

at the grave. Brother and sister will sing the same songs of salvation. Children will clasp their hands with merry glee over papa's conversion; and mother's being washed in the blood of the Lamb.

Hell will rejoice. Yes, strange as it may seem, lost brothers, like the one in Luke xvi. 27-30, will be glad to know that others of the same household have escaped the torments of the wicked. This Scripture certainly teaches this.

THE DEFEAT OF SATAN.

The enemy of Christ foiled at last.

Seeking whom he may devour he has lost his prey.

Christ and the angels victorious.

Satan and the devils defeated.

The glory of triumph in battle.

One more in heaven—one less in hell.—Selected from "Lessons for Christian Workers," by Chas. H. Yatman.
