The following young gentlemen have passed their final examination for barbers and solicitors:—Without an A. President, H. H. Collier. Without an A. President, J. D. Robertson, J. Douglas, J. A. Hinesham, J. W. Saunders, W. T. Allan, W. D. Innes, E. Wald, T. B. Bunting, W. F. Sorley, J. N. D. F. M. R. Waddell, T. J. Deane, D. F. M. R. Arch, F. Lawrence, Geo. Weir.

To-day the Bon Marche will show a lot of handsome colored feathers, wings, birds, in all the latest styles and will be sold very low.

The sisterhood concert.

A very large and fashionable audience attended the concert in Shaftesbury hall last night in aid of the church of England sisterhood of St. John the Divine. The program was more than ordinary. It was most interesting and well received. Miss McCutcheon, whose brilliancy of execution is well known, played two piano solos, including the Danco, Weber-Tanis and Rhapsodie Hongroise. Miss Howard of Millbrook sang Ave Maria by Dudley Buck and El Barocio, Arditi. This young lady has a powerful voice of considerable compass and her solos were pleasingly rendered. One of the most attractive numbers on the program was the duet 'Mocking Bird' by Mrs. Caldwell and Mrs. Frank Mackenzie of Hamilton. Mrs. Mackenzie's beautiful rich and clear contralto voice was used with great care and taste, while Mrs. Caldwell sang the difficult soprano part with wonderful vivacity and sweetness. Her bird-like voice being especially fine in the upper staccato notes. She ended by taking high F sharp in the 'Mocking Bird' and her appearance was most brilliant. Mrs. Mackenzie gave a descriptive rendition of the well-known piece which she received a hearty encore and also a beautiful floral tribute. Miss Hillary's solo, 'Light in Darkness' and a beautiful vocal solo, 'The Song of the Lark' were also appreciated. Mrs. Adams sang two violin solos in her usual graceful and accurate manner. Her playing was well rendered by Capt. Geddes and Mr. Fraser, and Messrs. Stuart and Wild of Hamilton. F. G. Plumber was painstaking as the accompanist.

Competition for the Cumberland Cup.

The final competition for the Cumberland Cup took place last night at the army between D. E. G. and A. companies of the Grenadiers. The companies competed in the above order, and the movements were executed in a splendid manner, a great improvement being noticeable in the performance of the previous evening. The companies last night had plainly taken notes of the mistakes made on Tuesday, and accordingly, D. and G. companies for the first place. Both went through the manoeuvres in a manner that seemed to reflect credit on D. company. The manual and firing exercise of D. company could not be excelled, while the wheeling and drilling of G. was superb. Both companies were able to make the returns known for a day or two. The major draw forth remarks of a highly competent officer, both for his smart drill and perfect fairness in handling the different companies, and received three rousing cheers from the men present on his leaving the army.

The Fancy Fair. The work of preparation for the fancy fair in aid of the house of providence next week is progressing favorably. A large meeting was held in St. John's hall last night. The hall is going to be transformed completely. The seats are all removed and the platform taken down, as it is no longer to be used as a church, but as a charitable institution. The Toronto Electric Light Company is furnishing a couple of lights gratuitously, and the city men are supplying the electric power as called for. Two bands have offered their services, and the good things either to wear or eat are sent in abundantly. The route people are generous towards the house of providence.

Organ Recital at St. James' Cathedral.

Dr. Davies, organist of the cathedral, gave his second recital last night before an audience far too small considering the merits of the program. The selections, although not so familiar, were varied and most attractive, and in the execution of the different numbers the doctor left no doubt as to his ability as an organist. The recital was held in the cathedral, and was most successful. The selections were varied and most attractive, and in the execution of the different numbers the doctor left no doubt as to his ability as an organist.

DISASTER ON EXEMPTIONS.

All Property Benefitted by the Municipal Government Should Pay Taxes.

With the general question of municipal government comes up the special question of exemptions in Toronto. No fair title to exemption can be pleaded on behalf of any property which services are rendered by the municipal government. A church, a monastery, or a government office benefits by the paving, watching, lighting, draining, and securities against fire just as much as any other building, and ought, like those of any other, to receive the tax for that which they receive. The fact that religious buildings ought not to be taxed is a survival from the days of established churches. It has been a spiritual source, its foundation, like those of men, who is a spiritual being, as in the case. She has material world, and is concerned with this world's affairs, and must pay the tax as a citizen. Lower prices for the materials, nor does the mortgage charge a lower rate of interest on his mortgage. The plea that, as every citizen belongs to a church, it comes practically to the same thing whether church or not, and therefore to property which is not a church is not a church. The fact that a church is a church, and not a citizen, does not exempt it from the tax. The fact that a church is a church, and not a citizen, does not exempt it from the tax. The fact that a church is a church, and not a citizen, does not exempt it from the tax.
