SMALLPOX SCARE HURTS BOSTON TRADE.

And Merchants Blame Board of Country Dealers Making Their Purchases in New York Instead of at the Hub.

(Sunday New York Herald.) BOSTON, Dec. 21 .- The crowds of Christmas shoppers that usually come into Boston from all over the state, seem to have given the Hub a wide berth this year. It was several weeks before merchants here began to realize this. Then some of them happened to come across newspapers published in other cities, and there was no longer any doubt as to the cause.

Persons in other parts of the state were taking the smallpox scare much more seriously than those in Boston, and their local papers were making the best of it. Some of the large advertisers in other cities were also making money, and advised prospective customers to keep away from Boston.

Bostonians themselves were pretty well scared over the prevalen smallpox, and it is safe to say that at least 60 per cent of the population has been vaccinated. Boston news papers, after the first few weeks, began to print as little as possible about read of the disease. The number of cases averaged from 10 to 20 a day. Although all the detention hoswere full and stories verging on scandal were being circulated about some of them, nothing appeared in the newspapers, though papers published in other cities and towns of the state were printing all they could possibly get about Boston's misfor

Matters looked serious for the Christmas trade of the Hub, and the newspapers of this city were blamed for it the merchants. Then the Boston dailies stopped printing smallpox news The Board of Health was then appealed to by the merchants, and the result was an advertisement signed by the secretary of the board, giv ing assurance that there was no danin the big department stores of the

This was supposed to be in part an ous stories that had answer to numerous stories that had been circulated to the effect that clerks in some of the larger stores had been stricken while at their work. The Board of Health advertisement, however, was decisive. It gave positive from the disease in the stores, and that was perfectly safe for a person to go about Christmas shopping as usual. These advertisements, besides being printed in the Boston papers, were sent broadcast to newspapers all over the state, but local papers stil continued to keep up the war on Boston, and the result has been a tremendous falling off in trade at the large deto this state, but has been carried on aggressively in cities and towns all over New England. Down in Maine chants are advertising that until the smallpox epidemic is over they will not buy goods in Boston, and the larations are made in New Hampshire and Vermont.

These merchants declare that they are buying their goods in New York, and there is a possibility that they may continue to do so. All this is furnishing ground for criticism of the Boston board of health to the effect that it is being used by the merchants of Boston to protect their interests.

The action of the board in refraining from giving out statements has been n striking contrast to the attitude of the board when the disease first made its appearance, and statements were issued daily calling attention to the danger and advising everybody to get

Although it is said the number cases reported daily has not fallen off to any great extent, the physicians are no longer busy vaccinating, and the forty public vaccination static established by the board of health discontinued for lack of Physicians, on the other hand, have become indignant at what some of them term an almost criminal policy on the part of the board.

THE DUKHOBORS.

OTTAWA, Dec. 24.-Jos. S. Elkinton of Philadelphia arrived here today to interview officials of the department of the interior with reference to condition of Doukhobours in the Northwest. The Society of Friends, of which Mr. Elkinton is one of the leading members in the city of brotherly love, has assigned to a committee of seven the duty of assisting the Doukhobours. Mr. Elkinton has frequently not having been there recently he was anxious to secure the latest official information to embody in his report. He saw Smart and Hedley this afternoon, both these gentlemen having inspected the Doukhobour colonies within the past few weeks. Mr. Elkinton returns to Philadelphia tomorrow satisfied with the result of his trip.

He says the Doukhobours are making excellent progress in learning the English language. Their stock is increasing, they are acquiring bette mes, and all that is needed on the part of the government is a little for-bearance until these people forget the oppression to which they were subject-

CHECK FROM ROOSEVELT.

NEW YORK, Dec. 24.- Mrs. Sarah Provost, teacher at the small district school at Cove Neck, L. I., near Oyster Bay, President Roosevelt's home, to-day received a generous check from the president. The check is to be used for the purchase of Christmas presents for her pupils. Mr. Roosevelt's child-ren formerly attended the Cove Neck school and before he became governor it was his custom every year to play Santa Claus and present gifts to all the pupils in person.

"My husband had been coughing for years and people frankly told me that he would go into consumption," writes Mrs. John Shireman, of No. 265 25th Place, Chicago, Ill. "He had such terrible coughing spells we not only grew much alarmed but looked for the bursting of a blood-vessel or a hemorrhage at most any time. After three days' coughing he was too weak to cross the room. The doctor did him no good. I stated the case to a druggist, who handed me a bottle of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. My husbands recovery was remarkable. In three days after he began using Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery he was up and around, and in two more days he went to work. Two bottles cured him."

GERMANY TALKS.

BERLIN, Dec. 24.- The announcenent that Germany had sent an ultimatum to Venezuela has been conspicuously printed in the press here newspapers maintaining the closest relations with the government affirm that this news is premature. While an ultimatum has not yet been delivered to Venezuela, they say this step will soon be taken unless Venezuela vields to what are deemed here the principal demands of Germany. The leading ultramontane organ, the Cologne Volks Zeitung, in an extensive article on Germany's attitude toward the Monroe doctrine, asserts that the assurances of Dr. Von Holleben, the German ambassador to the United States, with regard to the Venezuelar matter, indicate Germany's recognition of the Monroe doctrine in a more absolute manner than has been heretofore been done. This paper says Germany bows to the Monroe doctrine, and alludes to the expression of the late Prince Bismarck that the Monroe doctrine was "a piece of impudence."

This utterance of the German statesman, which is doubtless authentic, has just been published for the first time agitation has not been confined by the Hamburger Nachrichten, Bis- H. Bustin, with a fine pair of s marck's household organ. Nevertheless the Cologne Volks Zeitung admits that "the impudence of the United States" is succeeding brilliantly, and that Europe is already accustoming itself to the idea of the tutelage of the United States in South America.

The Cologne Volks Zeitung concludes by saying: Must Germany really ask Washington's permission to collect 3,000,000 marks from Venezuela? Must we pocket all sorts of warnings and concealed threats?

All day the sky was overcast and the temperature so mild very lonesome. Towards evening the temperature lowered slightly and the skies cleared, allowing a glorious full moon to light the city and make the electrics superfluous. But those who had remained indoors during the day were not to be tempted out even by such a favorable change, and the city at night was even more desolate than during the day. According to appear-ances, many of those who did come out caught spirituous consolation for the general depression of things, for the number of harmless jags incident to this festive season showed no diminution from the normal.

The naval dockyard was begun by the Chinese authorities in 1831, but, the native centractors being unequal to the task, a French company was employed and finished the work in three years, so that by 1890 it was China's chief dockyard, possessing a large refitted basin and two docks, capable of receiving ironclass, with foundries and workshops constructed on the most improved models, with modern machinery.

Then came the war with Japan, which was practically terminated by the capture of Port

Then came the war with Japan, which wae practically terminated by the capture of Port Arthur by the Japanese. The docks and ports were almost demolished by the Japaneses but no sooner had the Russo-Chinese agreement become known, immediately after peace had been made between China and Japan, than the Russians set to work on their reconstruction and enlargement.

The harbor is not a farge one, but is well protected naturally, the entrance being only five hundred yards in width. A rock towers twelve hundred feet shove the harbor, and hills now covered with gatteries lie flanking the town, protecting it from the land side. Barracks, military hospitals and camps able to accommodate at least fifty thousand men have been or are being constructed. It is intended to convert a low lagoon, which forms part of the harbor, into an enormous dock, espable of holding the four squadrons of the Russian fleet.

The branch of the Manchurlas railway from Port Arthur to the mercantile port Tallen-war, 130 miles distant, is not far from completion. The trade of both places has increased rapidly, and the establishment of Russian influence has brought such an influx of a Russian population that a new town—Dainy—almost entirely of Russian settlers, has sprung up in the vicinity.

"PARNELL TIMES."

Ireland Approaching a Crisis in Its Affairs-Mr. Russell's Speech.

DUBLIN, Dec 24.—Political attention is once more being centred on Ireland, where Chief Secretary Wyndham is bringing all the engines of coercion to bear against the United Irish League. The result of prosecuting Conor O'Kelly, M. P., and other members has been to give the agitation a tremendous impetus, and the return of Red-mond, McHugh and O'Donnell from counts of their reception has raised a popular spirit unequalled since Parnell's palmiest days. It is "Parnell times" over again.

Redmond was escorted by a procession of 30,000 nationalists from the railway station to the Dublin Mansion House, where he delivered a speech from the steps welcoming the resumption of coercion. A most scathing exposure of the state of affairs in poverty-stricken Connaught, which the British government is now imprisoning Irish members to maintain, has been delivered by T. W. Russell, the unionist member of parliament for South Tyrone, and secretary of the local government board in Lord Salisbury's last administration.

He refused office in the present government because Salisbury declined to pledge himself to reform the Irish land laws. In addressing a meeting of Ulster unionist farmers at Fermanagh Wednesday, Mr. Russell said:

"No one familiar with Irish life could fail to see that we are once again approaching one of those crises which ever and anon shake things to their very foundations in Ireland. The west of Ireland is a fruitful nursing ground for revolutions, and today a catastrophe is impending in that re-

"There is another side of the shield. Alongside this poverty-stricken area are great patches of the finest grazing land in the country, once tenanted, but now occupied by cattle and sheep. These lands have all been cleared of human beings. "These are correct pictures of a great part of the west of Ireland at the beinning of the 20th century, 100 years after England assumed government of this country. The dying request of Maria West brook of Milford, Pa., whom he married in 1830, and who lived but a few months, was that he should marry her sister. He complied with the request, and a little later again he became widower. Her aunt, a widow, Mrs. KatieWest brook, came around to take care of his home, proved a loveable woman and she became No 3. She too, died, and, overwhelmed with grief, Dr. Zann sought consolation by marrying Addie Graham of Williamsburg She lasted a year and expired suddenly at a corn-husking. This was in 1845, and Zann remain single until July, 1851, when he mar ried Mrs. Sarah K. Dewpomp of Philadelphia, who died suddenly four months later. Mary Jane Conklin, with a $150,000 dowry, was the next on the list. She survived two years. Miss and he tried Philadelphia again by selecting Anne Handey in 1857. After this lady had been gathered he successively married Margaret I. Cas Annie Meenhold, Julie DeWet, Gertrude Lamont and "my last matrimonial venture," he said, "was after settled in Goshen. There I married the belle of the city, but she was not true to me and I divorced her."

ACCIDENTAL SHOOTING.

NEWTON, Mass., Dec. 25.-Francis O. LaBante is at the Newton hospital, the victim of an accidental shooting during a gunning party in the Need-ham woods today. His injuries are not dangerous unless a complication sets in. LaBante had left his friends in the woods and pushed through a dense underbrush growth. From what could be learned, it appears that Joseph Smith, who was also out gunning, was on the edge of the underbrush He saw something move and discharged his shotgun. The birdshot took LaBante in the face, arms and legs. LaBante was taken home and then to the hospital for treatment. He belongs to Chestnut street, Upper Falls. Smith lives in the same enighborhood. The police inquired into the accident, heard LaBante explain that it was an accident, and then informed Smith that they were satisfied that the shooting was accidental.
