BARNABY RUDGE

CHARLES DICKENS

being really nothing but a bird-

he glanced at her that she shrunk could only have good security for a deed." trom his eye! and that she busied fair, round number—say ten thousand his wife. "Is it a chilling thing to the cellar down below, where herself about the wounded gentleman to avoid him the better.

said. He was to be removed to his own home on the morrow, and he had already exceeded his time for on this hint, the locksmith prepared to take his leave.

"By-the-by," said Edward, as he from him to Mrs. Rudge and back again, "what noise was that below? I heard your voice in the midst of from my memory. What was it?"

the chair, and bent her eyes upon as he passed in. the ground. Barnaby too-he was lis- Miggs, running before him into the corrected one minute and petted the room prepared?" tening.

-"Some mad or drunken fellow, and tried to force an entrance."

caught up the candle to light him down the stairs, she took it from It ain't of no consequence, mim, of mistress and the light together. him, and charged him-with more course.'j haste and earnestness than so slight an occasion appeared to warrantnot to stir. The raven followed them to satisfy himself that all was right below, and when they reached the at once then."

"I have told a lie to-night, for your sake, Mary, and for the sake of bygone times, and old acquaintances, when I would scorn to do so for my own. I hope I may have done no harm, or led to none. I can't help the suspicions you have forced upon me, and I am loath, I tell you plainly, to leave Mr. Edward here. Take care he comes to no hurt. I doubt the safety of this roof, and am glad the strong impulse which evidently moved her to reply, opened the doorno wider than was sufficient for the passage of his body-and motioned upon the step, it was chained and locked behind him, and the raven, in with a tered, as she lamp.

se fair a name be guilty of such that have not seen near me all day.

As he make that the lockif I am wrong, and send me just ing!

is commonly called an uncertain tem- them? If you were dying! Why, if tom-haunted dreams. per-a phrase which being interpreted there was anything serious the matsignifies a temper tolerably certain ter with you, Martha, shouldn't I be to make everybody more or less un- in constant attendance upon you?" comfortable. Thus it generally happened, that when other people were merry, Mrs. Varden was dull; and that when other people were dull, would. That's as much as to tell me would rather hill a man blade who woul changes backwards and forwards on that monster master." all possible moods and flights in one short quarter of an hour; performing, as it were, a kind of triple bob with more resignation, "and then diverged from that centre, slackened his pace and wiped his heated brow, as if the terminstion of his walk ished all who heard her.

It has been observed in this good lady (who did not want for per- again. sonal attractions, being plump and stature) that this uncertainty of and divers wise men and matrons on ing.

friendly terms with the locksmith and "No, my dear, I spoke to you, his family, even went so far as to suggested the locksmith. assert that a tumble-down some half-dozen rounds in the world's lad-der-such as the breaking of the upon the ground. "You are beginbank in which her husband kept his ning to despise me now, are you? foot. After listening in vain money, or some little fall of that But this is example!"

which lop and top from poor oughly asserted, that lady soon deandmaidens all such genteel exer- sisted likewise and fell into a quiet This Miggs was a tall melancholy. young lady, very much addicted to pattens in private life; slender and tiguing occurrences of last night so threwish, of a rather uncomfortable completely overpowered the lock-smith that he not led in his chair, and would doubtless have kept there

The locksmith shook his head-per- As a general principle and abstract to be utterly contemptible and un- Miggs. worthy of notice; to be fickle, false, pany!" room, and was looking on in silence. could but die off. in order that the as they do."

shook him by the hand, and looked prise. "We was just gettin on our begging and praying him to do it? his follower over. nightcaps to sit up,-me and mis- Is that natural, or is it not?" tress. Oh, she has been so bad! I am very sorry, Martha," said when he had looked into his very soul.

I heard your voice in the midst of it, and should have inquired before, but our other conversation drove it but our other conversation drove it as Gabriel very well knew for whose erything; I shall only be too glad so long already that it was quite The locksmith looked towards ber, and lit his lip. She leaned against as he passed in parlor. sir," Varden at length made answer, looking steadily at the wicow as late two nights run- can be cheerful, Miggs, at least." be spoke. "He mistook the house, and tried to force an entrance."

I make the bound as property of the mistook the house, erate so far. I'm so glad, mim, on been in the very depths of compas "Playing skittles!" she breathed more freely, but stood Wiggs simplered the little despondency, passed instantly tain, moodily. quite motionless. As the locksmith self; I'll own it now, mim, though I and tossing her head as she glanced There was no doubt respecting the

"You had better," said the lock- varden, shrugging his shoulders and smith, who most devoutly wished drawing his chair nearer to the fire, sounded like distant thunder. It certainly appeared, at first sight, a in the same breath with wine; that's against the name Curzon. ankles, "you had better get to bed sant and agreeable? And yet she singular spot to choose, for that or rather too much. Here. Take the

With a trembling hand she unfasten- in peace, nor fix my thoughts upon for that.

he leaves it so soon. Now, let me countenance shrouded in a large out. At last he roused himself; and truncheon as an admonition to him countenance shrouded in a large out. At last he roused this charming renightcap, had been all this time inhaving double-locked the street door treat, and owner of the ragged head thigh-bone, which in former times the high-bone, which in former times the having double-locked the street door treat, and owner of the ragged head thigh-bone, which in former times the having double-locked the street door treat, and owner of the ragged head thigh-bone, which in former times the having double-locked the street door treat, and owner of the ragged head thigh-bone, which in former times the having double-locked the street door treat, and owner of the ragged head thigh-bone, which in former times the having double-locked the street door treat, and owner of the ragged head thigh-bone, which in former times the having double-locked the street door treat, and owner of the ragged head thigh-bone, which in former times the having double-locked the street door treat, and owner of the ragged head thigh-bone, which in former times the having double-locked the street door treat, and owner of the ragged head the having double-locked the street door treat, and owner of the ragged head thigh-bone, which in former times the having double-locked the street door treat, and owner of the ragged head the having double-locked the street door treat the ragged head the having double-locked the street door treat the ragged head the having double-locked the street door treat the ragged head the having double-locked the street door treat the ragged head the having double-locked the street door treat the ragged head the round, looked her to hold her tongue.

furtherence of these precautions, barked like a lusty house-dog.

"In league with that ill-looking fig"In league with that ill-looking figed her book), and rubbing his knees in the locksmith and rubbing his that have not seen near me all day, As he spoke, he drew from the right

"My dear Martha"-said Gabriel.

Mrs. Varden was disposed to be that you would be hovering round blade, who would rather kill a man amazingly cheerful. Indeed the wor- me like a vulture, waiting till the than otherwise, and eat him too if thy housewife was of such a ca- breath was out of my body, that you needful, made the best of his way pricious nature, that she not only might go and marry somebody else." along the darkened streets. attained a higher pitch of genius Miggs groaned in sympathy—a little Half pausing for an instant than Macbeth, in respect of her abil- short groan, checked in its birth, and and then to smite his pocket and ity to be wise, amazed, tempered and changed into a cough. It seemed to furious, loyal and neutral in an in- say, "I can't help it. It's wrung master key, he hurried on to Barbistant, but would sometimes ring the from me by the dreadful brutality of can, and turning into one of the nar-major on the peal of instruments in we shall both be happy. My only the female belfry, with a skilfulness desire is to see Dolly comfortably and rapidity of execution that aston- settled, and when she is, you may setthe me as soon as you like." "Ah!" cried Miggs-and coughed

Poor Gabriel twisted his wig about buxom to look at, though like her in silence for a long time, and then fair daughter, somewhat short in said mildly, "Has Dolly gone to bed?" "Your master speaks to you," said yard, profoundly dark, unpaved, and disposition strengthened and increas- Mrs. Varden, looking sternly over recking with stagnant odors. with her temporal prosperity; her shoulder at Miss Miggs in wait- this ill-favored pit, the locksmith's

"Did you hear me, Miggs?" cried kind-would be the making of her, At this rebuke, Miggs, whose tears and could hardly fail to render her were always ready for large or small struck the grating thrice again. one of the most agreeable companions parties on the shortest notice and existence. Whether they were the most reasonable terms, fell aright or wrong in this conjecture, crying violently; holding both hands certain it is that minds, like bodies, tight upon her heart meanwhile, as will often fall into a pimpled ill-condi- if nothing less would prevent it tioned state from mere excess of splitting into small fragments. Mrs. comfort, and like them, are often suc- Varden, who likewise possessed that cessfully cured by remedies in them- faculty in high perfection, wept too, selves very nauseous and unpalatable, against Miggs; and with such effect Mrs. Varden's chief aider and abet- that Miggs gave in after a time and, ter, and at the same time her prin- except for an occasional sob, which cipal victim and object of wrath, was seemed to threaten some remote irher single domestic servant, one Miss tention of breaking out again, left Miggs; or as she was called, in con-formity with those prejudices of so-field. Her superiority being thor-minutes, awoke him with a ragged head appeared.

are ever cheerful, if I am ever more "who should it be?" am treated."

"Such spirits as you was in too, "You're late, sir. haps in some doubt of the creature's proposition, Miggs held the male sex mim, but half an hour ago!" cried "Lead on," said Mr. Tappertit, with perhaps in pity for Barnaby, who by base, sottish, inclined to perjury, and "Because," said Mrs. Varden, "be- ward!" was rolling about, with him, on the ground. As he raised his eyes from the poor fellow he encountered those of his mother, who had entered the this time had him in his arms, and wholly undeserving. When particular- cause I never interfere or interrupt, This latter word of command was ample, she would, to spite mankind, have one's husband sulking and fall-there was a small copper fixed in greeted the locksmith, when he knock- over the fireside? Is it natural, when patchwork rng. ed at his own house, with a shrill I know he went out upon a matter rising with dignity. "I dare say-"Master's come home, mim," cried thank you! I'm not a child to be deigned to say in answer. "Is the "You was wrong, mim, and next-I'm a little too old for that, I was right. I thought he wouldn't Varden. Miggs, carry the light. You

Miggs simpered-"a little sleepy my- into the liveliest state conceivable, vellers!" said I wasn't when you asked me. towards the locksmith, bore off her particular amusement in which these

"You had better," said the lock- Varden, shrugging his shoulders and mosphere of the vault, the noise can be. Well, well, all of us have our any other purpose of relaxation, if glass. Benjamin, lead on. To busibelow, and when they reached the street-door, stood on the bottom the street-door, stood on the sto

Here Mrs. Varden, who, with her slept until the fire was quite burnt ner. and acknowledged in his pocket, went off to bed.

"In league with that ill-looking ligure that might have fallen from a giboet—he listening and hiding here

"You're very anxious to know the lorge. "Here's nail
the down upon the lorge. "Here's nail the night gone already. There's only one good that has ever come to me,
one good that has ever come to me,
one of his underground existence."

his smalls, a clumsy large-sized key, wards this person. which he inserted cautiously in the "My dear Martha," said the lock- into the street—as little suspected by melted gold from King George's tries therein with a pen of corres- wrestled from them, and in all which smith, "how can you say such things the locksmith in his sound deep sleep, mint." Mrs. Varden was a lady of what when you know you don't mean as by Barnaby himself in his phan-

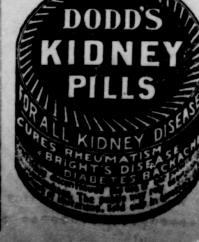

CHAPTER VIII.

Clear of the locksmith's house, Sim rowest of the narrow streets which diverged from that centre, slackened were near at hand.

It was not a very choice spot for midnight expeditions, being in truth one of more than questionable character, and of an appearance by no better than an alley, a low-browed vagrant 'prentice groped his way; gnd stopping at a house from whose defaced and rotten front the rude effigy of a Lottle swung to and fro like some gibbeted malefactor, struck thrice upon an iron grating with his some response to his signal. Tappertit became impatient.

A further delay ensued, but it was all night, but for the voice of Mrs. not of long duration. The ground and a start of long duration at the start of long duration. "Is that the captain?" said a voice "If I am ever," said Mrs. V.—not as ragged as the head.

scolding, but in a sort of monatonous remonstrance—"in spirits, if I haughtily, descending as he spoke, than usually disposed to be talka- "It's so late, we gave you up," retive and comfortable, this is the way turned the voice, as its owner stopped to shut and fasten the grating.

"I never see such com- a gloomy majesty, "and make remarks when I require you. For-track must have ended in a yawn-She was quite white in the face, even to her lips, but had wholly subdued her emotion, and wore her usual quiet look. Varden fancied as could but die off. in order that the as they do.

"Martha," urged the locksmith, endeavoring to look as wakeful as possible, "what is it you complain of? I really came home with every wish and personal display, cried "Forward great could solve sometimes declared, in and desire to be happy. I did, in ward!" again, in the horse great could solve sometimes declared, in a sthey do.

"Martha," urged the locksmith, endeavoring to look as wakeful as possible, "what is it you complain of? I really came home with every wish and personal display, cried "Forward great could solve sometimes declared, in a sthey do. he could assume; and led the way, hang, drown, stab, or poison her- ing asleep directly he comes home- one corner, a chair or two, a form It was time he went to bed, she self, with a joy past all expression. to have him freezing all one's warm- and a table, a glimmering fire, and a lit was the voice of Miggs that heartedness, and throwing cold water truckle-bed, covered with a ragged

"Welcome, noble captain!" cried a be had already exceeded his time for cry of "Who's there?" in which I am as much interested lanky figure, rising as from a nap. is the locksmith prepared in which I am as much interested lanky figure, rising as from a nap. The captain nodded. Then, throw-"What, akeady, sir!" said Miggs, to know all that has happened, or ing off his outer coat, he stood opening the door with a look of sur- that he should tell me without my composed in all his dignity, and eved

"What news to-night?" he asked, alarming to see him do it-"how come

"No matter," was all the captain "It is," replied his follower.

"The comrade-is he here?" "Yes. And a sprinkling of the oth-"Playing skittles!" said the cap-

"Light-hearted reheedless spirits were indulging, for "Now, who would think," thought even in the close and stifling athave been there, hours ago." door leading to the upper stairs was sickening, tainted and offensive. ing Start was partially opened; and a head It seemed from one strong flavor tions. Varden, pulling off his great-coat, and appeared, which, at sight of him, which was uppermost among the va-Varden, pulling off his great-coat, and appeared, which, at sight of the leoking at her askew.

"Taking the hint, sir," cried Miggs, with a flushed face, "and thanking ing at the noise, and looking round as a storehouse for cheeses; a circular they entered, strewn with a flushed face, "and thanking ing at the noise, and looking round as a storehouse for cheeses; a circular they entered, strewn with a flushed face, "and thanking ing at the noise, and looking round as a storehouse for cheeses; a circular they entered, strewn with a flushed face, "and thanking ing at the noise, and looking round as a storehouse for cheeses; a circular they entered, strewn with a flushed face, "and thanking ing at the noise, and looking round as a storehouse for cheeses; a circular they entered, strewn with a flushed face, "and thanking ing at the noise, and looking round as a storehouse for cheeses; a circular they entered, strewn with a flushed face, "and thanking ing at the noise, and looking round as a storehouse for cheeses; a circular they entered, strewn with a flushed face, "and thanking ing at the noise, and looking round as a storehouse for cheeses; a circular they entered, strewn with a flushed face, "and thanking ing at the noise, and looking round as a storehouse for cheeses; a circular they entered, strewn with a flushed face, "and thanking ing at the noise, and looking round as a storehouse for cheeses; a circular they entered, strewn with a flushed face, "and thanking ing at the noise, and looking round as a storehouse for cheeses; a circular they entered, strewn with a flushed face, "and thanking ing at the noise, and looking round as a storehouse for cheeses; a circular they entered, strewn with a flushed face, "and thanking ing at the noise, and looking round as a storehouse for cheeses; a circular they entered, strewn with a flushed face, "and thanking ing at the noise, and the noise face, "and the noise, and the noise, and blind.

"See," said Mr. Tappertit haughtcomes quick; so long as you the devil's cellar, if you like. "Boldly said, noble captain!"

I tell you.

"He's got his eyes on me!" they pierce like gimlets."

tices, and love to all fair maids. along in a sanguinary and anatomical and force, and having further inform-Drink, brave general, and warm your manner. gallant heart!"

"That I had but eves!" he cried, over

"to behold my captain's symmertical to look upon these twin ir aders of deal. domestic peace!"

FIFTH MONTH

31 DAYS

M.

W.

13

19

M. T. W.

M.

T. W.

EDUCATION

BRINGS

SUCCESS

20

22

23 24

25 26

27

28

29

31

r.

W. W.

W.

W.

S. S. Phillip and James, Apos.

S. Athanasius

S. Monica.

S. Antoninus.

S. Stanislas.

baldus.

Venantius.

¥ 1905

place; for the floors were of sodden arms again; and frowning with a sul- gives dutch cheese, too, eating Ches-With a trembling hand she unfastened the chain and bolts and turned the key. As she had her hand upon the latch, the latch, the latch, the locksmin said in a the lock said in a the locksmin said in a the locksmin said in the locksmin said > you for it most kindly, I will make the room, "I wish somebody would cumstance which, while it accounted skittle players were diverting them would burn his house down-for he bold to say, that if I give offence by marry Miggs. But that's impossible! for the greasy moisture that hung selves; as was manifested by the inhaving consideration for my mistress, I do not ask your pardon, but am content to get myself into trouble and to be suffering."

>
> In the greasy moisture that hung about it, was agreeably suggestive of rats. It was naturally damp besides, and little trees of fungus sprung from every mouldering cornate at a signal from the long comrade.
>
> The suggestive of rats is in possible: In the greasy moisture that hung about it, was agreeably suggestive of rats. It was naturally damp besides, and little trees of fungus sprung from every mouldering cornate at a signal from the long comrade. Then, this young gentleman, going to tie-wig as bare and frowzy as a some individual at least as long as Migg's championship by commanding He had not left the room in dark-stunted hearth-broom—had by this himself, and placed the same in the explanation, "vengenance, complete ness many minutes, when the head time joined them; and stood a lit- hands of Mr. Tappertit; who, receiv- and terrible. 'Prentice, do you love Every little bone in Miggs' throat again appeared, and Sim Tappertit entle apart, rubbing his hands, wag- ing it as a sceptre and staff of au- the Constitution?" passage of his body—and motioned and neck developed itself with a tered, bearing in his hands a little ging his hoary bristled chin, and thority cocked his three-cornered hat smiling in silence. His eyes were fiercely on the top of his head, and end instructed by his attendant spon-"What the devil husiness has he to closed; but had they been wide open mounted a large table, whereon a sors) replied, "I do!" "How do you find yourself now, my stop up so late!" muttered Sim, passure that might have fallen from a gibbet—he listening and hiding here —Barnaby first upon the spot last night—can she who has always bright—can she who has always bright—from he made the inquiry.

He had no sooner assumed his position, than another young gentleman and from a certain anxious raising and quivering of the list, that he was always bright—found obsistance and delivered in the had no sooner assumed his position, than another young gentleman and from a certain anxious raising and quivering of the lids, that he was blind.

He had no sooner assumed his position, than another young gentleman and from a certain anxious raising and quivering of the lids, that he was blind. "Even Stagg hath been asleep," the long comrade, who advanced to the ution (which was kept in a strong crimes in secret!" said the locksmith, musing. "Heaven forgive me
ing the locksmith, musing. "Heaven forgive me ing the locksmith said the locksmith said the locksmith said the lockthe long comrade, who advanced to the ution (which was kept in a strong the long comrade, who advanced to the ution (which was kept in a strong
the long comrade, who advanced to the ution (which was kept in a strong
the long comrade, who advanced to the ution (which was kept in a strong the locksmith said the lockthe long comrade, who advanced to the ution (which was kept in a strong the lockthe lockth stood there Atlas-wise. Then, the could not find out, or he would have "Sound, captain, sound!" cried the long comrade got upon the table too; endeavored to procure a copy of it). thoughts; but she is poor, the tempthoughts; but she is poor, the tempMrs. Varden turned over to the lock his master had secured, and blind man; "what does my noble capand seated himself in a lower chair the 'prentice had, in times gone by, next page; then went back again to softly opened the door. That done, tain drink-is it brandy, rum, usque-than Mr. Tappertit's, with much had frequently holidays of right hear of things as strange.—Ay, bark away, my friend. If there's any wickedness going on, that raven's in wickedness going on, that raven's in the bottom line over leaf to be quite bear of the last words, and then wickedness going on, that raven's in the bottom line over leaf to be quite bear of the last words, and then with an appearance with an appearance with the bottom line over leaf to be quite bear of the last words, and then with an appearance with an appearance with the bottom line over leaf to be quite bear of the last words, and then with an appearance with an appearance with the bottom line over leaf to be quite bear of the last words, and then with an appearance with the bottom line over leaf to be quite bear of the last words, and then with an appearance of the door. That door, take the bottom line over leaf to be quite bear of the last words, and then with an appearance with the bottom line over leaf to be quite bear of the last words, and then with an appearance with the bottom line over leaf to be quite bear of the last words, and then with an appearance with the bottom line over leaf to be quite bear of the last words, and then with an appearance with the bottom line over leaf to be quite bear and ceremony, placed the large broken people's neads by scores, delamp burning, and closing the door of oak, and we'd get it for you, if the bottom line over leaf to be quite bear of the bottom line over leaf to be quite bear of the bottom line over leaf to be quite bear of the bottom line over leaf to be quite bear of the bottom line over leaf to be quite bear of the bottom line over leaf to be quite bear of the bottom line over leaf to be quite bear of the bottom line over leaf to be quite bear of the bottom line over leaf to be quite bear of the bottom line over leaf to be quite bear of the bottom line over leaf to be quite bear of the bottom line over leaf to be quite bear of the bottom line over leaf to be quite bear of the bottom line over leaf to be quite bear of the bottom line over leaf to be quit of the deepest interest and study. carefully and without noise, stole out it was wine from a bishop's cellar, or en desk, and prepared to make enponding size.

ily, "that it's something strong, and these preparations, he looked totake wards care of that, you may bring it from pertit, flourishing the bone, knocked nine times therewith upon one of the united therefore to resist all change, re- skulls. At the ninth stroke, a third except such change as would restore joined the blind man. "Spoken like young gentleman emerged from the those good old English customs, by the 'Prentices' Glory. Ha, ha! From door leading to the skittle-ground, which they would stand or fall. Afthe devil's cellar! A brave joke! and bowing low, awaited his com-The captain joketh. Ha, ha, ha!" mands.

over as he walked to a closet and The 'prentice made answer that a donkey, he described their general took out a bottle and glass as care- stranger was in attendance, who objects; which were briefly vengenlessly as if he had been in full pos- claimed admission into that secret ance on their Tyrant Masters (of session of his sight, "if you make society of 'Prentice Knights, and a whose grievous and insupportable opthat row, you'll find that the cap- free participation in their rights, pri- pression no 'prentice souls entertain tain's very far from joking, and so vileges, and immunities. Thereupon a moment's doubt) and the restorat-Mr. Tappertit flourishing the bone cried again, and giving the other skull a rights and holidays; for neither of Stagg, stopping short on his way prodigious rap on the nose, exclaimhack, and affecting to screen his ed "Admit him!" At these dread ripe, being barely twenty strong, but door, two other 'prentices, having be-

As this silent group advances, Mr. Mr. Tappertit condescended to take Tappertit fixed his hat upon his head. the glass from his outstretched hand. The novice then laid his hand upon Stagg then dropped on one knee and his breast and bent before him. When gently smoothed the calves of his he had humbled himself sufficiently, legs, with an air of humble admira- the captain ordered the bandage to be removed and proceeded to eye him withdraw while retreat was yet with-

"Ha!" said the captain thoughtproportions! That I had but eyes, fully, when he had concluded this or-"Proceed."

glancing downward at his favorite limbs. "Go along, will you Stagg" Golden Fleece, Aldgate. Loves Cur-known as Parmelee's Vegetable Pills. When I touch my own afterwards, zon's daughter. Cannot say that administered at the proper time and cried the host, smiting them reproa- Curzon's daughter loves him. Should with the directions adhered to often Finding of the Holy Cross. S. Pius V., Pope S. John Lafore the Latin Gate. Second Sunday After Easter S. Benedict II., Pope. Apparition of S. Michael. S. Gregory Nazianzan. S. Alexander, Pope. S. Nereus and Companions. Third Sunday After Easter Patronage of S. Joseph. S. John Baptist de la Salle. S. John Nepomucene. S. Peter, Celestine, Pope. S. Bernardine of Sienna. Fourth Sunday After Easter Fourth Sunday After Easter. S. Paschal, Baylon. S. John Baptist de Rossi Our Lady Help of Christians. S. Gregory II.. Pope. S. Phillip, Ne. .. S. John I., Pope. Fifth Sunday After Easter S. Urban I., Pope. Rogation, S. Boniface IV., Pope Rogation, S. Felix I.. Pope. Rogation, S. Angela Mericis. We offer over 125 Courses of Study in Commercial, Industrial, High School, Agricultural, Scientific and Literary Subjects by mail. Canadian Correspondence College, Limited TORONTO, CAN.

BLESSED VIRGIN

"So please you," said the novice, "that's not the worst-he calls his

To which the novice (being to that

"The Church, the State, and every-Again the novice said, "I do.

found obeisance, and delivered it to how that under that same Constitnoble aspirations they were now re-When the long comrade had made strained; how the degrading checks imposed upon them were unquest-Mr. Tappertit; and Mr. Tap- ionably attritutable to the innovating spirit of the times, and how they backward, by reference to that sag-"I'll tell you what, my fine feller," "Prentice!" said the mighty capsaid Mr. Tappertit, eyeing the host tain, "who waits without?" ion, as aforesaid, of their ancient face with the bottle. "I feel 'em words the 'prentice bowed once more though I can't see 'em. Take 'em and so withdrew as he had come.

There soon appeared at the same ful. Then he described the oath which Mr. Tappertit smiled grimly at his tween them a third, whose eyes were of a noble body took, and which was means inviting. From the main street he had entered, itself little better than an alley, a low-browed better than an alley, a low-browed doorway led into a blind court, or the influence of which the blind man trimmed with tarnished lace; and who was attired in a dreadful and impressive kind; bind-bag-wig, and a broad-skirted coat, ing him at the bidding of his chief, to resist and obstruct the Lord Mayfeigned to undergo great anguish and was girded with a sword, in compli-or, sword-bearer, and chaplain; to torture, bade him, in a softened tone, ance with the laws of the Institut- despite the authority of the sherifs; approach, and hold his peace.
"I obey, captain," cried Stagg, drawing close to him and filling out drawing close to him and filling out assume this courtly dress, and kept case the fulness of time should bring it constantly in layender for their ion regulations the introduction of and to hold the court of alderman as a bumper without spilling a drop, it constantly in lavender, for their Bar, which was strictly constitutionby reason that he held his little fin-ger at the brim of the glass and this novice held a rusty blunderbuss age or in any way disfigure Templestopped at the instant the liquor pointed toward his ear, and the other all and always to be approached with touched it, "drink, noble governor. a very ancient sabre with which he reverence. Having gone over these Death to all masters, life to all 'pren- carved imaginary offenders as he came several heads with great eloquence

(To be Continued.)

in his power.

ed the novice that this society had had its origin in his own teeming brain, stimulated by a swelling sense of wrong and outrage, Mr. Tap-pertit demanded whether he had strength of heart to take the mighty pledge required, or whether he would

The long comrade read aloud as fol- To Prevent is Better Than to Recomestic peace?"

"Get out!" said Mr. Tappertit, lows: "Mark Gilbert. Age, nineteen. pent.—A little medicine in the shape." cried the host, smiting them reproa-achfully, "I hate 'em. Comparativ-ely speaking, they've no more shape than wooden legs, beside these model of my noble captain's."

"How?" cried the captain, starting "For looking at his daughter, "Yours!" exclaimed Mr. Tappertit.
"No, I should think not. Don't talk about these precious old toothpicks "Write Curzon down, Denounced," said the captain. "Put a black cross skin of imperfections.