"Listening Post" Gives Details of Splendid Work on the Firing Line.

Mrs. A. M. S. Stewart, 55 Brunswick avenue, has favored The World with a look at The Listening Post, by her son, who is with the British expeditionary force in France. Stories, poems, cartoons and jokes are very bright and clever, and the lowing is recommended to Cama-

Those at the front probably know of the good work being done by the Graves Registration Commission in Your fellow-comrades. The chapain must report to them every burial he conducts and the location of the grave. But now the commission prepared to do more. They will furmish to the wife, mother or near re-lative of deceased man a photograph of his grave. The relatives must make application to the chaplain of the unit to which the deceased be-longed, giving his name, rank, number ,etc., to the date of death. The writer had occasion recently to apply for one of those photos on behalf of the father of a man in the 70th who died at a clearing station in November. He found that the photo been taken, was on record and could been taken, was on record and could not generally known, and The Listening Post could help materially in ing them known in Canada and will be rendering a much appreciative service to those who have lost friends in the struggle. Modistes Watch Her Closely and Quickly Copy Latest Creations.

NEW YORK, Feb. 26.-Since it is acmitted (the sometimes with protest) that Paris is the dress capital of the world, it is only necessary to show Mile. Forzane is "Queen of Clothes" in the French capital to indicate the real inspiration for many, if not most, of the fantasies in present-day fashions. And the undisputed "Queen of Clothes" in Paris Mile Forzane sure-Clothes' in Paris, Mile. Forzane sure-ly is—"reine de la mode" they call her. When the Parisienne goes to the races her first solicitude is to see what Mile. her first solicitude is to see what Mile. Forzane is wearing. It is the same at the opera. If she wears a conspicuously-buttoned waist, short skirt and Russian tunic, these are the fashion just as soon as the modistes can get lousy. If she adopts pockets, pockets are the thing. If she puts on white to match her big Russian hound, both white and Russian hound are white to match her big Russian hound are both white and Russian hound are fashionable. Those who do not see her, watch for pictures on the Avenue de l'Opera and elsewhere. She does not say what is to be the fashion. Her cictum is worn. Thus she illustrates Mile. Forzane herself is tall, vigor ous, and has a distinction of carriage any woman to fill such a role. She has rather deeply-colored blonde hair, brown eyes. She is handsome rather than pretty. Her picture makes her look austere. In fact, she is vivacious and charming. She does not fill the office of leader solemnly, yet she feels her obligations as a good artist might feel them. And she is always—Mile. Forzane.

There Is One Spot Between Hostile Trenches That Germans Don't Venture on.

PARIS. Feb. 26 .- Many are the tales of the skill of one particular German sniper now operating at the front. His prowess was even shown off to visitors, as if he were a recognized attraction of the locality. "Just you watch him," a man would say, and thereupon raise a tin on a stick. Before the visiraise a un on a stick. Before the visi-tor was well aware of what was being done the tin rattled and flew off the stick to the other side of the trench.
