GENTLE SPRING MAKES WAY FOR THE NATIONAL GAME

SPORTOGRAPHY BY "GRAVY"

Anniversary of Johnson's Defeat by Marvin Hart.

Although Marvin Hart never ranked very high in the opinion of boxing fans, and his claim to the heavy-weight championship was generally regarded as "phony," he turned a trick eight years ago today that only one other white man has accomplished. It was on March 28, 1905, that Hart and Jack Johnson met in a San Francisco ring. The black man was in poor condition, and seemed to lack both the desire and the ability to extend himself. The result after 20 rounds of slow fighting was a decision in Hart's favor. A little later, upon the retirement of Jim Jeffries, Hart claimed the world's title. Jeffries has denied that he transferred the title to Hart, and anyway, a boxing championship is a thing to be fought for, and remains the property of the holder only so long as he is willing and able to defend it. Early in 1906 Tommy Burns defeated Hart in a 20 round bout in Los Angeles, and Marvin soon vanished from the sporting page. Johnson's first defeat by a white man was when he was put to sleep by Joe Choynski in Galveston in 1901. Marvin Hart's last appearance in the sporting records was three years ago, when he met Carl Morris in Oklahoma. Never very good, Hart was then only a wreck of his former self, and Morris, the green boxer, stopped him in three rounds. Carl's defeat of the "ex-champion" was heralded by his press agent as a mighty achievement. Two years ago today Morris fought Mike Sbrack, another has-been at Sapulpa, and knocked him out in the sixth round, whereupon the Injun's publicity expert threw three fits in a row. His enthusiasm waned somewhat when Carl met Jim Flynn in New York.

Den Morgan, manager of Jack Britton and other scrappers, never overlooks a chance to advertise his men. Lately he has been sending out post cards with a picture of Britton and the caption "Jack Britton, Conqueror of Paeske McFarland," and adds that Jack is "the most scientific boxer in the world." Oh, pickles.

ANNUAL LEAGUE MEETING

Special to The Standard. Fredericton, March 27.—D. B. Donald arrived from St. John tonight for the annual meeting of the New Brunswick and Maine Baseball League, which is to take place here tomorrow. Indications point to a highly successful meeting with a strong circuit formed in organized baseball for 1913. "Red" Wildes, the infielder who was with the Fredericton club in 1911 and again last year, has written that he has signed up with the Haverhill Club of the New England League for the coming season, but says that if anything happens to him there, that he hopes to be back in Fredericton again. Wildes was one of the fastest fielding players who ever occupied an infield position on the Fredericton diamond.

Negotiations for securing Scully's Grove as a playing field for another season are going along successfully, and Fredericton is looking forward to a great season of baseball.

WINNIPEG WIN AT NEW YORK. New York, Mar. 27.—The Winnipeg Hockey Club, amateur champions of Canada, defeated the hockey club of this city, champions of the American Amateur League, by a score of 7 to 1 here last night. First thing bachelor Grita at Ottawa has with the unmarried militant suffragettes of the Old Land will come out in a body and marry 'em right out of sheer admiration.

CURLING SEASON IS WOUND UP

Chatham, N. B., Mar. 27.—The winding up of the curling season took place Wednesday evening at the club rooms when the trophies were presented to the winners and the other business transacted. The Robinson cup was won by Skip C. P. Hickey and his rink, and the moonshad by Skip R. A. Loggie and rink. These were the only trophies presented, as the competition for the Tweedie medals and for the Hutchison cup could not be finished owing to the season being milder than usual.

GANDIL GIVEN CREDIT

Chic Gandil literally put Washington on the baseball map last summer. With all credit given to Walter Johnson and Milan for their great work, the fact remains that Gandil filled a weak corner in the infield, which had been there for some time before he was brought from Montreal in the middle of the season. He had been up before with the Chicago White Sox, who have been unable to find a first baseman as good since. His batting average was .309 in the International League and .205 with the Senators, which indicates that all pitching looks alike to him.

M'GOVERN SOLD TO DENVER

Arthur McGovern, of South Boston, known in baseball as "Torch" and "Terry," has been sold outright by the Lynn New England League Club to Denver of the Western League, and will report to Manager Jack Hendricks of the Denver club within the next two weeks. McGovern has been with the Lynn club the past two seasons, and last year managed the club besides holding down the initial sack. He began his professional career with the Fort Fairfield team some 16 years ago, and his playing on the Maine team attracted such attention that he was recommended to Fred Lake, then the manager of the Lowell team. After one season with Lowell he was sold to the Boston American League team in 1905. He remained with the Boston team throughout that season and the following spring he was sold to Manager Flanagan of the Brockton team. During his three years at Brockton he was a valuable player on the team, batting close to .300 and fielding well, while his ability on the bases was always a source of worry to pitchers. McGovern was here with Lynn last season and at one time was catcher for the North End Roses.

As Others See It. (London Free Press.) The Detroit News-Tribune makes the quite logical deduction that what the Canadian Liberals are aiming at is a republic.
