been acquired at frightful cost, but the lesson will be salutary, and the people wno have hitherto offered an sylum to the rejected of other nations their horrible doctrines, will hereafter have a kindred feeling with those who in the past have looked upon the an-archist as one to be suppressed. No event since the death of Queen Victoria has so stirred the world's heart. There is universal sorrow at the leath of a good man, the foremost citizen of a great country. He had done no wrong, that men should regard him was ever a most exemplary citizen. In his public capacity his duties were the momentous responsibility of the high office to which he had been called. tunists, of the American press. That has not marred his success, however, for in, all, things he has proved an able my of machine rule in New York and a good state governor. In addiion to this he is a clever writer and eager student of natural history. Among books that he has written are War of 1812; Hunting Trips of a Ranch-man; Life of Thomas Hart Benton; Life of Gouverneur Morris; Ranch Life and the Hunting Trail; The Winning of the West; The Wilderness Hunter;

There has been an impression in some quarters that Roosevelt's im-petuous nature would be a source of rouble if he were elected to the presitrouble if he were elected to the presi-dency, but now that he has come to the office under such exceedingly pain-ful circumstances it will probably be found that he will respect the tradi-tions of his distinguished predecessor and warm personal friend, and perform his high duties with dignity and dis-cretion, as well as with the firmness that is the most notable feature of his hat is the most notable feature of his

The conduct of the Cork alderman who caused the withdrawal of a reso-lution of sympathy because President McKinley was "no friend of Ireland," dokinley was "no friend of Ireland," hould open the eyes of the American beople. President McKinley was the representative of a country whose people have always given a warm welcome and generous cash contributions to Irish agitators, whose chief aim was the overthrow of the British government.

particularly warm welcome from the "Blue Noses" (the sugrestive, it uncomplimentary, term applied to Nova Scotlans), for, to use the well-worn phrase, he won golden opinions whilst there as Prince George by his genuine bonhomie. Then, as now, there was nothing "P. G." as he was known, estimated from the "fowtowing" to him in any shape or form, which reminds me of a story:

Stories of Former Visit.

During the Prince's stay, the officers of the regiment in garrison gave a grand ball, which "P. G." attended. His hostess was a lady, who was quite overcome by the exalted position of her guest, and she kept alternately "seing" and "sirring" him—being divided in her mind as to which was correctiall any other man but a trained prince would have shown signs of boredom. Eventually a move was made to the supper-room, the Prince and his hostess leading the way. Canadian oysters are good, and "P. G." expressed a desire for some. A young subaltern happened to be passing by as he did ed. "Hi, Mr. Blank," the lady called out, "bring His Royal Highness some oysters at once—and look sharp."

The subaltern, if young, was of independent character. He turned round to a servant, and said, quietly, with a slight, but unmistakable emphasis on the first word:

"Watter, kindly fetch some oysters for His Royal Highness!"

No one enjoyed the snub more than "P. G." But the subaltern subsequent of the substantial allowances to be drawn there, is known.

The Subaltern's Paradise.
Ceylon, on account of the substantial allowances to be drawn there, is known, in the service as the "subaltern's paradise," but probably the epithet would be applied more justly to Halifat, where sport is splended and all-embracing, and where you can get home for a £16 note. Moreover the climate is exhilarating, which may have had something to do with the epidemic of harmless practical jokes which prevailed among the officers whilst the Prince was there, and which he delighted to have retailed to him.

ALCOHOL AND MORPHINE. AN ANTIDOTE DI

A recent remarkable discovery in medicine which has been found to annihilate the appetite for alcoholic drinks and all drugs, even in the most hopeless cases, is attracting a good deal of attention among those interested in temperance work. The medicine is purely vegetable, perfectly harmiliess and absolutely free from narcotics. It leaves no evil after effects and can be carried in the pocket and taken in absolute privacy, thus dispensing with the publicity, loss of time and expense of an institute treatment.

The medicine has been tested and is vouched for by "The Vicar of St. Michael's, Rev. Father Quintivas, Rev. Joseph Egger, Rev. B. L. Fitzgerald, Rev. Father Strubbe, Rev. Father McCallen, Rev. M. To the Editor of the Star:

To the Editor of the Star:

Sir,—I see that his Lordship, Bisho Casey, proposes to erect a new school building on the lot at the corner of Carmarthen and Orange street, which is one of the most desirable residential portions of the city. Why should not the new school be secured by enlaring the old St. Malachi's? The estal lishment of that school caused a gree depreciation in the value of propert around it. Why should the process heredested in another part of the city Additional property could be acquire and a larger school be erected when St. Malachi's now stands. That woul serve all purposes and remove what mow a ground of complaint.
