

LABOR'S HOLIDAY PARADE

One of the Largest and Best Turn-outs in History of Toronto Trades Unions.

THERE WERE 4822 WORKMEN IN LINE

Admiring Thousands Line Streets—Unique Features of a Rousing Demonstration.

That the workman is enjoying a season of prosperity was made apparent by the exact showing of Toronto's trades unionists in their parade on Monday. It was the finest demonstration labor ever made here, and one that will long be remembered both by the participants and the thousands who witnessed it. All lines of trade were represented, each one turning out in large numbers, and many in natty uniforms that were most appropriate for the trade. The weather was all that could be desired for the occasion, the heavy fall of rain in the morning laying the dust and cooling the air. An hour before the parade moved off the sun came out, bringing joy to the hearts of the many union men. The unions assembled in Queen's Park in the vicinity of the Parliament Buildings, under the leadership of their various presidents. George T. Beales, chief marshal, was early on the scene, and, assisted by Marshals William Chilton, F. J. Wilson, Chas. Douglas, F. Farley, B. Case and H. W. Braun, all mounted on spirited horses, the eight sections were soon assigned to their proper places.

Three Crowded Streets. Sharp at 10:50 o'clock the mammoth procession moved off along Grosvenor street, and swung into Yonge street, headed by a platoon of mounted police, the 48th Highlanders' Band and the Toronto District Labor Council. Yonge street, near the starting point, was crowded with people, and the crowd continued to grow in size as the procession wound its way down Yonge street. Rousing cheers greeted the unions as they marched past, but of all the bodies the members of the Fire Brigade came in for the greatest share of applause. In the first section were the teams men represented in the Allied Printing Trades Council and the Knights of Labor. The members of Typographical Union were conspicuous by the large white parasols which they carried. The Letter Carriers, 90 strong, made a neat appearance and were followed by Samuel Moore, their indefatigable business agent. As the striking Textile Workers walked along, headed by a deputation of women in tatty-hos and carriages, there was continual applause.

Civic Employees in Line. The Civic Employees were also deserving of praise, their uniforms of white duck trousers, leather belts and blue shirts, catching the popular eye, while their followers, the Cooks, also in small numbers, created a good impression with their blue and white dotted suits. The Boiler Makers and their assistants appeared in shirt waists, with natty peak caps. They were headed by a miniature model of a ship mounted on four bicycles, and bearing the following words on a streamer: "Canadian Bottoms for Canadian Grain." Next were the Machinists, clad in blue duck trousers, dark shirt waists and peak caps, and headed by a band that rendered stirring music. Long before the Fire Brigade came up, their approach was heralded. Mounted on a lorry was a blacksmith shop, furnace and all fixtures, with two men busily engaged in making horseshoes. The horseshoers were attired in their aprons, bearing a horseshoe. Peak caps made the Metal Polishers, Buffers and Platers conspicuous, while in front of the Painters and Decorators walked a member carrying a handsome painter's palette. In front of the Plumbers, Steam and Gas Fitters were two floats, handsomely decorated. One carried a number of radiators, and the other a small colored girl. The Plumbers wore blue duck trousers and carried canes.

Lathers Had a House. The Lathers were very noticeable, being headed by a small lathed house on a wagon, while in front of the Marble Workers were two wagons carrying marble statuary. A large cigar box, mounted on bicycles, led the Clearmakers, while many of the Glass Blowers sported miniature mirrors on the lapel of their coats. The Furriers carried white parasols. It was the Painters and Decorators that made the surprise of the day. They turned out almost 550 strong, and every man was attired in pure white suits, with white caps. They walked like regulars, and were repeatedly applauded. In point of numbers the Carpenters and Joiners had all the others beaten. They were nearly 400 strong. They wore pure white suits, with white aprons. Bringing up the rear were the Ironworkers, who looked well in their handsome uniforms. The parade moved along King street to Simcoe street, to Queen street, and Dufferin street to the grounds. In all 4822 were in line.

Order of the Parade. The parade moved off in the following order: Platoon of mounted Stomach and Bowels? out of Order?

Angier's Petroleum Emulsion, by its antiseptic properties and its wonderful soothing and healing effect upon the mucous membrane of the stomach and bowels, is of special value in intestinal disorders, such as Gastric Catarrh, Fermentation of the Bowels, Diarrhoea, (acute and chronic), Summer Complaints of Children, Constipation, etc. In fact, in nearly all cases where the bowels are "out of order" it restores them to their normal condition often after other remedies have failed.

The grand drawing competition, which is open only to ladies, was held in the latter part of the afternoon at the Exhibition. The officials were: Judges—B. Cann, J. Gardner, Thomas, W. D. Doughty, W. Hassard, Clerks of course—W. McIntosh, J. A. W. Shackleton, Thomas, Revere—Frank Smith, official starter—J. H. Kennedy, Assistant starter—H. Stevenson, W. Shackleton. The Games Committee was composed of: H. Stevenson, chairman, J. V. Edworthy (treasurer), William Glocking (secretary), Thomas, J. A. W. Shackleton, Thomas, Hilton, W. McIntosh, J. A. Doughty, B. Case, J. Gardner. The Annual Dinner. The Labor Day Committee held their annual dinner at the Exhibition Hotel, with Samuel Moore, chairman of the Reception Committee in the chair. After honoring the guests with a sumptuous repast, an interesting toast was given. It was responded to by H. Huddleston, chairman of the committee, who spoke for "The Day We Celebrate." He said that the day was a day of honor and glory to the workers of the world, and that it was a day when the workers of the world should be proud of their position and of the part they played in the building up of the nation. He then proposed a toast to "The Labor Organization," which was enthusiastically received. The dinner was a great success, and the guests were most entertained.

Notes of the Parade. In front of the Machinists' Union was a float carrying the children, the winners of the "Our Craft Will Never Die" contest. In a carriage with them rode the members of the union, and the youngest apprentice, aged 15 years, John H. Kennedy, walked with "Old Dad." He is a great worker in the cause of unionism. The machinists captured the silver cup donated by the Fire Brigade for the greatest number of points in the athletic contest. The machinists have won this cup for the third year.

In addition to the games there were many other amusements. The procession was viewed from the grand stand, and the city during the holiday. The parade was the largest ever held here and was participated in by 4822 union men and women. The parade was a great success, and the workers of the world were proud of their position and of the part they played in the building up of the nation. OTTAWA.

Ottawa, Sept. 1.—Labor Day was inaugurated in Ottawa with lowering clouds, which gave evidence of rain, but about 8 o'clock the sun came out, and the day dawned midsummer rays all day. The demonstration under the auspices of the Allied Trades and Labor Association, was quite up to the mark of former years. In the morning there was a procession, with about 1000 unionists in line. In the afternoon a program of sports and horse races was run off at Lansdowne Park, and proved quite a drawing card. Business places were generally closed, and the city during the holiday. One of the most gorgeous military parades ever witnessed in Ottawa was that on Parliament Hill to-day, when His Excellency the Governor-General reviewed the 10th Battalion of Albany, N.Y., and the Hong Kong detachment to the coronation. It was an international unit of no slight importance, and the varied and glittering in the brilliant sunlight, formed a pretty picture. Thousands of people lined the square, and for an Ottawa crowd, was unusually demonstrative. The American visitors looked smart and marched well. The Chinese soldiers and the staff war men from India were given ovations. They were put through exercises, which were performed with almost automatic regularity. His Excellency was delighted with the showing, and complimented the commanding officer of the 10th Battalion on the military precision of his civilian soldiers. There have been reviews in Ottawa in which a much larger number of soldiers took part, but none which constituted so pretty a scene and partook of such an international character. The Albany men were delighted with their treatment here. They spent the afternoon at the Labor Day sports, and left for home at 8 o'clock to-night.

LONDON.

London, Sept. 1.—Labor Day was celebrated here to-day by a procession, participated in by representatives of the 35 unions belonging to the Trades and Labor Council, numbering several hundred members. Interpreted with many anti-demonstrations, the parade was a most successful one, and the workers of the world were proud of their position and of the part they played in the building up of the nation. The parade was a day of honor and glory to the workers of the world, and it was a day when the workers of the world should be proud of their position and of the part they played in the building up of the nation.

NEW YORK.

New York, Sept. 1.—A parade, with nearly 40,000 men in line, was the feature of New York's celebration of labor day. The parade was a great success, and the workers of the world were proud of their position and of the part they played in the building up of the nation. And yet there are women who sweat themselves in such weather, whereas they could do more effective work in cold or lukewarm water with Sunlight Soap than they could in hot water with common soap. This is really true, and you can easily try it for yourself. Read on the Sunlight Soap cardboard how to wash without boiling. Ask for the Sunlight Soap. You'll find Sunlight Soap will make all the difference in the world in your health and comfort this hot weather.

of sports, including running races, horse-racing and entertainment were carried out this afternoon.

KINGSTON.

Kingston, Sept. 1.—Owing to the down-pour of rain to-day the Labor Day arrangements were easily interfered with. At 1 o'clock the parade took place, when all the local union men were in line at the grand of races and sports was cancelled, and will be run off on Saturday next.

PETERBORO.

Peterboro, Sept. 1.—Labor Day here was celebrated by a monster demonstration under the auspices of the local trades unions. Hundreds of people came in from surrounding towns, and enthusiasm in the features of the day was much in evidence. About 400 people came in from Lindsay. The band, followed by the guests in carriages, moved off and proceeded thru the principal streets of the town. The procession was about a mile in length and was followed by a large number of people. The parade was a great success, and the workers of the world were proud of their position and of the part they played in the building up of the nation. The parade was a day of honor and glory to the workers of the world, and it was a day when the workers of the world should be proud of their position and of the part they played in the building up of the nation.

ST. CATHARINES.

St. Catharines, Sept. 1.—To-day witnessed the first celebration of Labor Day in St. Catharines, the people hitherto having been for an excursion to be run to Toronto or other points. The celebration was enthusiastically successful. The morning opened unpropitiously, but cleared up early enough to permit the usual march and tug-of-war in the latter part of the day. The tug-of-war was a most interesting feature, and the workers of the world were proud of their position and of the part they played in the building up of the nation. The parade was a day of honor and glory to the workers of the world, and it was a day when the workers of the world should be proud of their position and of the part they played in the building up of the nation.

TO TAP RUSSIAN EMIGRATION.

Cassia, Sept. 1.—A committee of the Russian volunteer fleet has arranged a new steamship service between Black Sea ports and North America, via Italy, with an Italian company. The idea of this service is to tap the heavy emigrant traffic between Naples and New York. The volunteer fleet will receive $40 for each emigrant from Naples.

IMMENSE CORN CROP SAFE.

Chicago, Sept. 1.—According to the current issue of The Corn Belt, an immense crop of corn is maturing in the fields of Nebraska, Iowa, Northern Kansas, North Missouri and Northeastern Colorado. Reports gathered from 900 agents in the territory covered indicate that the silk and tassels have served their functions and are withered and that the crop is so far advanced as to be past danger from any source. These same reports say all small grains are out and in the stalk, and that the wheat is reasonably progressed.

VIRCHOW IN CRITICAL STATE.

Berlin, Sept. 1.—Prof. Virchow, the famous scientist, who is gravely ill and hardly expected to live, was brought here to-day from Harzburg in an ambulance. He is still in the hospital, and the professor is said to be in his present illness. He is more than 80 years old.

ACROSS ALPS IN AUTOMOBILE.

Paris, Sept. 1.—Charles J. Glidden, president of the Traders' National Bank of Lowell, Mass., and Mr. Dudley E. Waters, president of the Grand Rapids National Bank of Grand Rapids, Mich., who, with Mr. Glidden and Mrs. Waters, are making a four thousand mile drive in Mr. Glidden's 16 horse-power Napier automobile, have arrived at Lucerne, miles of their trip. They have traversed the Alps, between Naples and New York. The latter in a snowstorm. Mr. Glidden states that the temperature there was so low that it froze the gasoline, so that it was necessary to use kerosene to start the engine. The first steamer in the new service will leave the end of next September. It is hoped the enterprise will divert Russian emigration to the United States from the German lines of steamers.
