Enthusiastic Reception to His Eminence Cardinal Logue.

His Arrival, the Signal for Patriotic Demonstration—Impressive Service and Immense Congregation at St. Patrick's Church—Thousands Gather to Catch a Glimpse of Primate of all Ireland—Eloquent Speeches and Largely Attended Receptions.

Saturday morning last witnessed the arrival in Montreal of His Eminence Cardinal Logue, Archbishop of Armagh and Primate of all Ireland. A distinguished party formed His Eminence's entourage: the Rt. Rev. Dr. Browne, Bishop of Cloyne; Mgr. P. H. Hays, Chancellor of the diocese of New York, and the Rev. Fathers Quinn and Browne, secretaries of His Eminence and the Bishop of Cloyne. Rev. Gerald McShane, pastor of St. Patrick's, Mr. W. E. Davis, passenger traffic manager of the G. T.R., and Mr. W. P. Kearney, President of St. Patrick's Society, met the party at Pointe Claire. Among those at the station were Archbishop Bruchesi, Bishop Racicot, Canon Martin, Canon Dauth, Mayor Payette, Mr. Justice Curran, Dr. Guerin, Mr. Justice Guerin, ex-Judge Doherty, Messrs. L. G. A. Cresse, K.C., T. Conroy, T. M. Tansey, J. J. McConniff, J. McArar, W. J. Crowe, F. Cassey, P. McDermott, M. Dineen, J. Noonan, H. J. Kavanagh, A. G. McQuirk, J. A. Sempie, E. R. Gunning, A. Jones, T. W. Wright, T. P. Tansey, M. O'Donnell, P. Lloyde, R. C. Wilkins.

A squad of police formed the guard of honor on the platform and kept back the crowd as one after the other of the prominent gentlemen present was presented to His Eminence. Half a dozen carriages were waiting in honor of the presence there of His Eminence Cardinal Logue, Primate of Ireland. The early hours of the morning bespoke anything but pleasant weather; but as the day more on had it been specially ordered it could not have been brighter. At about half past ten a squad of nence visited the Montreal College, where two addresses were read, one in English, the other in Irish, to both of which His Eminence made fitting replies. He was then entertained at dinner in the archiepiscopal palace by Archbishop Bruchesi, to which practically all the English-speaking priests of the diocese were invited. Cardinal Logue then visited the Cathedral, which he greatly admired. Laval University, Notre Dame Church, Bonsecours Church, the Seminary of St. Sulpice, the Catholic Sailors' Club, St. Patrick's Orphan Asylum and the Convent of the Sisters of Jesus and Mary, Outremont, where the daughter of Mr. John Gallery presented His Eminence with a basket of flowers. The Archbishop's Palace was reached shortly after six, and in the evening Mr. Justice Doherty entertained the episcopal visitors at the St. James Club, the following gentlemen being present: The Papal Delegate to the Dominion, Mgr. Sbarretti, Mgr. Hayes, of New York; the Rt. Rev. Dr. Browne, Bishop of Cloyne; Mr. Justice Curran, Mr. Justice Guerin, W. P. Kearney, M. H. J. Kavanagh, the Rev. Gerald McShane, parish priest of St. Patrick's; Mgr. Sinnott, secretary to the Papal Delegate, and the Rev. Messrs. Quinn and Browne, of the Cardinal's party. On Sunday afternoon, immediately after lunch, His Eminence called upon hard to imagine—the altar one blaze of light, the organ pealing forth "Let Erin Remember the Days of Old," while the stately procession advanced up the centre aisle. The Cardinal proceeding to the throne after halting a moment at the shrine of St. Patrick. His Lordship the Bishop of Cloyne was seated within the sanctuary. Mgr. Patrick Hays, Chancellor of the Diocese of New York, representing His Grace Archbishop Farley, of New York, celebrated Mass, assisted by Rev. T. O'Reilly as deacon and Rev. F. Elliott as sub-deacon. After the Gospel the pastor, the Rev. Gerald McShane, delivered the following address of welcome:

Your Eminence—The wishes and thanks of the faithful will be fitly expressed to you at the close of Holy Mass.

Permit me, for the present, to say one word in the name of the priests and people whom you are honoring by this condescending visit.

The presence of Your Eminence this morning, in this, the oldest Irish temple of Montreal, has more than the Irish in the country that has just so warmly and magnificently welcomed your Eminence, yet as a part of a young and progressive country, we claim for ourselves our share in the religious and social well-being of Canada.

But if we have accomplished aught, we readily and gratefully attribute it to the maintenance in our midst of Irish traditions, traditions of love and attachment for the faith, traditions of veneration for all that is good and sacred and Irish in the true spirit of the Catholic home; all this, blending with a real sense of responsibility and loyalty towards all that goes to promote the interests of true Canadian citizenship. Your Eminence will deem to extend over this vast congregation a kindly blessing that will abide with us, our homes and our families in fruits of faith and piety.

Yes, your Eminence, bless us, priests and people, our parish, our city, our homes and our children. Bless us as the highest dignitary of the Church in Ireland and as the successor of St. Patrick. The wish and prayer that we would make to-day, is that this visit and blessing of your Eminence may revive and stimulate in our hearts, in the hearts of our

the auspicious event that brought you to America, thus enabling us to gather around the great "Irish Cardinal," to speak out our undying love for the land of our forefathers, our affection and veneration for Your Eminence whose career has shed such lustre on all we hold most dear.

Coming from the magnificent spectacle just enacted in the city of New York—an event that cannot be forgotten by this generation—our little demonstration must, of necessity, appear almost insignificant. Yet, rest assured that forty thousand Irish Canadian hearts are beating high today in this good city of Montreal, exulting in the distinction you are conferring upon them by this gracious visit, praying with all the fervor of their Celtic nature that you may be blessed with long life, health and every gift of Divine Providence, needed for the fulfillment of your exalted mission for God and country.

Your Eminence is now beneath the roof of old St. Patrick's, but gathered here are representatives of the city of the Irish Catholic parishes of St. Ann's and St. Anthony's, St. Agnes' and St. Gabriel's, St. Mary's St. Michael's and St. Aloysius, who have joined as one family to tender their greetings. You will be pleased to see in them men who are not only true to Mother Church, but citizens loyal and happy, having their share in things federal, provincial and municipal, holding their own in every department of life, striving manfully to do their whole duty to their Canadian home.

In the dark days of 1847, when so many exiles of Erin made this city their abiding place, there came amongst us from the County Louth one who was patriot, patriot and statesman, the late lamented Father Dowd. His monument stands not only in this beautiful temple, in our St. Patrick's Orphan Asylum, in our St. Bridge's Refuge, and other institutions, but in the moral, religious and material condition of our people to whom he was father and guide. His panegyrics were written by the press of every shade of opinion from the Atlantic to the Pacific, when, after more than forty years of labor amongst us, the famous Sulpician had passed away, mourned as the friend of peace and progress, of law and order. This great man, to whom we owe so much was from your own archdiocese of Armagh, and was honored by the personal friendship of Your Eminence.

Those on whose behalf I have the distinguished honor of addressing Your Eminence to-day are living in the strongest bonds of harmony and good will with their neighbors without distinction of race or creed. This is the result of the teachings of our devoted clergy. It is also the result of laws made on our own soil by the people of our own country. In bidding Your Eminence welcome and in the same breath farewell, after this too brief a sojourn, we ask as a first favor your fatherly blessing, and we would then beg of Your Eminence, when once more you place foot on the soil of dear old Ireland, sanctified by St. Patrick and consecrated by the toil and suffering and sacrifice of so many generations of his children, that you will be pleased to convey to your people this message, "May God grant that ere long Irishmen in Ireland may be as free and happy as their brethren now are in the glorious self-governed Dominion of Canada."

On behalf of the Irish Catholic societies and of the laity, I have the honor to be, your most obedient servant.

J. J. CURRAN.

His Eminence then ascended the pulpit, and heartily expressed his appreciation of the warm welcome accorded to him. He was sensitive of the vast resources of this great Canada of ours and was pleased to see that they had been taken advantage of by the people of the Irish race. He congratulated his hearers upon living in a country where they possessed political and religious liberty to its full, and asked them if they were not all the more loyal to the rulers whom Divine Providence had placed in authority over them from the fact of being recipients of such liberty and freedom. There are sometimes more which caused him outside the station, and after the first greetings were over the distinguished party at once drove to the archiepiscopal palace, escorted by a detachment of mounted police. The Cardinal's party were accompanied on their round of visits and sightseeing by Rev. Gerald McShane, Canon Dauth and Mr. W. P. Kearney, president of St. Patrick's Society; Mr. J. H. Kavanagh, first vice-president; Mr. T. P. Tansey, recording secretary; Mr. T. W. Wright, corresponding secretary and Dr. W. Kennedy. On Saturday morning, after a drive round the mountain, His Emi-

the ladies of the Sacre Heart at their city house, Alexander street, then drove out to Villa Maria, the chief boarding school of the Sisters of the Congregation. The pupils greeted their guest with a pretty song of welcome and Miss Cuddy read an address from the Villa. His Eminence and party went to St. Patrick's School.

CEREMONY AT ST. PATRICK'S CHURCH.

Magnificent pomp and ceremony marked the service on Sunday last at High Mass in St. Patrick's Church policemen in full dress and the A.O. H. Knights lined up in front of St. Patrick's Presbytery. As the Cardinal appeared at the door the Knights saluted, and cross bearer, sanctuary choir, societies of St. Patrick's and delegates from the other Irish parishes, clergy, the Rt. Rev. Dr. Browne, Bishop of Cloyne, finally the Cardinal, on either side of whom walked his own secretary and that of the Bishop of Cloyne, formed in procession and proceeding by way of Dorchester and Alexander streets entered the main door of the church. A more imposing sight would be ordinary significance.

Whilst accepting the expression of our deep sense of appreciation of your coming in our midst, your Eminence will allow us to see in this honored visit, not merely the desire of the visitor to see unknown lands, but more especially the wish, the yearning, perhaps, of the old and faithful friend and countryman to visit a people that is still significantly called "Father Dowd's people."

The children of St. Patrick in this land do not only see the personal influence that have been attained by youth, the spirit of the past, that with a just love for progress and advancement, we may be ever true to the lessons and examples of our Irish parents.

At the conclusion of Mass His Honor Judge Curran presented an address in the name of the laity. To His Eminence, Michael, Cardinal Logue, Archbishop of Armagh, Primate of all Ireland: May it please Your Eminence—

Caed mille faillte are the only words to express our joy at seeing you in our midst. Such an honor we could hardly have anticipated. We bless
