

MacLaren Releases 1994 Register of U.S. Barriers to Trade

March 31, 1994, No. 64

The Minister for International Trade, the Honourable Roy MacLaren, released the Register of United States Barriers to Trade. "Canada and the United States share the world's largest trading relationship," Mr. MacLaren said. "This relationship has been enhanced by reducing or eliminating trade barriers under bilateral and multilateral trade agreements. The Register provides examples of remaining barriers that Canadian companies continue to face." The publication is an illustrative list of barriers to the free flow of goods, services and investment into the United States from Canada. Examples of these barriers are found in U.S. subsidy practices, unilateral trade remedy practices, government procurement and domestic preference laws, customs and administrative procedures, and technical and regulatory practices. The Register of United States Barriers to Trade also summarizes Canadian responses to specific U.S. trade actions or barriers. "We will continue to work to eliminate or reduce U.S. barriers to trade through negotiations and through effective use of dispute-settlement procedures under the NAFTA [North American Free Trade Agreement] and the GATT [General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade]," Mr. MacLaren said. The Register of United States Barriers to Trade may be obtained by contacting the Department of Foreign Affairs and International Trade's InfoCentre at 1-800-267-8376 (toll-free) or, in the Ottawa area, at 944-4000. Requests by facsimile can be directed to (613) 996-9709.
