

(1) Topics in Geography. By W. F. Nichols. (2) Teacher's Manual in Geography. By J. W. Redway. (Boston: D. C. Heath & Co.)—If there is not a great improvement in teaching and learning geography, it is not because there are not many new and good books issued on the subject. The "Teachers' Manual" gives a good deal of information, corrects many popular errors, etc. The "Topics" is a practical book to aid teachers in class work as to what to teach and to leave out, how to present the subject, etc.

Hydrostatics for Beginners. By J. W. Sanderson, M.A. (London: Macmillan & Co., and New York.)—This subject is now being taught so largely in the laboratory that text-books intended only for the class-room are partially unsuitable for use at present. Mr. Sanderson's work has many merits, and is evidently a valuable text-book, being the work of a practical and successful teacher.

The New Zealand Public School Copy Book. Nos. 1-12. (Christchurch: Whitcombe & Tombs.)—An excellent series of copy books, after the model of the English round hand copy books. They are for Standards I.-VI., two numbers for each standard, and are very suitable for use in schools.

Notes of Lessons for Young Teachers. By John Taylor. 50 cents. (Boston: Boston School Supply Co.)—A manual containing advice and information for those entering the teaching profession. The suggestions and hints as to manner, tact, preparing a lesson, and other points are practical and sound.
