the defense was that the story of the accident was a pure fiction; that Thomas Johnson had provided himself with a false beard and other means of disguise; that he had made himself familiar with the comparatively unfrequented neighborhood of Bradda Head as a locality well adapted to the scheme he had in hand; that his brother landed him safely at In many places the corn was washed the foot of the cliff, and that he climbed to the summit up a disured and comewhat dangerous pathway, con- crops. The hay was beaten to the structed by miners many years ago, ground, and as it is ready to cut there and thence proceeded to some safe spot, where he awaited in secrecy the result of his brother's attempt to get the £10,- it was so lodged that it will be almost 000 life insurance out of the insurance

This representation of what occurred, a total loss. The spring crops were not were it founded on sect, presented an extraordinary plot to get ahead of the company. The evidence, indeed, affords strong presumption that the jury; of the ground. Tobacco did not escape, reached a reasonable conclusion when they held that the company was not hable for the money. Sir Robert Reid, ding counsel for the defense. ested a great portion of his case on mich facts as the per "at attempts to obtain accident insurance instead of plain life insurance. Then the purchase of the false beard by the incured was proved by a disinterested witness, and no satisfactory reason for such a purchase was offered by way of explanation. The singular attraction which Bradda Head seemed to have for the two brothers was also a mysterious feature of the case. If the verdict given in this case is just, as we presume it is, all honest insurers will rejoice. It is in their interest, as well as in that of the companies doing business, that every attempt to obtain insurance money by fraudulent means should be thwarted.

Favors the Alliance.

Mr. Flower, the well-known writer, brings to the discussion the strength and forceful method of presentation which has done so much towards placing him among the most popular critics of present-day problems. He takes a strong position in favor of the proposed alliance, holding that both social conditions and the republican ideal of government will be greatly advanced by such a union. He points out the fact that continental Europe, not excepting France, is under a spell to account, may save a valuable life of Absoluteism, while Britain and the and materially alleviate suffering. United States stand essentially for Mr. Daniel Capling, of Shakespeare. popular sovereignty and free governthem in an emergency would not be that Britain is monarchical, and asks some knotty questions which will not please the trust magnates and the exgar continue, with greater or less fre- ploiters of United States citizens, who quency, it would certainly be highly divert attention from the centralizing and despotic tendencies of government employes on each car to be equipped when dominated by the corporations by crying Republic! Republic! as did the Medici family in mediaeval Florence when that republic was being enslaved. He shows also that in some respects the sovereign of Britain is less powerful than the President of the United States, while he points out how steady during the last 50 years has been the course of Britain toward freer government, while in may ways the States has retrograded. He urges that not se were such that the jury must only Democrats and Republicans but have believed that the claim was fic- also Socialists and the Irish should titious and that the insured person seek to promote such a union, if for no other motive than those of self-interpoint to the desirability of the alli-

Throat lined with Ulcers

A Young Lady Cured of Long Standing Catarrh and Catarrhal Sore Throat by Dr. Chase's Catarrh Cure.

Miss Anna A. Howey, of Eden, Ont., says that she suffered from Catarrh for ten years, used a number of remedies advertised, but was always disappointed in the result. Last fall she suffered intense pain in her head and her throat was lined with ulcers. The doctors called it Catarrhal Sore Throat, but did not cure it. She saw that Dr. Chase's Catarrh Cure was being highly recommended, so procured a box from C. Thomson, druggist, Tilsonburg, Ont., and commenced its use. Soon the ulcers cleared away from her threat, the pain in her head ceased. She says that Dr. Chase's Catarrh Cure does not cause distress or sneezing when being used, and is the most effective catarrh remedy she ever tried.

Mr. J. D. Phillips, a Justice of the Peace, declares that he knows Miss Howey and her mother, and can vouch for the truthfulness of her statements. Dr. Chase's Catarrh Cure, sold by all Dealers. Price 25 cents, complete with blower.
