LONG BOW STORIES.

Legends of the Famous Archers of the Remote Past.

Many "long bow" stories may be cited in the literature of the world, and by far the greater part of them had their origin in the remote past. Vergil, in the "Æneid," tells of four archers who were shooting for a prize, the mark being a pigeon tied by a cord to the mast of a ship. The first man hit the mark, the second cut the cord, and the third shot the pigeon as it flew away. The fourth archer, having nothing left at which to shoot, drew his bow and sent his arrow flying toward the sky with such speed that the friction of the air set the feathers on fire, and it swept on like a meteor to disappear in the clouds.

That is a bow and arrow story that tests the strongest powers of credulity. The stories of Robin Hood's archery, illustrated by his wonderful performance as Locksley in Scott's "Ivanhoe," are also a decided strain on one's power of belief.

The famous legend of William Tell is believed by some to have a foundation in fact. There was a Dane named Foke of whom the same story was told, and William of Clondestey, an Englishman, is said to have shot an apple from his son's head merely to show his skill.

The majority of bow and arrow stories relate to the accurate aim of the archers, but a Frenchman, Blaise de Vigenere, tells one in which the main point is the tremendous force with which an arrow may be propelled if the bow is strong and long enough. According to his own account of the matter, he saw Barbarossa, a Turk, admiral of a ship called the Grand Soliman, send an arrow from his bow clean through a cannon ball. Whether the cannon ball had a hole in it or not he neglects to inform us.

Perhaps the most astounding of all stories about arrow shooting is that of the Indians who used to inhabit Florida. It is said that a group of them would form a circle; one would throw an ear of corn into the air; the rest would shoot at it and shell it of every grain before it fell to the ground. Sometimes the arrows would strike the ear of corn so hard and fast that it would remain suspended in the air several minutes, and the cob never fell until the last grain had been shot away.

HINDOO PROVERBS.

Happiness consists in the absence of anxiety.
Truth, contentment, patience and mercy belong to great minds.

Little things should not be despised. Many straws united will bind an elephant.

It can never be safe to unite with an enemy. Water, though heated, will soon extinguish fire.

He who removes another from danger and he who removes terror from the mind are the greatest of friends.

Courage is tried in war, integrity in the payment of debt and interest, the faithfulness of a wife in poverty and friendship in distress.

Every one looking downward becomes impressed with the idea of his own greatness, but looking upward feels his own littleness.

He who in your presence speaks kindly, but in your absence seeks to injure, must be rejected like a bowl of poison covered with milk.

Obedience of Orders.
A naval commander in the reign of Queen Anne was ordered to cruise with a squadron within certain limits on the coast of Spain. Having received information that a Spanish fleet was in Vigo, beyond his limits, he resolved to risk his personal responsibility for the good of his country. He accordingly attacked and defeated the Spanish fleet with uncommon gallantry. When he joined the admiral under whom he served, he was ordered under arrest and was asked if he did not know that by the articles of war he was liable to be shot for disobedience of orders.

He replied with great composure that he was very sensible that he was, but added, "The man who is afraid to risk his life in any way when the good of his country requires it is unworthy of a command in her majesty's service."

Coughing in Lieu of Oratory.
A singular fashion which prevailed among the preachers of Cromwell's time was that of coughing or hemming in the middle of a sentence in order to attract the attention of the congregation. The necessity of continually attracting the attention of the listeners could not have argued well for the brilliancy of the sermons. Some authorities say that the preachers coughed merely as an ornament to speech. At any rate, when the sermons were printed, as many of them were, the coughs and hems were always indicated on the margin of the page.

Interested in Antiques.
Professor McGoozle suddenly checking himself—Pardon me, Miss Genevieve, for talking so long. When I got started on my hobby I never knew when to stop. I ought not to have assumed, anyhow, that you are interested in antiques. Miss de Muir—Indeed I am, professor. I could listen to you for hours.

He Promised.
"I can't spare the money very well, but I'll gladly loan it to you if you promise not to keep it too long."
"I solemnly swear that I'll spend every penny of it before tomorrow morning!"

Rock temples at Ipsambool, on the Nile, are believed to be the world's oldest architectural ruins.

Willed Away the Laundry.
When a perfectly strange woman came for the soiled clothes the mistress of the house came to the conclusion that her own landlady had simply employed a new messenger and made no comment on the circumstances.

But when two weeks had gone by and still the old landlady, known as Susan, no last name having been mentioned, did not appear the mistress of the house felt that she would be lacking in her duty if she did not make some inquiry about her.

"Where is Susan?" she asked the tall and bony structure who came for the clothes.

"She has gone to Pennsylvania to live, yessum," returned this person, with composure. "She went to Pennsylvania some time ago, and she left goodby for yuh, but if long as yuh didn't seem tuh nuda I didn't say nuffin."

"But why didn't she come and tell me and allow me to make some arrangements about my laundry?" asked Susan's ex-mistress.

"Well, she left yuh clothes tuh meh. She made a will an' left dem clothes tuh meh. Wese allus been good friends, and so when she left she say I may wash yuh clothes long as I wish tuh, an' dere wuz no use worryin' yuh 'bout it, now was dere?"

To which moderate and sensible question the mistress of the house could only remain speechless.

Coke.
The silvery luster shown by many of the best grades of coke is said to be due principally to the decomposition of some of the gases evolved during the process of coking, and the deposition of a thin coating of pure carbon on the surface of the coke cells. This thin coating protects the cells from alteration in the air and is accountable for the durability shown by many cokes.

MOORS ARE ATTACKING

Five Thousand Horsemen Advance on French Camp.

Artillery Begins Firing—Natives Engaged Are Fiercest of Disaffected Tribesmen—Sultan Barricades Himself—Will Make Morocco Pay Heavy Indemnity—Three Soldiers Killed and Twelve Wounded.

Paris, Aug. 31.—In a despatch from Casablanca, a correspondent of The Matin says: At the moment of filing this despatch 5,000 horsemen are advancing on the camp of the French. The artillery has begun firing. These men are supposed to be from the camp at Herichion, and are the fiercest of all the tribesmen.

The Medina tribesmen camped at Tadert have opened a market for the disposal of booty. The other tribes encamped at Herichion have been restrained from attacking the French, up to the present time, by the Medina, who had received a letter from Mulai Haf, telling them to follow this course. But now they are getting restive, and are accusing the Medina of being traitors in the pay of the French. The natives are convinced that Mulai Haf is coming to Casablanca to try and get an official mandate from the French Government to restore order, and that he will profit by the opportunity to establish himself on a firm basis and supplant Abdul Aziz, the Sultan of Record.

Paris, Aug. 31.—The correspondent of The Matin declares that the Sultan Abdul Aziz tried to set out for Rabat but was forced to return by the hostility of the populace. He has barricaded himself in the palace at Fez.

Paris, Aug. 31.—The report that the French intend to insist that Morocco shall pay the heavy expenses resulting from the French military and naval action in the latter country appeared to be correct. The expenditure is increasing steadily with the enlargement of the activity of the French forces, and Germany, Great Britain and the other powers of Europe are understood to be in sympathy with France's attitude. It is also stated in well-informed official circles that the old powers intend to demand payments for the losses sustained by their subjects in Morocco. However, it is recognized that the existence of two Sultans of Morocco will render it a difficult matter to fix the responsibility for the payment of the expenses incurred.

The French recruit Desair, which is due to arrive at Tangier on Sunday, was sent there following an interview between the British ambassador here, Sir Francis Bertie and Premier Clemenceau Thursday, during which the ambassador pointed out the dangerous position of the Europeans at Tangier.

According to the latest advice from Casablanca, the French losses in the fighting near the camp Aug. 22, were three men killed and twelve wounded, the killed including a cavalryman of the 1st Algerian horse, who was decapitated, and whose head was carried off by the Moors.

The enemy's losses are believed to have been heavy.

Casablanca, Aug. 31.—During the fighting between the French and the Moors on Thursday near the French camp the Moors at first retreated, and it was believed that the engagement was over, when suddenly the enemy reappeared in great force in two directions. The Spanish and regular Algerian cavalry found themselves almost surrounded, but formed a square, and slowly fell back until reinforcements came. In the mean while the French warships showered shells among the hills sheltering the enemy. The engagement lasted three hours. The line of battle extended over two miles, and it is estimated that about 12,000 Moors were engaged. The loss of the latter is not known, but it is believed to have been heavy, as French officers counted the bodies of twenty Moors in one road way. The French loss was 15 killed and wounded.

The cruisers Gloire and Gueydon yesterday bombarded the beach beyond Casablanca, where a force of Moorish cavalry gathered, but was soon dispersed by the warships fire.

Editors Caught Napping.
Louisville, Ky., Aug. 31.—The Courier-Journal building, in which are located the plants of The Courier-Journal and Evening Times, was destroyed by fire yesterday. The structure was five stories high and occupied half a block.

The editorial and reportorial forces of The Courier-Journal stuck to the building in the hope that the blaze would be subdued, and that they could issue a paper. They were caught napping with fire at all exits, and had to be taken out by ladders.

The damage on building and contents is estimated at $650,000; well insured.

Died in Sight of Home.
Brookville, Aug. 31.—After an absence of 36 years, away from his old home, and traveling from Adair, Iowa, with his wife for the purpose of visiting with old friends at Dawson, a few miles from here, Edward McEvoy was taken suddenly ill in a hotel at Kempville, six miles from his objective point, on Thursday night, and died before morning.

Bishop Ingram Falls.
Liverpool, Aug. 31.—The Bishop of London, the Rev. Dr. A. F. W. Ingram, who will present to Old Bruton Parish Church, at Williamsburg, Virginia, the second oldest church in America, the Bible which King Edward has given it in connection with the Jamestown Exposition, sailed for Canada yesterday on the Allan Line steamer Victoriana.

Drowned at Smith's Falls.
Brookville, Aug. 31.—Reginald Reid, aged five years, was drowned in the canal basin at Smith's Falls by falling between the wharf and a launch.
