NEW PARK

North Chatham Citizens are Petitioning for Location of Charming Pleasure Resort.

A commendable enterprise is on foot—focused in the form of a citizens' petition which is meeting with universal favor—for the location of a civic park in North Chatham.

It is proposed by the promoters of the enterprise that the city shall procure the McKeough orchard property on St. Clair street and devote it to this purpose. North Chatham has no park and the creation of one will fill a long-felt want and prove besides a permanent advantage to the whole city.

Ald. Edmondson has taken the matter up most heartily and will urge the claims of the petitioners upon the Council. It is said that the citizens are enthusiastic over the proposal and the petition is securing hundreds of eager signatures.

FLASHED GUN

Frank Gagnier Raises a Disturbance
With a Shot Gun and Kills Mrs.
Jenkins' Cat.

Mrs. Jennie Jenkins, Ingram street, had a very narrow escape from death yesterday afternoon when Frank Gagnier, a neighbor, pointed a shot gun at her—at least this was the story she told Chief Holmes at the police station this morning—and the story thought enough of the story to report it to Judge Houston.

The whole trouble arose from the fact that Mrs. Jenkins is the owner of a "harmless, necessary cat." Mr.
Beniteau, the next door neighbor, is a raiser of chickens and his friend Frank Gagnier owns a shot gun.
Mr. Beniteau claims that the cat destroys his chickens so he employs his friend with the firearms to shoot the cat. Mrs. Jenkins in trying to save the cat nearly got in the way of the shot gun, the cat is killed, Mrs. Beniteau's chickens are safe, and Mrs. Jenkins has a grievance in the police court.

Mrs. Jenkins told a pathetic story.
She said the cat was a loving little animal and a great favorite in the household. Mrs. Laterneau, another neighbor, raised chickens and the cat never bothered them, in fact, the chickens and the cat used to take their meals together, and Mrs.
Laterneau never missed a single chick. Last night about six o'clock she was aroused by noises in her back yard and she went out with her baby in her arms to see what was the matter. She saw Mr. Beniteau and Mr. Gagnier looking over the line fence and the frightened cat hiding in a corner of the yard.
As soon as the animal saw its mistakes it ran to her, and it was then that Gagnier pointed the gun in her direction. She dodged into the house just in time to escape the shot, for at that moment Gagnier fired and the charge entered the carcass of the poor innocent puss.

"What did you kill my cat for?" asked Mrs. Jenkins.

"Because it has been killing my chickens," replied Mr. Beniteau.

"Why didn't you notify me that my cat was killing your chickens?" again asked Mrs. Jenkins.

Mr. Beniteau made no further reply, but picked up all that was mortal of the former pet and threw it in the ditch.

Mrs. Jenkins says she would not have complained if Mr. Beniteau had shot the cat on his own property when it was stealing chickens.
Frank Gagnier, the man who did the shooting, boards with Joe Houle.

The case will be investigated.

Life outweighs all things if love lies within it.

Heaven help the man whose friends are all enemies.

BLACK BIRDS

James Chartrand and James McGregor Have Different Ways of Treating the Members of this Feathery Tribe.

James Chartrand, caretaker of the Ursuline Academy, was a visitor—but not an offender—at the Police Station this morning.

Mr. Chartrand takes a keen interest in keeping everything around the convent clean and tidy, and he also does considerable gardening.
Just at present he has a field of sweet corn which is growing nicely and promises to be one of the finest patches of corn grown in the city this year. He has, however, one drawback, in the shape of blackbirds, which are very thick around The Pines and a constant menace to the corn patch.

Mr. Chartrand's mission to the Police Station was to receive a permit to shoot the troublesome birds. He received his permit from the Chief of Police, so the birds, if they wish to be safe, had better find some other corn patch.

"I never saw the blackbirds so thick around the Academy as they are this year," said Mr. Chartrand to The Planet. "Early in the morning you would think the place was full of them from the noise they make from their nests in the pine trees. Last year I thought they were bad enough when I could stand around and kill 30 or 40 in an evening, but this year they are worse."

Humane Officer James McGregor was standing near and heard the conversation and chimed in:—

"I have got about a dozen blackbirds and robins that I feed every morning when I go out to feed my dogs. These birds come around every morning as regularly as the clock points to seven o'clock and it would surprise you to see how tame they are. They will walk right up to me and pick up corn right around my feet, so that I have to be careful where I walk or I might step on one."

Thomas Steel, of Ridgeway, is one of the men who has nothing but good words to say of the Chatham mineral bath. Mr. Steel came here suffering with rheumatism and is now rapidly recovering and will soon be able to return home.

BEAT WIFE

Frank Mays Charged in the Police Court with Assaulting his Wife.

The residents in the vicinity of King street east and Duke street were entertained by a sideshow in the shape of a family quarrel last evening.

Frank Mays, who has a long record against him in the police court record, and who just recently finished a term in the penitentiary, came home late in the evening and it is claimed that he had been drinking.
At any rate he was in no mood for tipping.

He claims his wife addressed him in a way that was certainly not complimentary and was very objectionable to Mr. Mays. Some strong language was used and then Mr.
Mays became provoked and then lost his temper. Naturally there was a row and Mr. Mays being the stronger got the best of it and went so far as to give his wife a severe trouncing.

Mrs. Mays considered this going too far so she paid Chief Holmes a visit and Peter Dezelia was sent down to arrest the wrathful Mays.

Mays appeared at the police court this morning to answer to a charge of assault and he in turn entered a charge against his wife for using insulting language.
