

MRS. STOWE'S RECENT BOOKS.

Among the writers of fiction there is no single name that stands higher than that of Mrs. Stowe, as one whose style is always fresh, attractive, and charming, whose wit and humour are genuine, whose depiction of human nature is apt and true, and the atmosphere of whose writings is invariably wholesome, clean, stimulating to the moral sense. The following books from her pen may be had of all booksellers ; or, if not, will be mailed, post paid, to any address on receipt of the price, by
