Comox Schools.

Comox, March 8th; 1871. EDITOR BRITISH COLOSIST.—A public meeting was held here on the 6th inst, at the instance of the Local School Board, to consider in what manner the funds necessary to support the school for the year 1871 were to be obtains

Owing to the unsatisfactory results of the oluntary subscription system as practised in 870, it way moved that a tax of two dollars per head be collected from each male resident above the age of twenty years...

Against this an amendment was moved that the fund be raised by subscription and school fees, which amendment was carried by a majority of three.

It is feared that this will have a disastrous effect upon the school because the manner in which the appointment of a schoolmaster was effected, the one casting the blame on the other and the refusal of the Local Board to produce the correspondence on the subject, although asked for it at two public meetings, together with the total inadequacy of the present senool system to meet the wants and wishes of the settlers, have so disgusted the majority of the people that they refuse longer to coun
