

THE BEEKEEPER.
Better keep bees in box hives than not to keep them at all.
During fruit bloom is the best time to transfer bees from box hives to movable frames.

When bees swarm and are hived, do not leave them until night, but move them to their permanent position.
When bees are driven from the hive, it shows that the food is getting scarce and that the luxury of supporting them cannot be afforded.

When there is a rush of honey coming in, the bees build store or drone comb, because they can take care of the honey faster than with smaller work cells.
Bees do not depend upon stores for rearing the young, as they do upon new honey daily brought in from the fields, and usually regulate the size of their families according to it.

It is often best when a good flow of honey is desired to feed the bees in the interval between fruit blossom and white clover, so that the brood nest shall not be full of brood when it comes.
It is always best to be fully prepared to handle bees when attempting to hive them. Sometimes they can be scooped up with the hands with impunity, and the next hive will sting at every possible opportunity.

If a swarm is hived in a sign, cool and well ventilated hive and placed in the shade, the bees will seldom desert it. But it will be exposed to a great deal of robbing they may conclude to seek more pleasant quarters.
Where honey is to be shipped to market the use of a full sheet of foundation is an advantage, as the comb is stronger and not so liable to break when the honey is also a fine appearance, and this, of course, pleases the customer.

People who keep bees and have no running water near should keep a supply near the apiary. One vessel should be a little milk pail, and another a teacup of salt to a pail of water. While rearing, brood bees will carry a great deal of water.
Foul brood is a highly infectious disease among bees. Spraying with a solution of salicylic acid, if done in the early stages of the disease, will sometimes afford relief, but if it has made a good start it will be better to destroy the hive, bees and all, as completely as possible.

This wonderful Nervine Tonic has only recently been introduced into this country by the proprietors and manufacturers of the Great South American Nervine Tonic, and yet its great value as a curative agent has long been known by a few of the most learned physicians, who have not brought its merits and value to the knowledge of the general public.

This medicine has completely solved the problem of the cure of indigestion, dyspepsia, and diseases of the general nervous system. It is also the greatest value in the cure of all forms of failing health from whatever cause. It performs this by the great nerve tonic qualities which it possesses, and by its great curative powers upon the digestive organs, the stomach, the liver and the bowels. No remedy compares with this wonderfully valuable Nervine Tonic as a builder and strengthener of the life forces of the human body, and of a great reinvigorant broken-down constitution. It is also of more real permanent value in the treatment and cure of diseases of the lungs than any consumption remedy ever used on this continent. It is a marvelous cure for nervousness of females of all ages. Ladies who are approaching the critical period known as change in life, should not fail to use this great Nervine Tonic, almost constantly, for the space of two or three years. It will carry them safely over the danger. This great strengthener and curative is of inestimable value to aged and infirm, because its great energizing properties will give them a new hold on life. It will add ten or fifteen years to the lives of many of those who will use a half dozen bottles of the remedy each year.

IT IS A GREAT REMEDY FOR THE CURE OF Broken Constitution,

All these and many other ailments cured by the wonderful Nervine Tonic.

NERVOUS DISEASES.
As a cure for every class of Nervous Diseases, no remedy has been able to compare with the Nervine Tonic, which is very pleasant and harmless in all its effects upon the youngest child or the oldest and most delicate individual. Nine-tenths of all the ailments to which the human family is heir are dependent on nervous exhaustion and impaired digestion. When there is an insufficient supply of nerve food in the blood, a general state of debility of the brain, spinal marrow, and nerves is the result. Starved nerves, like starved muscles, become weak and the right kind of food is supplied, and a titanic weakness and ailments disappear as the nerves recover. As the nervous system must supply all the power by which the vital forces of the body are carried on, it is the first to suffer for want of perfect nutrition. Ordinary food does not contain a sufficient quantity of the kind of nutriment necessary to repair the wear or present mode of living, and labor imposes upon the nerves. For this reason it becomes necessary that a nerve food be supplied. This South American Nervine has been found by analysis to contain the essential elements out of which nerve tissue is formed, and is therefore its universal adaptability to the cure of all forms of nervous derangement.

CHAS. W. WILSON, of New York, Ind., writes: "I had been in a distressed condition three years from Nervousness, weakness of the stomach, dyspepsia, and indigestion, and my health was gone. I had been doctoring myself with no result. I bought one bottle of South American Nervine, and in two days I was able to eat and sleep. I bought a second bottle of it, and in ten days I was able to do my usual work. I have never since had any other ailment. I can only say that this is the best medicine I have ever used, and I can recommend it to all who are afflicted with any of the above ailments. I can only say that this is the best medicine I have ever used, and I can recommend it to all who are afflicted with any of the above ailments."

My daughter, eleven years old, was severely affected with St. Vitus' Dance or Chorea. We gave her three and one-half bottles of South American Nervine and she is completely restored.
