WITHIN OUR OWN REACH.

What is it that makes for civic betterment and material development in any community? Is it not the time and thought the citizens individually and collectively give to other than the pursuit of their own business and their own pleasures? In a community where each individual is absorbed in purely selfish concerns, even if their success does make for material progress in a general way to some extent there is lacking the inspiration of individual effort to serve community ends. For example, the merchant who has no interest beyond selling goods and enjoying the profits, or the mechanic who has no interest beyond his weekly wage and the selfish enjoyment of what it brings, makes only an incidental contribution to community welfare. But when the citizens at large unite for the promotion of that which may be of material or social benefit to all, there is a positive contribution and development. This truth may be applied in many ways affecting the welfare of a city. If the individual citizens are willing to give a little of their leisure time to the study of civic problems there will follow of necessity a better city government. If they will together look into the question of adding new industries, the industries will come. If they will be better housing, better care of children, healthier amusements and a better tone to the city life. The greatest stumbling block to the progress of St. John is the indifference of our own citizens. Every one of them agrees that St. John has advantages and resources which should make growth a matter of course, but that will not get us anywhere. There must be more than faith or hope to get us anywhere. We must see to it that we are not content with the status quo. We must see to it that we are not content with the status quo. We must see to it that we are not content with the status quo.

the company. President Mitten, in the light of his experience, says:—"If the forces of labor and management will combine so effectively as to produce almost 100 per cent more per man employed, much if not all that is required to overcome the high cost of living will have been accomplished." The experience of Philadelphia is very interesting. The company in the first place guaranteed honest dealing and gave efficient management. The men on their part undertook to have their work marked by efficiency and regard for the interests of the company, which also their interests. In a word, co-operation solved the problem, saved the company and ensured the employee a good return for their labor.

Montreal Herald:—Every investor in the city of Montreal will be in the position of a banker who lends money to a client for the development of his business. It is every way desirable that the sum required should be raised within Canada. There is plenty of money in the country. Transfer to the government, the amount they are asking and you are making a gift-edged investment with the resources of the whole Dominion as your security. The investor will receive five and a half per cent interest guaranteed by the government of Canada. There is no room for timidity in regard to this investment. The security is unquestionable, the return generous and certain. Every person will have an opportunity of buying these bonds. Help your country and at the same time help yourself!

Referring to fire prevention day in Canada (tomorrow being the date fixed), an official letter from Ottawa says:—"Fire waste is one of the most serious economic problems confronting Canada at the present time. The public in general is vitally affected by the tremendous losses annually incurred by fire and the enormous expenditures rendered necessary to adequately protect life and property from its ravages. Seeing that at least seventy-five per cent of all fires are caused by carelessness and can therefore be prevented, it is the obvious duty of municipal authorities, fire department officials, boards of trade and other representative citizens besides to bring the matter to the attention of the people."

Hon. P. J. Veniot need not have replied to the Standard regarding the wharves on the St. John river, since nobody takes the Standard seriously. It is worth while, however, to have the facts clearly presented, especially in regard to the record of the former government and the utter failure to deal with the matter in a business-like way. Mr. Veniot's story appears in an interview in this issue of the Times.

Mr. Gilbert Greenwood, editor of the National Geographic Magazine, Washington, in his very interesting address to the Canadian Club last evening, endorsed the plea of Mr. John T. Hawke for greater publicity for the charms of these provinces with which he is very familiar. Such a tribute is worth while and ought to stimulate our people to greater effort in a systematic advertising campaign.

The hospital commission would do well to apply for a commission of enquiry, as suggested by several of the physicians, and that commission should be given wide powers to make the enquiry thorough, so that its recommendations may be of real value.

The federal government proposes to pass the prohibition back to the provinces, but they may be contented to make the most of the amended C. T. A. If they cannot get the federal prohibition which it was hoped would be enacted.

The long deferred inquest on the defunct opposition party in this province is to be held on Nov. 6. The harrowing details will perhaps be withheld but the verdict will be interesting.

Denkine and Koshak have each given the Bolsheviks another jolt. Their "sing success" will bring more recruits to the cause of real democracy.

The charm of this October weather can only be enjoyed to the full in the country, with its bracing air and vistas of glorious autumn colorings.

BURGLARIES INCREASE.

A marked increase in crimes particularly in the burgling of vaults, safety deposit boxes and in daylight hold-ups was noted by L. W. Gannon, publicity manager of the American Bankers' Association, reporting at the annual convention in St. Louis last week. All classes of crime have increased since the present unsettled conditions commenced. It was pointed out, and there was no prospect of a let-up in crime for some time.

There were ninety-six successful burglaries and 105 hold-ups in the United States last year, in addition to fifty successful burglaries.

Rippling Rhymes by Walt Mason

INDISPENSIBLE. I once was clerking in a shop, dispensing lemonade and pop, and doodads of the kind; and as I worked I used to think the store would be on the blink if I haply I resigned. I thought if I should jump the store the patrons would go there no more, but follow where I went; they'd ask the boss, "Where is the lad whose charms of manner made us glad? Where is that joyous gent?" One day when I was dreaming thus, the boss came up, the clammy cut, and said, "Young man, you're fired; too long this useful job you've held, the way your fat young head is swelled would make an image tired." Oh, I was thunderstruck and dashed, and flabbergasted and amazed, but when I got my breath, I said, "I do not care three whoops; that store will straightaway loop the loops—my going means its death." And every time I passed along I hoped not to see things going wrong, no customers on hand; but the custom did. Since that adventure came to pass I feel I do not cut much grass, or ice or wood or hay; and I am humble as I toil; I strive to make the kettle boil without a grandstand play.

CANADA—EAST AND WEST

Dominion Happenings of Other Days

THE COMING OF CONNAUGHT.

On October 8, 1869 Prince Arthur of Connaught, destined to be known in later years as the Duke of Connaught, arrived in Montreal to assume the duties of an officer of the 11th Prince of Wales's Own (Ireland) Regiment. He was a dashing leader of men and in the time he spent with the regiment in the City of Montreal he became very popular with both privates and his fellow officers. The late Canon Ellergood, of the Church of St. James the Apostle, was wont to recall episodes in connection with the Royal visit and was greatly anticipating in his declining days a visit from his former parishioner. After Ramsey of unusual lustre in the British army where he attained the rank of Field Marshal H. R. H. the Duke of Connaught became the Governor General of Canada arriving in the Dominion in 1911 with the Duchess and the Princess Patricia. He was beginning to think of retiring to his loved England when the world war broke out. He was of three himself into the Canadian military works his knowledge of the conditions of modern warfare and his great executive ability were of untold value to Democratic Canada in its war activities. Tireless he was in his efforts to see every part of the land to aid in recruiting the huge army of the Dominion.

When the forces had been well prepared he returned to England but only to carry on his war work in that island and on the continent where the Canadian troops met him on many occasions. Soon after his return to the Old Land the Duchess who had been ill in Canada died. A few months ago H. R. H. the Princess Patricia, always extremely popular in the Dominion, was married at Westminster to a commoner, the Earl of Westminster, the unbeatable British navy.

OCTOBER.

O day of smoke and flame, O ancient feast day! Upon the altars of the earth The heavenly fires play. All passion, all desire, Fulfillment, prophecy— Fate into one consummate hour Of quiet ecstasy.

Before those veiled hills, The lake adorning lies; The heavenly fire play. The old mysterious haze; Again the leafy miracle. The sacred altar; Up from the sacred fires A fragrant mist distills. An income round a temple-dome, It floats about the hills.

The plow-man drives his blade In furrows deep and long; "Flowers to the earth, earth to the sun," The plowman's prayer is sung. My soul, an upturned field, The autumn sun hath blessed, Drinks of the ancient promises And gives herself to rest.

COMMON SENSE NEEDED.

(Shoe and Leather Reporter.) In almost every instance where merchandise has doubled or tripled in cost, one of the important contributory causes was the reckless and imprudent dealing of the consumer. It is true, many persons suppose, that civilization is at stake the world can only be saved by the complete demoralization and anarchy through individual action induced by the teaching of leaders and thinkers. Such a theory is a very dangerous one. It is a theory which must be rejected. It is a theory which must be rejected. It is a theory which must be rejected.

THE PRICE OF MILK.

(Montreal Herald.) The result of the hurried visit of the Board of Commerce to Montreal is that that body has itself advanced the price of milk exactly by the amount that the Herald informed Mr. O'Connor the milk interests had themselves decided upon. This for October. For the remainder of the winter the Board of Commerce has discreetly absolutely starting increases, which will bring the retail price of milk up to seventeen or eighteen cents a quart from December to March. And the amazed public had somehow got it into its head that the Board of Commerce was appointed to bring about a progressive lowering in the staggeringly high cost of living!

IODINE TO LAST FOREVER

Iodine, that household first aid for cuts, bruises, and sprains, as well as the antiseptic which saved thousands of lives during the war, is a medicament about which most persons hold the vaguest ideas. Virtually the whole of the world's supply is obtained from the mother lodes of the nitrate oceans, which in the past were obtained from kelp, a seaweed, in which it first was discovered, and is later by the French chemist Courtois in 1811. Today it is the most important by-product of the Chilean nitrate industry. Of the kelp industry formerly was of considerable importance in Glasgow. The abundant kelp of the west coast of Ireland and the western islands of Scotland, which was thrown up on the beach by the sea, was collected by peasants. It was dried and burned in shallow pits, in which the ashes accumulated and melted together. It contained, besides iodine, some carbonate of soda and chloride of potassium.

Iodine is now obtained as a by-product of sodium nitrate. In the process by which sodium nitrate is dissolved and separated from its insoluble impurities, iodine gradually accumulates in the "mother liquor," principally in the state of sodium iodide and ioduric acid. The liquor is further concentrated by evaporation, and at the proper time sodium sulphate is added, which results in iodine being precipitated.

Owing to the low temperature at which iodine sublimes, iodine has to be carefully packed to avoid loss. It is usually packed in barrels, each of which is covered with a layer of sawdust. For exportation, it is stored in underground cellars.

When the supply of mother liquor to fish mankind would still possess virtue in an inexhaustible supply of iodine in seaweeds. The vast submarine growths of fucus and laminaria on the southern side of Chile alone would suffice for centuries.

THE UNCHANGEABLE TRUTH.

(London Morning Post.) Germany is always ready to change sides to repudiate a pledge and to betray a friend; but amid all her indelicacies she is constant to the purpose of her unalterable ambition. If Germany cannot actually rule Russia, and possess the vast potential riches of the Slav dominions, she will endeavor to rule the rulers of Russia, whoever they may be. Therefore it was first of all necessary to weaken Russia; and as no solvent more effectively destroys the national fibre than the victory of anarchy, so Germany inspired anarchy and bribed the Bolshevik leaders in Russia.

MILLION DOLLAR HOTEL.

London, Ont., hears that a syndicate is planning the erection of a million-dollar hotel in that city, to be situated at the southeast corner of Dundas and Wellington streets. It is proposed to erect an eight or ten story building, with about 400 rooms. There will be a restaurant in connection with the hotel, and sufficient property will be purchased from the city for this purpose. Other features of the hotel will be a garage built on the spiral plan and an airplane landing. It is said that the hotel will be finished some time in 1921. A stock company will be organized in London to finance the project.
