

animals were then turned out of the yard. Two drovers asked if the Clyde Shipping Company would take them on board one of their vessels.

ADVENTURE OF A HERD.

This application was also refused when the company discovered who the owner was. Then the two drovers refused to have anything more to do with the beasts, and the cattle and sheep were allowed to stray about the streets. Eventually a number of policemen succeeded in gathering them together and drove them into the premises of the Great Southern and Western Railway, whence they were transmitted to Dublin. During the detention of the cattle at Cork no fodder could be supplied by the local traders. They arrived at Dublin this morning in charge of Mr. Jones' agent, Mr. Brown, who took them to the Glasgow packet line. The cattle were immediately recognized and there was a general commotion among the drovers. Secretary Barry Mann in the course of the day was carried upon by several dealers who usually forwarded cattle by the company's boat. They stated that they would not send over their beasts by that line if Mr. Jones' cattle were allowed on board. Mr. Mann at once took a car to the city and consulted with some of the directors as to the course to be pursued. Meantime the man in charge of the yard received two threatening letters by the middle post. One of these letters warned him that his life would not be worth a day's purchase if he had anything to do with the cattle. The document was signed by "A Molly Maguire," who had followed the beasts from Cork. At four o'clock it was estimated that the cattle could not be sent by the steamer as there was no room for them. Other lines also refused on the same ground. The cattle remain in a Dublin yard under police protection. The Glasgow line's steamer sailed to-night with 168 head of cattle. It can accommodate 350, showing that the company were intimidated.

J. E. COLLINS, Editor.

THE STAR.

In consequence of Saturday being Christmas day the STAR will be published on Friday evening; and will contain a variety of Christmas reading, editorial and selected.

THE SPIRIT OF LATEST PATCHES.

There is a despatch from Capetown says the Boers 5,000 strong have captured Hiedelberg, set up a new Republic and made a Paul Kruger president. This is a quarrel of the Colonist's own choice and this is why Imperial troops had not interfered. They will soon interfere now we fancy.

On Sunday night 5,000 Irishmen met in Manchester, England, and made demonstrations in favour of Parnell.

Captain Boycott asks for £26,000 compensation. He will likely get nothing.

T. D. Sullivan, M. P., in speaking at Mullingar said their forefathers had faced sword and bullet for Ireland, and Irishmen were not now to be frightened by the suspension of the Habeas Corpus Act or the proclamation of martial law.

The troop ship Himalaya lands a fresh batch of troops in Ireland.

REFLECTIONS ON THE CONTRACT.

From one end of Canada to the other now, the engrossing topic is the contract between the Government and the Syndicate for the construction of the Canada Pacific Railway; and more than all it is an object of interest and plotting, of hopes and of fears at the Capital of the Dominion. So far the only speeches made upon it are those of Sir Charles Tupper, Mr. Blake, Hon. H. L. Langevin, and Sir R. Cartwright. Sir Charles Tupper's speech was just such a deliverance as might be expected from a great man or a great occasion;—it was one of the greatest speeches ever made in Canada. It would have been more telling still had the opportunities for controversy been open. Lad there been stated objections to meet, or misrepresentations to set aside; as it stood the mere field of explanation and vindication only was open.

Mr. Blake's speech which followed was more remarkable for its polished oratory than for its common sense—and was padded out with glowing sentiments which the skillful orator is sure to seize upon when he has nothing to the purpose at hand. Mr. Blake that night brandished a most dangerous weapon, a sword, to wit, with a double edge, and need we say that in trying to wound his opponents he inflicted grave injuries on his friends. For the contract he repudiated, and the terms he laughed to scorn, were not worse, but very much better than the terms which his own party but four short years ago had proposed. If it were but for Sir John McDonald to give away 25,000,000 acres to a Syndicate, it was surely worse for Mackenzie to whose party Mr. Blake belonged to offer fifty five million acres. If 25,000,000 acres by Sir John make territorial Lords of the Syndicate members, 55,000,000 acres by Mr. Mackenzie would have been their territorial kings. Is it any wonder then that in attacking the Government Mr. Blake worked serious mischief to his own party?

To Mr. Blake Hon. H. L. Langevin replied, and we recommend the summary of his speech in another column to our readers. Mr. Langevin thought one of the most brilliant orators in the Commons, did not work himself up to the Mark Anthony pitch, but he very quietly punctured Mr. Blake's great points and left not a shred of that gentleman's argument together ere he had concluded. He admitted that immigration to Canada within the year had not been so great as they had anticipated, but he read from Times one great cause of the miscarriage; and that cause was the unwise and impatience of Mr. Blake in which Kansas was landed to the skies, and our own lands set down as of an inferior quality. But Mr. Blake was not even content at the mischief he had done, but in his very last speech he had tried to accomplish still greater mischief. He knew there is a scheme of Irish immigration on foot but he took the pains to say that the Irish peasant would fly from the rod at home to meet the scorpion in the North West. Imagine a Kansas immigration agent getting this passage, printing it in pamphlet and putting into the hands of the Irish peasant! Let our readers just fancy its effect on the peasant mind coming from the leader of a great Canadian party! A case of ranker disloyalty to home and country we have never heard.

After Mr. Langevin Sir Richard Cartwright, sneers playing like snakes about his face, stood up. He hardly condescended to deal with the terms of the contract at all, but in a malicious and nasty way began to fling insinuations against the honesty of Sir Charles Tupper and other members of the Government. His speech was the most hateful production ever delivered in the House of Commons, and was more worthy of a reptile than a man. The whole Conservative party hissed him, and the larger part of the Liberals in the House muttered "shame." There was not a sentence in his whole sneer commending to the House, not a statement of any value to his party, not a figure or a fact worth using for or against him. It was the spiteful personal attack of a disappointed ex-Minister on a man whom he hates and envies. When we find space we shall publish Sir Charles Tupper's reply, which seemed in the nature of a whipping that a man would give to an ungracious hound. The debate will be resumed immediately, and will likely continue 8 or 10 days more.

THE DIVORCED PARTY.

If ever there was a party bankrupt of policy, unity or standing, that party is the Liberals of Canada today. They have been busy all the summer trying to construct a ship in which they may again sail to power, but every attempt has proved a signal failure. We learn it took Noah a hundred years to build his ark—it will take Mr. Blake longer still to build the ship he has begun. As fast as one plank is seized by Blake and his worshippers, it is rejected by the other wing of the party—in Toronto one half the body held a caucus and selected the "abolition of the Senate" as a plank, but the other half subsequently rejected it. So that never a plank has been put on the ship, and there she lies in the same plight as when they began her.

When Sir John brought down the Railway contract Mr. Blake immediately laid hands upon it, whisped in the party's ear Bureka! Just what we want! Upon this we can carry destruction to our enemies, and float to victory ourselves. Hurrah!

It was next resolved to hold a solemn council to decide the precise way in which the enemy was to be annihilated. We fancy we hear the leader say at that secret convocation like the leader of another overwhelmed band that had been hurried "steer o'er the crystal battlements":—" * * * 'Our better part remains To work in close design by fraud or guile What force effected not; that he no less At length from us may find, who overcomes By force hath overcome but half his foe.' " the manifesto miserably perished before it was born. "I cannot sign that, man," said Mackenzie, "You have made me swallow money's bitter pill, but you cannot make me swallow this. Why, man, I didn't go for granting 55,000,000 acres. I did not go for granting a small monopoly; I went in for a large one. It is written and what is written remains. It is in Hansard, man. No, no; I cannot strange what I might be calling my own offspring." "Sure enough," said Cartwright, "and I'm all in for it as well as you." Mr. Blake in disgust left the great Grit Panatorium, went away and wrote the pitiful "memorandum" that now is floating through the Grit press.

A GLANCE AT THE CONTRACT.

We have neither the time nor the space now to enter into the contract on its own merits, though we shall do so in another issue. We merely wish here to point out what the present contract is by comparison with others and to show that if this contract is bad, that proposed by Mackenzie was worse, and that whoever else in Canada might criticize the contract, the present Opposition ought not. The cost of the road when built, counting the land at $1 an acre, will be $78,000,000—to build the same road Mackenzie offered $104,000,000 and authorized his terms. If a seventy-eight million dollar transaction was a bad one a hundred and four million dollar transaction is a much worse one—and yet the Opposition dared to speak of issuing a manifesto against this contract. They cry out the Government are bartering away the heritage of the future generations of Canada, and establishing a hateful power in our North West that will make the country accursed. Well this Government offers to settle on these tyrants 25,000,000 acres, Mr. Mackenzie tried to settle on them 55,000,000 acres. For the one Sir Charles would put in bondage Mackenzie would put two—and still his party cries out against this contract. Let the impartial reader ponder well these facts till we have time to tell them something about the contract itself.

Rambling Notes.

[By our own Correspondent.]
BATHURST.—On the afternoon and evening of the fifteenth inst. the ladies of the congregation of St. George's Episcopal Church held a Bazaar and Tea in the Masonic Hall which was well patronized by the public generally, the hall being well filled from the time the doors were opened at 2 o'clock p. m. until they were closed at 10 p. m. Tea was served from 6 to 8 o'clock and judging from the well spread tables the ladies of Bathurst are no noices in the culinary art, and the way the good things disappeared one would conclude that those who patronized the tables knew how to appreciate their efforts. An interesting feature of the Bazaar was the museum which contained many relics of antiquity. Such as a Latin Bible 334 years old, an English Bible 306 years old, an English Bible 118 years old, 4 locks 146 years old, a Scotch toddy bowl 125 years, Paris chinaware over 100 years old, a silver found in the field after the battle of Badkappa, a water bottle found on the field after the battle of Waterloo, which belonged to a Colonel of the 42nd Highlanders; a case of stuffed English grouse, a Persian silk cooler, a quilt made of coarse silk 125 years old, and a long list of other interesting relics too numerous to mention. This department was ably presided over by Mr. W. Smith, who spared no pains to make the exhibit interesting to those who patronized it. The Toy table was presided over by W. O'Brien, Esq., of H. M. Customs and Mrs. Dr. Bishop, late of Newcastle.
Fancy Table, Mrs. Street and Miss Carter.
Refreshment Table, Mr. John Miller, Miss Vail.
Mrs. A. Sutherland was active with a "grab bag" but not I believe with the approval of the esteemed Rector Mr. Street, as I learn he does not strongly approve that kind of thing. Among those present I noticed Mr. and Mrs. Harris of your town. The proceeds which amounted to nearly $300 are to go towards the building fund of their new church which is to be completed immediately.
The pupils of Mr. Mercereau's department of the Grammar Schools are undergoing their usual bi-monthly examination. RANBLER.

IRELAND'S CONDITION.

The late reports now say the Queen no longer has any control in Ireland, that the sovereignty is vested in the Land League. The juries will not convict the prisoners, being afraid of their lives to do so. But it seems a great puzzle to England what to do with the Land League. Everything the League counsels is lawful, and it punishes those who resort to violence. Notwithstanding the statements in the papers it is not likely the Habeas Corpus Act will be suspended at present. It is the radicals, that is those who secretly admire this struggle, hold the tramp cards, and oppose coercion.

Gladstone rendered Boycott an sympathy when the latter asked for recompense for damages by the tenants.

THE FLAME IN ENGLAND.

The feeling against landlords in Ireland has spread to England. Already numerous committees are quietly being formed in the English Counties somewhat on the basis of the Land League, and a demand is springing up on all sides for lower rents and right of purchase after certain coo-penation. The Land revolution begins in England at a moment of its greatest success in Ireland. The working classes are favorable to it, and this week every mention of Gladstone's name at public meetings has been received with tremendous cheers, an unmistakable indication of the feeling of the masses.

In the coming struggle of the gentry against the people, the former cannot even count on the tradesmen, for these last, once their warmest allies, are now bitterly arrayed against them, owing to the establishment of Co-operative stores, which have so put into the business and profits of the British shopkeepers. Altogether, the situation is extremely menacing for the property interests, and English land seems to become the least safe—hitherto it has been the most coveted—of all investments.

It is said Earl Dufferin is likely to succeed Lord Ripon as Viceroy of India. Lord Ripon has jungle fever and will have to leave India.

Land League meetings are prohibited in Queen's County.
Judge May will be allowed to preside at the trials of the Land Leaguers.

To the Editor of the STAR.
DEAR Sir.—Having noticed a piece in the Tabusintac notes respecting a Sewing Machine Agent in the vicinity of Portage River, and having reason to believe that I know the party referred to, I can say that he is a gentleman thoroughly capable of transacting his business without the interference of the Tabusintac correspondent. I may also add that the Portage River brand, does not require to borrow feathers from the Tabusintac correspondent to attend weddings. Hoping the Tabusintac correspondent will profit by this gentle hint, and thanking you kindly for the space in your valuable paper.
I remain yours respectfully,

Fine Beef.
Mr Vansteele has on exhibition the finest and fattest carcasses of ever seen in Chatham. The ox, weighed when dressed 1,050 pounds but four years old, and was purchased from Mr Withrell of Newcastle.
Lumbering Notes.
Coun. K. Cameron is lumbering Bartholomew River. He has 6 and nearly 40 men employed. He got out 3,000,000 for Messrs J. Fairly.
Mr J. Fairly who lumbers on Devon, has 6 teams and about 40 employed. He will get out over 2,000 for Mr J. Scott of Blackville.
Mr J. L. Murray who also lumbers there has 8 teams and about 40 employed. He will get out 3,000 for Snowball this winter.

The Shortest Day.

Yesterday was the shortest day of the year being ten vertical arc of tropic of capricorn. This is the time for the Esquimaux and other zens of the North frigid zone. The total darkness there save that now again for an hour or two the moon and the fields of ice are flooded with mellow trembling light of the borealis. Since the 21st of June in the astronomer's phrase the sun has been travelling southward. It has reached the southern limit beyond it never can pass; and now in cheerless land where stunted moss wreathed shrubs are the best nature bear, it is midsummer. The Patagonian, smoking guano, is enjoying his palms days; spearing fish, and ing wild animals through the month. But the good old sun has turned, and from now till the 21st of June, the longest day, he will travel North and the dead buds and plants flowers will be sleeping beneath the till he arrives and wakes them.

Fishing Notes.

Fishing smelt on the main Miramichi has proven disheartening work, this season. Messrs. Cribbs and Mitchell have taken up their nets gone to the Little North West, County, to fish for smelt. In six days there they have taken 5 tons. are about 65 nets where they are fishing mostly owned by Frenchmen.
A great number of the Chatham fishermen have begun to take their nets up the main river.

A SUGGESTION.

There seems no doubt at all but that the smelt business from the Miramichi is suffering from injudicious shipping. There are not too many smelt in all the markets for December, January and February, but there are too many; especially so if cargo after a few is dumped into a market in which it is little or no demand. Proper attention given to shipping by the shippers will keep up a paying demand for smelt all the season round; but owing a lack of proper attention, to already several cargoes winter have been dumped upon the markets, bringing there, than at the Chatham Station. view of all these facts it seems to us that the shippers should put their heads together and devise some plan to govern their own interests—which are the interests of the fishermen as well. Such plan should have for its object regulation of the markets. To this the shippers ought to meet say on this week and decide a course of action the coming week. They should have all the information possible with respecting the capacity of the market and regulate their supply during next week according to the demand, for example the Boston market glutted it should be ordered that no smelt be sent to that market for the week; the same should be done with respect to the other markets. Shipments should be allowed only if whatever market was a demand; and if all the market should ever happen to be supplied, fish on the shippers hands might stowed away. For remember through February there will be no smelt to sell, so that there will then be at the time to work off the accumulated stock. As it is now there is neither method nor money in the shipments. Each shipper fires away to whatever market his fish suits him; and if A sees B eagerly selling to Boston, and is in a quondam himself where to ship, he eagerly follows suit. So does C, and D and E, and the result is they swamp each other and help to kill the business. If a persons only worked in harmony—as a trade both for themselves and the fishermen.
