MONDAY MORNING, SEPT. 19, 1910.
NORTH TORONTO WILL REQUIRE TO WATCH.

The various Toronto public utilities corporations are making strenuous efforts to tie up North Toronto now that there is a prospect of the town becoming part of the city. As the developments appear at present, there are two electric light companies endeavoring to get contracts with the town, while the Consumers' Gas Company is also entering on the scene to get a grip on the municipality before the city has a chance to arrange matters for the district.

It is also to be noted that one North Toronto citizen and one resident of Deer Park have made application to the railway and municipal board in connection with the Metropolitan Railway, asking that the railway board order the company to provide proper passenger transportation on Yonge-street. Something will require to be known in regard to the action of these two individuals before the object of their movement can be ascertained.

While the transportation facilities of the Metropolitan Railway are true, the answer that the Metropolitan Company will make to the application is that relief can be only had by means of a double track on Yonge-street. The Railway Board has tried in several ways to get a stronger grip on the main highway out of the City of Toronto, and there are grounds for supposing that this new movement before the railway board is part of the plan adopted for that purpose.

If North Toronto is not being properly treated in the matter of transportation by the radial railway, any action that is wanted should be taken by the people's representatives, the North Toronto Council, and it should not be left to private citizens to bring the matter before the railway board for adjustment. In a few days the residents of Deer Park will make representations to the city council regarding the grievances under which the Deer Park people are suffering and with the installation of the subway at the C. P. R. crossing will come a good possibility for the city system to be operated at least as far as Mount Pleasant Cemetery.

North Toronto must keep inviolate the right it now holds of restraining the Metropolitan Railway from having more than one track on the Yonge-street highway, until the people of the northern suburb are served with a one fare service between the town and the city, and that will be soon.

WINDSOR ELECTRIC POWER.

In the discussion of the Windsor power question next Thursday at London, after which the representatives of the Union of Municipalities will give their decision, it will not doubt be clearly shown that the block of power which it is proposed Windsor should be permitted to dispose of to Detroit concerns is fully controlled by the hydro-electric commission for Ontario use when required.

Arrangements have been made by which the 14,000 horse-power which may be sold will always be available on short notice in convenient blocks. The power will be sold in Detroit at $45 per horse-power, while in Windsor it will be sold at about $22. Detroit will not therefore compete with Windsor. Nor will the power be sold to any new factories. It can only be disposed of to factories now in existence. This will prevent any claim being made in the nature of a vested right. Factories already established, which get the use of the power will not be unduly incommoded by its withdrawal.

The use of the power will reduce the price to all consumers in the union of municipalities which vote for the Windsor extension to the extent of two or three dollars according to location. The municipalities will therefore be benefited by Windsor's enterprise, if they co-operate in assisting it.

On the other hand if the municipalities refuse to share Windsor's partnership then it is probable the hydro-electric commission will deal with Windsor alone. In that case if Windsor sells the block of power at the proposed rates to Detroit, whatever power is needed on the Ontario side will be practically without cost to Windsor itself. This will enable the city to take a very favorable attitude towards her local industries, tho, of course, under the act constituting the commission, no bonus is permitted. Windsor, however, has certain lands which she has a right from the legislature to grant to manufacturers.

RETAILERS AND THE COST OF LIVING.
Protest is made by the Retail Merchants' Association of Canada against a cut which recently appeared in a Montreal contemporary suggesting that the high cost of living may be due to the prevalence of short weights and measures. This imputation, the association naturally resents, since one of the principal objects of its establishment was and is to secure honest goods and honest trading, and the elimination of evil methods in all branches of retail business. There is no reason to believe that fraud of this kind is common in Canada or that fair dealing among retail traders is less conspicuous than in other classes of the commercial community. The existence of an association which concerns itself with the maintenance of a high standard of honesty by its very large membership should satisfy the public that the high cost of living is not attributable to any general departure from the requirements of the law and the obligations of sound morals.

THE LETTER KILLETH.

There is something symbolically consistent in the action of the secretary of the Dominion Alliance forbidding a meeting of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew in a theatre on Sunday. Mayor Guerin of Montreal said the bylaw was never intended to apply to religious meetings, but the alliance, which depends on the letter of the law and not on the spirit for its aim in life, evidently had a different opinion. It may be true after all that the religion of some Protestants has no soul.

A DESERVED APPRECIATION.

In the twelve years during which Prof. John E. McDermiden has held the chair of Old Testament Literature and Exegesis he has steadily added year by year to a reputation already considerable when he came to Knox College, and this period of his development will always be honorably associated with the history of Canadian scholarship. The fact that in many respects Toronto afforded Prof. McDermiden a far from sympathetic environment will tend to make the less to add to the strength and the clarity of his thought. It was a notable compliment paid him on Friday evening when representatives of all the Protestant denominational colleges attended to express their appreciation of his gifts and attainments and their regret that Canada is not to have the honor and advantage of his continued residence. But it will not be forgotten that Knox College has thus furnished a successor to George Adam Smith at Glasgow, and Toronto will never lose her pride in the great scholar and devout teacher who so longed here, thru a time of increase and of spiritual power.

At least Inspector Rogers' graft was in the direction of cleanliness. As much cannot be said for some other parties. And this is no dirty insinuation either.

The Evening Telegram in its campaign for the promotion of spurious national anthems, is now advocating the performance of "God Save Ireland," which was written by an American during "the war," and is well known everywhere under its real name of "Tramp, Tramp, Tramp, the Boys are Marching!" Next!

ORGANIZED TO DISPENSE COURTESY.

Without discussing any controversial point, such as private ownership versus public ownership in any utility having dealings with The Toronto Electric Light Company must be impressed with the fact that the company is organized to extend every courtesy to the public. This may have been the spirit of the Toronto Electric Light Company since its beginning, but it is certainly its predominant characteristic to-day, as anyone coming in touch with the head office staff will readily agree.

Complaints are listened to with pleasing consideration, they are investigated and put right with all speed. If one has occasion to call at the head office on Adelaide-street he finds himself in a home-like institution, where the clerks and the office staff vie with one another in extending courtesies to customers. It is really refreshing.

The new management of the Toronto Electric Light Company, without any act of bluster, seems bound to meet the needs of the public, even to anticipate them. And that is good business, which no one will quarrel with. May its tribe increase.

An Example From France

The thrift of France is wonderful. It is the nation which has the enormous loss of the Franco-Prussian war, including payment of five billion francs as war indemnity, with no demoralization of trade and with hardly any depression of industry. Out of ten million French electors nine million have money in the bank or invested at interest, or own land. Everybody saves. In various savings institutions there are four million accounts for only twenty francs or less each, and the total number of all savings accounts reaches thirteen million. A million and a half small investors hold, probably, twenty billion francs of government bonds. Of twelve million French households, nine million own their own homes, paying no rent. The country holds over a hundred billion francs of domestic and foreign securities, and saves available for investment—two million francs a year.

The wheat and champagne crops in France have been failures this year. One effect of the failure of the wheat and champagne crops in France will be that instead of buying foreign securities, France for the next six months will have to sell some of its enormous holdings of foreign stocks and bonds. It is not likely that any American securities will come out, for they do not profit enough to justify their sale. But for a few months France is out of the market as a purchaser of American bonds and stocks, and $800,000,000 of money pressing for investment, and saving accumulate so rapidly that the present disturbance in a broad way is merely incidental.

The one drawback to France's greatness is her situation with respect to a generation there has been practically no increase in population. Of late the birth rate has been rather smaller than the death rate. Under modern conditions children are expensive; breeding them is not a thrifty undertaking. In other words, France is not having her cake and eat it, too; any more than we can.

MANY CASES OF INFECTION BUT COMPLAINTS SCARCE

Saturday's Session of Enquiry Into Isolation Hospital Management—Parents Give Evidence.

The enquiry being conducted by Judge Winchester into the management of the isolation hospital was continued on Saturday and adjourned until next Monday morning.
James Rogers, who, as a result of the death of his child in the hospital, caused the enquiry to be instituted, on Saturday "withdrew," being dissatisfied when he was not permitted to cross-examine witnesses to his liking. After having found fault with the examination by H. L. Drayton, K.C., the enquiry counsel.

Dr. Copp of the Hospital for Sick Children, the first witness heard, gave evidence as to the contagious diseases, which often developed in the hospital, despite the most rigid precautions. It was impossible to say that a scarlet fever patient was ever conveyed to a free of infection.

Judge Winchester referred to a book by Robert Milne, M.D., C.M., for 30 years medical officer of Dr. Barnard's hospital and homes, which claimed that it was possible to absolutely prevent danger of after-infection by rubbing the patient with eucalyptus oil. Dr. Copp said patients were rubbed with oil after bathing, but it could not prevent infection.

"Don't accept Dr. Milne as the final authority, your honor; he is very radical," said the defence counsel. "I would not like to use his treatment in my own family," said the witness.

Causes of Variations.
Replying to H. L. Drayton, K.C., Dr. Sheard stated that the cause of the variations in the death rate from such a disease as scarlet fever was the greater or lesser malignant form assumed by the disease. Also, he contended, it was not fair to argue from the statistics of a small country town or city, that a centre like Toronto, as conditions vary materially differed in many vital ways.

Mr. James Rogers attempted to cross-examine Dr. Sheard, using as a basis certain statistics of the United States and Canadian reports, giving mortality statistics.
Questioned by Dr. Sheard, Mr. Rogers admitted that he had closed group and diphtheria together, but claimed that certain medical men did this.

Is Suing Dr. Sheard.
James C. Mitchell was the next witness. He was an employee of the medical health department for fifteen years, but had resigned for reasons which he did not state. He had been employed by Dr. Sheard, who, according to the evidence of the witness, his son, Joseph, was sent to the Isolation Hospital in November, 1908, being discharged as cured early in December, four days after the lad's return home. His brother, Jimmie, took sick with scarlet fever. He recovered, but three days after he showed signs of the disease, his brother Eddie developed scarlet fever and diphtheria, dying on the 28th of December.

Whole Family Down.
On December 18, a daughter, Pearl, developed scarlet fever and diphtheria, and within a week afterwards, both Mr. Mitchell and his wife were ill with diphtheria. All, except the little boy Eddie, recovered.

Questioned by Mr. Drayton, Mr. Mitchell said that he complained of his boy being discharged from the Isolation Hospital, who, according to him, he had visited the hospital several times while his boy was an inmate.

No Special Precautions.
Mr. Mitchell further testified that when he visited the hospital, he had taken no special precaution to avoid carrying infection about with him. On one occasion only he had donned a gown and cap before entering the wards. He had never sprayed himself with disinfectant on leaving the wards, nor had he taken the precaution of washing his hands.
