

WIFE OBJECTED TO HOUSING LOTTIE OVER THE NIGHT

Richard Haines Became Angry at Attitude.

USED BAD LANGUAGE

Cop Attracted to Scene and Police Court Case Follows.

Richard Haines, 197 Hyman street, insisted on playing the part of a good husband to Lottie Vandearc when she came to his house on Tuesday evening, but his wife objected, and he told her so in such vivid language that the constable John Parker, who was passing, thought that the services of a peace-maker were necessary. As the result of his interference, the police court today heard the case of a woman who was found guilty of being disorderly.

Haines told the magistrate that Mrs. Vandearc came to his house in such a condition that he did not have the heart to turn her away. He feared, he said, that if she was allowed to wander the street she would get into trouble, so he thought it would be only fair to let her stay. He claimed that he was not drinking, but his wife, however, did not see things in the same light. He claimed that he was not drinking, but his wife, however, did not see things in the same light.

Constable Parker, according to his evidence, was passing the house Tuesday night at 11:30 o'clock, when he heard cursing and shouting issuing from the house occupied by Haines. He entered the residence and found Haines addressing his wife in rather forcible language. Lottie Vandearc, the constable claimed, was lying on the floor, and Haines was shouting at her. Joseph Leonard, living next door, told the magistrate that he had been awakened from his sleep by loud thumping on the floor, and he corroborated the constable's evidence regarding the language.

Lottie Vandearc was not able to give a lucid account of how she spent the evening. The magistrate asked her where she got the liquor. She could only remember that it was from a lady friend on Waterloo street.

APPOINTMENT OF TOWN PLANNING COMMITTEE MAY BE POSTPONED

Council May Await Outcome of Provincial Action in the Matter.

Town-planning may come to the fore again at the inaugural meeting of the city council Monday night, when the appointment of other civic bodies, such as the board of health, the aldermen may decide to postpone the town planning committee. On the other hand, it is quite possible that action will be deferred until after the session of the Legislature.

New measures in regard to town planning are expected to come before the provincial governing body this month, and as these likely will have an important bearing on all the schemes at present being urged by Ontario municipalities the council may decide to wait the result of this before appointing a committee.

The first local town planning committee appointed was an ill-fated one. It included three independent citizens, three aldermen and the mayor. It got away to a good start, but a long time after meetings caused John Cottam, one of the members, to write the chairman, Ald. Seabrook, with deliberate hindering the work. This altercation led to the resignation of all the members. He succeeded in getting all but the mayor to resign. Cottam's term of office expired with the year, however, so the council is now free to appoint a entirely new committee if it so desires.

BILL'S LATEST EFFORT

The news item in The Advertiser Tuesday referring to the bloodless battle waged on behalf of Cynthia Grey by the gallant Advertiser telegraph editor against a bold, bad and fat little mouse, has moved the Post Bell to perpetrate the following on an unsuspecting public:

CYNTHIA AND THE MOUSE

Cynthia Grey the other mouse, like other maidens all forlorn, With a bright and sunny smile Went through the mail on the file.

She had hardly got started, When to her great surprise She was badly frightened When she opened up her eyes.

In terror she called for assistance To the editor in another room, And with her fingers in her hair Again she called, as if in despair.

The editor, hearing of her plight, Had visions through his brain That some bold mouse through the night Had come in on a midnight train.

He picked up his courage and then went Like a bloodhound on a scent, And he found the mouse in the night, Not far, while she was in despair!

Into her room he did dash Without a moment's thought, Expecting with some villain To clash, But his visions came to naught.

For all there was about the room, Which seemed to Cynthia to be her doom, A dirty, nasty little mouse That had crept in from some house.

The editor gave a sigh of relief And vowed that mouse would come to grief. He chased and said a prayer his breath The obituary of that mouse's death.

While he did stand and mop his brow, And why Cynthia did make such a fuss, Did not see how then and now, His clothes should get in such a muss.

It was expected that the meeting would be today, but it is now probable that it will be Friday or Saturday.

LEGAL LIGHTS HOLD DISCUSSION OVER WHISKEY BIBBLING

How Long Would It Take to Consume Four Cases of Red Eye?

It was during the trial in police court today of a local citizen charged with keeping liquor for sale contrary to the O. T. A. that the following argument took place.

Crown Attorney J. B. McKillop, who was prosecuting, sprang to his feet and said:

"Your honor, do you think for one minute that if I had four cases delivered to my house on December 1st I wouldn't know about it?"

He then asked the jury to consider the fact that the defendant had been charged with keeping liquor for sale contrary to the O. T. A. and that the defendant had been charged with keeping liquor for sale contrary to the O. T. A.

GRAND JURY TOLD TO LEAVE DOUBT TO PETIT

Mayor and Aldermen Will Go to Toronto Shortly.

Judge Coatsworth Gives Advice in Case of John Doughty.

Toronto, Jan. 5.—Speaking to the grand jury today regarding charges of theft and conspiracy to kidnap Andrew J. Seal, returned against John J. Doughty, Judge Coatsworth said: "I want you to understand that your duty is only the preliminary hearing, and that when it comes before the petit jury I will instruct them to give him the benefit of any reasonable doubt. But in your case, if you feel doubtful whether he is innocent or guilty, the safest, the wisest, the proper thing for you to do is to send it on for trial."

In defining theft, the judge said of theft if he merely temporarily deprived the owner of his property.
