THE SPICE OF LIFE.

The friends of Senator Chauncey M. Depew denounce as grossly exaggerated the report that, as a retail and wholesale dealer in anecdotes of all varieties, he has reformed. In fact, somebody asked the Senator about it not long since, and Mr. Depew replied:

"My reformation is only partial. I used to relate a joke in the face of all protest; now, however, I have learned a little wisdom: when I am telling a man a story I stop short if I see a certain peculiar gleam in his eye."

"The gleam that means he's heard it before?" inquired the curious one.

"No," replied the Senator; "the gleam that means he's busy thinking of one he means to tell me."

Some years ago in a country district in Maryland a case was tried in which the evidence of the plaintiff failed to establish his claim. After his attorney presented his case, the plaintiff asked him if he would allow him to say a few words. The lawyer, considering his case lost, consented. He said:

"Squire, I brought this suit, and the evidence, except my own, is against me. I don't accuse anyone of lying, squire, but the witnesses are the most mistaken lot of fellows I ever saw. You know me, squire. Two years ago you sold me a horse for sound that was as blind as a bat. I made the trade and stuck to it, and this is the first time I have mentioned it. When you used to buy grain, you stood on the scales when the empty wagon was weighed, but I never said a word. Now, do you think I am the kind of a man to kick up a rumpus and sue a fellow unless he has done me wrong?"

It took just five minutes for the jury to decide for the plaintiff.

A small boy was asked to take dinner at the home of a distinguished professor. The lad's mother, in fear lest he should commit some breach of etiquette, gave him repeated directions as to what he should and should not do.

Upon his return from the great occasion the mother's first question was, "Harold, did you get along at the table all right?"

"Oh, yes, mamma, well enough."

"You are sure you didn't do anything that was not perfectly polite and gentlemanly?"

"Why, no—nothing to speak of."

"Then something did happen. What was it?"

"But I fixed it all right, mamma."

"Tell me at once."

"Why, I got along pretty well until the meat came; but while I was trying to cut mine it slipped off on the floor. But I made it all right."

"What did you do?"

"Oh, I just said, sort of carelessly, 'That's always the way with tough meat.'"

In Montana they tell the following tale on one inveterate spinner of tales. He was out riding, and at the crest of a hill overlooking a little valley, which was nothing but a meadow, he met a stranger.

"Could you tell me whose land all that is?" asked the stranger, pointing to the valley.

"That is my land," replied the rancher with evident pride.

"And whose cattle may all those be that I see below us?"

"Those are my cattle, five thousand head, sir," replied the rancher with growing self-importance.

"And those horses?"

"Mine, sir."

"And those sheep on yonder hill?"

"All mine," answered the rancher, waving his hand with a grand air.

"How many horses and sheep have you?"

"Ten thousand sheep and two hundred horses," said the rancher in a most grandiose manner.

"I'm so glad to hear it," quickly answered the stranger. "I'm the new assessor."

"Great heavens, man!" cried the rancher, almost jumping from his saddle.

"You must have heard of me. I'm Jim Easton, known as the blank blankest bar in the State."
