Boy Knight Notes

The B. K. made a great showing last Sunday when they paraded to the Gospel Tabernacle in Eagle Place. Here an excellent discourse was delivered by the Rev. Mr. North, taking for his text Daniel 1-8, "But Daniel purposed in his heart." He showed how highly necessary it was for a boy to have a purpose in his life. A high and noble purpose. How many men's lives was a shipwreck because of not having such a purpose, and avoid the sinister bad habits in order to live a good life. Above all for them to take as a constant companion in their lives and thoughts their Saviour, the Lord Jesus. He had the boys sing a verse of a hymn together. The service was a most noteworthy one in every way.

ROUTE MARCH

On Friday evening a route march was held. This was most successful, and aroused some enthusiasm at times.

BAND PRACTICE

A full rehearsal was held on Thursday evening. Many new members are desirous of joining up with the band, but each will have to take his turn in this regard. The juniors are also making good progress with their band. Quite a number of boys were out to the study class.

MOTHER'S GUILD

are doing splendid work and expect to have a big sale of work in the near future.

GIRL COMPANIONS

will put on the cantata "When the roses come," next Friday evening. They expect a big crowd. Mrs. Lockyer is also making arrangements for a fancy sale with them.

The Saturday morning class was well attended.

Parade will be held to Colborne St. Methodist church next Sunday. Be there.

The executive committee held a meeting at the city hall on Wednesday evening. Much business of an important nature was transacted.

TARGET WORK

The scores in this regard are gradually mounting up. Many of our new members are making a good showing in this regard already.

The juniors are leading the seniors at the present time, but the seniors say that their time is coming, so watch out for them, something will be doing.

Letters were received from Earl Matthews and Clinton Attridge, both of whom are well and desire to be remembered to the boys.

POSTPONED MONARCHY

By Special Wire to the Courier.

Peking, Nov. 12.—Chargé D'Affaires Vane of the Italian legation, visited the Foreign Office to-day and seconded the request of Japan, Russia, Great Britain and France that the establishment of a monarchy be postponed. Lu Cheng Hsiang, the foreign minister, reiterated the reply he had made to the other diplomats stating that the Chinese people have declared for the restoration of the monarchy, but that it would be delayed until a suitable time could be found for the enthronement ceremonies.

Six Torontos are Signed Up

Three Former Shamrock Players Are Included in the List.

Toronto, Nov. 12.—Owner E. J. Livingston, of the Torontos of the N. H. A., announces that he has signed Harry Cameron, Percy LeSueur, Corbett and Cyril Denny. As the latter two were members of the Shamrocks last season it looks as if Livingston did not allow them to get away from him when he sold the Shamrocks. The deal for the latter club has not yet been completed, there being several details yet to be straightened out. In addition to signing the four players, Livingston also announces that he has signed two others whose names he doesn't wish to disclose at the present stage.

A deal is pending by the Shamrocks for the purchase of Goalkeeper Herbert from the Ottawa club, and should Goalkeeper Harry Holmes decide to play at the coast it will be consummated. Whether this means that Holmes will be sold to the Shamrocks or not is a question that will have to remain unanswered.

Hockey Gossip.

As both Corbett and Cyril Denny received flattering offers to play at the Coast this season, their signing with the Torontos bears out the statement of the N. H. A. magnates that the players would sooner play in the East than in the West.

It is likely that Dick Irwin, the fast rover of the Monarch team of Winnipeg, holders of the Allan Cup, will be found with one of the N. H. A. teams this season.

The Ontario Hockey Club of London, a new organization, have applied for admission to the O. H. A. They will play in the junior series.

Milton, who have not been represented in the O. H. A. for several seasons, have applied for admission to the junior O. H. A. series.

With Milton back in the O. H. A. a certain well known O. H. A. referee will be able to renew his boyhood acquaintances.

The St. Michael's hockey club of Cobourg have applied for permission to put an intermediate team in the O. H. A. this season. Cobourg has many players at this level, but like-wise have a lot of youngsters ready to step out and play O. H. A. hockey.

PROCLAMATION TO THE ITALIAN ARMY

By Special Wire to the Courier.

Paris, Nov. 12.—In a proclamation to the army issued on the birthday of King Victor Emmanuel, says a Havas despatch from Rome, Gen. Cadorna, the Italian commander-in-chief, paid a tribute to the courage of the ruler, declaring:

"For two months his majesty always first in danger and in example, has lived the life of the army. Inspired by him, with faith still more intense the Italian army renews its vow to continue on the road to final victory which will assure the realization of our just national aspirations."

VENTILATION DURING THE COLD WEATHER

It is easy enough to ventilate the house in warm weather. One simply leaves most of the windows open most of the time. To be sure, we are often assured by scientists that this method does not ventilate. We are even told that the air out-of-doors is not always ventilated. But we manage to thrive in the closeness of the outdoors atmosphere, and we manage to feel comfortable if we get a good deal of this atmosphere into our houses.

With the coming of cold weather, ventilation is a truly difficult matter. For we cannot leave our windows wide open. Unless we would walk about our houses clad in sweaters and helmets and unless we would run up stupendous coal bills, we must close our windows for the sake of comfort.

It is possible, too, to have canvas screens to cover the lower half of an open window. These let in some air, but keep out a great deal, and keep out snow and rain, too.

Weather boards, to put in partly open windows, are also admirable. There make ventilation possible without creating a very big draught.

THE WOMEN OF FRANCE

(From a Letter by Owen Johnson in the N. Y. Times)

Not even Americans so ardently love and long for peace as France—peace for her children. Yet not a woman in the throngs I questioned gave me an un-Spartan answer. So inflexible is their pride of country, so consecrated their resolution, that if a ministry should attempt to betray France with an illusory peace, in the absence of men, the women, I believe, would rise and make a revolution. I will quote but one of a hundred letters shown me, without comment for comment would be futile. It is from a mother to the head of a great ammunition factory, where her two sons had been transferred from the front to give their trained services.

"I have just learned that you have asked the superintendent to keep my sons away from the most dangerous experiments in the charging of the shells. I can't tell you how offensive this demand is to me. I consider that my sons should go where there is the most danger to be incurred."

"They should do so, first, because they are the nephews of one of the owners. Their duty is to give an example of courage to the employees who may be haunted by the memory of the terrible catastrophes which have taken place lately, which were the result of the inexperience and imprudence of those who were directing the operations. They should assist in all such experiments, even were they more dangerous than they are in reality, because my sons are soldiers."

You know that I only consented to advise their leaving the front, because you assured me that their presence in the factories would be more important than in the trenches, and that there would be certain dangers to be met. The first accident that occurred at the factory decided me to grant your request. I beg of you not to change now in any way the duties of my sons.

"When war was declared I felt clearly all the sorrows which might visit us, and I promised myself that I would give my children an example of courage. My daughters will not see me overwhelmed by misfortunes; my sons know with what pride I have seen them and wish to see them face the worst dangers."

"Sorrow has visited both you and me already in its cruellest form. Do not let us ask for pity. Let us go to the end of the Calvary without flinching."

I will not give the signature, for in justice, if I give it, it should be signed—

ANY MOTHER IN FRANCE

HOW EXPLOSIONS ACT

When there is a violent explosion the surrounding air is thrown back with sudden force in air waves that are powerful in proportion in which the explosion is violent and powerful. The explosion acts in all directions at once with equal force, and the air on all sides is forced out, and surrounding air rushes in to fill the threatened vacuum. When ever the air waves start up suddenly, there will be demolition by their explosive and not sufficient power of resistance.

A curious thing about the effect of these waves at a distance is the restricted limit of their force. Sometimes, a result of a big explosion, the front windows of a building several miles away will be drawn out and no other building on the block damaged. In such cases the air suction is apt to affect buildings at different points along the same street.

The destructive power of explosions is reckoned with as a most important factor in modern warfare. Projectiles thrown from big guns do more damage by their explosive than by the striking force. It is the explosion after they reach their destination that is expected to do most destruction.

Well-protected forts are not taken merely by battering them with a steady stream of shells, but by dropping into them projectiles that cause explosive havoc.

ABOUT TOM THUMB

The celebration in Boston of her 75th birthday, Mrs. Tom Thumb, recalls an interesting character whose name was a household word in the latter part of the nineteenth century. General Tom Thumb, the little fellow, was born in Bridgeport, Conn., in 1838, and early in life attracted attention by his diminutive stature. When a young he was about two feet in height and weighed 20 pounds.

The late P. T. Barnum, of circus fame, as soon as he heard of the dwarf, offered to exhibit him in public, which offer was accepted. Tom Thumb became an important part of Barnum's circus, and for 12 years toured the world, attracting attention everywhere, kings as well as humble persons seeking acquaintance with him. The little fellow was in the public eye and grew tall and fat, comparatively speaking, until in the end he attained a height of three feet, four inches. In 1863 he married Mercy Lavinia Barnum, also a dwarf, and became more popular than ever. In 1883 he died and was generally mourned. Probably if Tom Thumb were alive to-day he would attract little if any attention. Certainly his presence on the freaks' platform would not create a sensation in any up-to-date community. For the public now seeks more exciting diversion than exhibitions of dwarfs and giants.

The Magic of Garlic.

One of the most important medical discoveries of the war is the magical properties of garlic as an antiseptic. It has proved to be a tremendous boon to the wounded soldiers. The discovery was first announced in the "Lancet" by Dr. D. Serret Cooke and Dr. V. Gabriel, two London medical men, who introduced the remedy into Paddington Infirmary with remarkable results. Of the hundred cases treated there, not a single failure was recorded. Most of these cases were of people in very weak health and with terribly infected wounds, and of infirm, old people who appeared to have no chance of recovery. Equally gratifying results have been obtained at the front. When applied to a wound, the garlic stops the infection and heals the wound in an astonishingly quick time, where other antiseptics injure the tissues if used at the strength required to arrest infection. The juice gets the infection under control within forty-eight hours, even in the worst cases.

The medical properties of garlic were well known in our grandmothers' days, and no garden was considered complete that did not make provision for medicinal herbs, including garlic. But the medical lore of women has almost died out. While travelling in France recently an army doctor found an old peasant woman carrying a bunch of garlic. She said she rubbed pieces of garlic on sores and found that they cured them. Native apothecaries in India effect cures by using it as a plaster.

In Memory of Miss Cavell.

By Special Wire to the Courier.

Chicago, Nov. 12.—A hospital motor ambulance, costing $5,000, will be presented to the British army by the British Empire Association of Chicago as a memorial to the late Edith Cavell, the nurse recently shot at Brussels by the Germans, it was announced to-day.

Henry H. Asquith

Britain's

The public are less than with those of Mr. Asquith. The time for the prime minister was fortunately not yet, but of the prime minister was old Spender has written very interesting and personal facts which numbers who are fairly his public life. A well known that a Balliol man, Doctor Jowett when Mr. Asquith put to him "Will Asquith get on the reply was: 'Yes he is so direct.' That Mr. Asquith failed.

But while the "direct" Mr. Asquith, we are as "soft and mild side."

In private his wit is a and often boyish in its "They don't often catch him," he said to the gals, "they whips when he fells asleep from fatigue, sport with his children, a rule, with those near Mr. Asquith, and he is roughly genial and hearty. To his intimates, indeed, the comrade than the family the fond and be fathers; to his secretaries loyal and tolerant of his Cabinets the best of his to praise, slow to blame, erous, appreciative, helpful. Yet always there is the power behind, and this, Mr. Asquith, latest his, the secret of his mastery.

HIS RECREATIONS

Mr. Asquith loves reading though one might hardly According to the author:

He reads many novels—els of the old-fashioned type, little in love with modernism in fiction. He plays bridge. He is still as a theatre as when he was late in life he took to go though he does not aspire mock-professional, he plays steady game. Although sports in early life he still with a true British devotion, reputation for being a ren austere figure?

The explanation, it is a party in his habit of aloof. He rarely into the l smoke-rooms of the House passes rapidly, seeing few loathes the more vulgar of party management and of It requires all the scour Whips to bring him to the popularising himself. He is Coriolanus in this matter. Being shy himself, he is by believing that they are to those readings of the men call familiarity. From the Treasury Bench
