tration be let into this place of public resort. If we cannot make the public service godly let us make it at least clean.

So the "Star" has joined the up-town procession. This is progress and a sign of the times. They have secured too, probably the best corner in the city, and their bulletins from this time on will be a feature of the afternoons and evenings at that busy corner. This will become of practical value to all the retail men in that vicinity for wherever the crowd is gathered together, there the harvest of trade is reaped.

The Grand Trunk people are gradually settling down to their bearings and casting anchor on the predestined spot at the foot of McGill street. They are still asking for more than they are entitled to and more than they expect to get, but they must not be blamed for that. They have been brought up that way.

We are receiving numerous inquiries regarding the large bodies of Americans supposed to be pouring into Montreal and the surrounding country from the threatened sea coast to the south of us. We can only say that these panic stricken hosts have not yet shown up in our office as apparently they have in the office, of a friendly competitor who is vigorously advertising for quarters to accommodate them. We have thus far been able to supply the demand for furnished houses both for home and foreign consumption. Whether we shall be able to do so when the mysterious Spanish fleet appears off the coast remains to be seen.

How little we hear of the Yukon and the Chilcoot pass and the Edmonton route now-a-days! and yet probably more lives may be lost in this struggle with nature than in
