

NEWS OF THE DISTRICT

VIKING.

Bulletin News Service. We are having ideal weather for crops and gardens. Wheat and oats are up, barley coming and some farmers are raising this year.

Mr. Corbett was taken seriously ill with peritonitis last Tuesday and Dr. Fields, of Vegreville, was summoned for a consultation with Drs. Story and Baker. He is some better at this writing.

Walker Campbell is putting up a large war-room at the rear of his new store. Messrs. McDougall and Obedts have the contract moved to Mrs. Peter Benson, who has been very ill, will be taken to the Vegreville hospital for an operation, as soon as her strength will permit.

Mrs. Helmer Stenberg, who has been visiting her mother in Minnesota, returned to her home, south of Viking, Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Archie Craig are the proud parents of a son, born May 31st.

Messrs. McDougall and Combs have the following contracts: A two-story dwelling of eight rooms for Mrs. McDonald, government creamery, Lutheran church, residence for Mr. Corbett and warehouse for Mr. Campbell.

The G.T.P. are laying the steel every day, and at this writing are near Viking.

Mrs. Basie Hilliker and sons, Harold and Kenneth, and Miss Alice Snow, left overland for a visit in Minburn, Tuesday.

Mr. Niehaus was taken very ill with pneumonia while working on the new Norwegian Lutheran church last Monday, and a nurse was sent for to Edmonton.

The Viking Band have been hired to play for a picnic to be held in Killam, June 22nd. Among the speakers at Killam will be the ball game in which the Viking "Greys" will play. Our boys are in good practice and ready for the game.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Moore and daughter, Myrtle, left Saturday overland for a visit with the former's brother in Laval.

Hans Jensen, of Lake Thomas, who has a section of land at the south end of the lake, has just moved his family into their new house there.

The Baptist people have purchased two lots in Viking for the purpose of building a new church soon.

Mr. Perov Halsted, pastor of the Methodist Church, left last week to attend conference.

Bruce and Viking will have a ball game on the Bruce diamond, Friday. The trustees of the Poplar Hill school, about six miles east of town, have sent away for the supplies, desks, etc., for their new school house, which will be erected in the near future.

Ted Congor is rejoicing over the arrival from Ontario of a ship which is homesteading and enjoying country life very much.

Mr. and Mrs. James Barker are homesteading and enjoying country life very much.

If the Edmontonites hear a noise resembling an earthquake on June 7th, do not shake or run out of doors. It will simply be the Viking grating over the arrival of our long-looked-for railroad.

Mr. and Mrs. Bauman have a new daughter at their home.

Viking, June 6.

ENTWISTLE.

Mr. A. W. Arupp, auctioneer of King street, held an auction sale of the Boston Cafe last Saturday where a good sale was made and spirited bidding at times was the order of the day.

The balance of the bridge men are leaving here on Thursday as the sub-structure is now completed. The grading camps are busy getting the grade completed.

Mr. McGregor, the bridge engineer, has gone to Prince Rupert.

Building will be going as soon as the people can get in through the heavy road.

The ferry across the river will be finished in a week or so and will be appreciated by all freighters going west. It will cross at Foley's old crossing, about a mile after passing through King street, Entwistle, and west.

The new road is under way and is now being inspected.

Mr. Arthur Uren of the Pembina Hotel has been very ill but is again convalescent. He has made many friends, and all sympathy is with him in his illness.

Owing to the roads, incoming freighters are not plentiful.

Oats are short in supply and prices run just at present from one dollar and a quarter to one dollar and a half per bushel.

The Entwistle Board of Trade held their usual meeting. A good attendance was present and many new applications for membership were the order of the day.

Mr. Hood has returned from his trip west.

A new well is being sunk on King street, by order of the council.

Mr. Fioen is enlarging his restaurant and when finished a fine building will be made of it.

Fowl raising and garden culture are in favor just now.

Good growing weather prevails.

ENTWISTLE.

Bulletin News Service.

Entwistle, Pembina, River, June 11.—A Church of England service was held here on Sunday, conducted by Rev. Mr. Edwards. A congregation of fifty people, men, women and children assembled and with good singing and a practical and well-delivered sermon everybody was earnestly impressed and appreciated the efforts made by the minister on their behalf. Holy Communion service was held in the morning at eleven o'clock.

ATHABASCA LANDING.

Mr. P. D. Walker, manager of Revillon Bros., is on an inspection trip to the company's post at Calling Lake.

Constable A. St. Laurent, R.N.W.M.P., left Monday evening for Fort McMurray, where he will have charge of the detachment for the summer.

Rev. I. O. Stringer, Bishop of Yukon, left on Monday night's boat for down stream, en route to his territory at Dawson. He was accompanied by Mr. W. H. Fry, who has recently arrived from the old country and is taking up missionary work among the Eskimos at Herschel Island.

A pretty wedding was solemnized last Saturday at All Saints church when Miss James, of Plymouth, was united in marriage to the Rev. Mr. F. W. Moxhay, pastor of All Saints church. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Bishop Holmes.

Ordination service was held last Sunday at All Saints church after the morning service, when Rev. F. W. Moxhay was ordained by Bishop Holmes, assisted by Bishop Stringer and Rev. C. R. Weaver. The ordination service was followed by holy communion.

On Monday evening Inspector C. L. Jennings, R.N.W.M.P., left for Herschel Island, where he will be stationed for the next eighteen months. During the short time Inspector Jennings was relieving here, he made many friends, all of whom wish him a safe journey.

A party of settlers passed through the village Tuesday to locate in Pine Creek. Besides a good outfit they had a dozen head of horses and about the same number of young cattle.

Mr. Russell is spending a few days in the capital.

Athabasca Landing will again celebrate on Dominion day. A meeting of citizens was held last Wednesday when a committee was appointed to prepare the program and arrange for a celebration similar to last year's.

Mr. Russell is spending a few days in the capital.

Athabasca Landing, June 10.

THE SION SCHOOL.

Bulletin News Service.

In spite of the bad trails and the busy seeding time a fair majority of the ratepayers, were able to attend the opening of their school house, Monday, the 14th of June.

Mr. Hodgkinson dedicated the school house, by conducting a religious service and singing a number of hymns appropriate to the occasion, both of the ratepayers and specially to the children. Mr. Hardy, the chairman, then declared the school house open and the secretary, M. C. C. B. Bannister, was called on to speak, who in his discourse stated that the school was due this week, and he was quite confident in stating that the school would be ready to start next Monday.

Mr. Bannister, who has been in charge of the school since he had good reason to believe that the taxes for next year would be lowered. Afterwards a luncheon was given by the ladies and a batchelor of the settlement, which was a credit to all. After this lunch there were a few songs and recitations, and the program must be given to Miss Pollard and Master Richard Pollard, who conducted themselves in first class style. The assembly broke up after the singing of the Maple Leaf, and other national songs, after a very agreeable evening.

AUTOIST AND HORSEMAN FINED.

Calgary Police More Careful Since Accident.

Calgary, June 12.—More than ordinary vigilance on the part of the police since the deplorable accident which resulted in the serious injury to Miss Alice Meyer on Tuesday, is responsible for two convictions for exceeding the speed limit, at the court yesterday morning.

Mr. Roeborn, the proprietor of the Eighth avenue confectionery store, was fined $10 and cost for driving his auto at a greater rate of speed than was provided for in the by-law.

Two witnesses testified that he drove down Eighth avenue, between Centre and First streets, at about 9 o'clock in the evening, at a rate of 18 miles an hour. Another witness judged it to be about 15 miles an hour.

Mr. Roeborn said he could not have been going at such a rate, but was unable to furnish any proof in support of this statement. There was no speedometer on his machine, and he was merely going by guess work, as the police officers who had sworn he drove at 18 miles an hour were.

The magistrate, in pronouncing sentence, remarked that he had to take into consideration the sworn statement of the officers, and as the defendant was unable to swear to the contrary, he would have to convict and impose a penalty.

The other case was against John McEwan, a rancher, for furiously riding down Eighth street on horseback. He pleaded guilty, and stated that he was riding a young horse, which he found difficult to control. He was fined $150.

Dr. Grenfell Returns.

New York, June 13.—Dr. Wilfred Grenfell, the English physician, whose missionary work among the Labrador Eskimos has been reported largely through the contributions of Americans, has reached New York from the Mauritanian. He is returning from a brief vacation at his old home in England to Battle Harbor, Labrador, where he will shortly establish his headquarters on the mission ship Strathcona. His summer work is assisted by a number of volunteers from leading American colleges. Dr. Grenfell was accompanied by his mother, who is 78 years of age, and had never before crossed the ocean. She will spend the summer with him on the Strathcona.

Irland Irate.

London, June 10.—John E. Redmond, the Nationalist leader, boistered the signal of revolt, in the course of a debate in the House of Commons this afternoon on the second reading of the finance bill. He notified the government bluntly that the Nationalist party would stand against the budget, on the ground that it was grossly unfair to Ireland and constituted a breach of the act of union. Mr. Redmond's objection was to the proposed increases in the tax on whisky, which he characterized as a crushing imposition on one of Erin's few remaining industries.

SETTLERS IN B.C.

Flocking from States to G. T. P. Country.

Spokane, Wash., June 13.—Hundreds of Americans are now emigrating to British Columbia, where, as a result of the advent of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway, now under construction the northern part of the province is being opened for lumbering, agriculture and stock raising.

Frederick T. Cromwell of Vancouver, B. C., said this in the course of an interview, adding:

"Many inquiries have been made as to what route the landseeker should pursue in order to get into the Buckley and Nechaco valleys. Hundreds have been led astray by being given the most difficult route so that someone might be the gainer, either the outfit or the agents of the transportation companies, which has not in the past, but has meant a great loss of time, and a detriment to the country. Being familiar with British Columbia and the far north, I readily give this information to the public as the most feasible route to the Nechaco, Buckley and Coast lands.

"To the Nechaco and eastern part of the Buckley valley the settler can either take the pack horse route to Ashcroft, British Columbia, or by train, and secure his outfit at Ashcroft. From Ashcroft a pack horse well known road to Quesnelle, a distance of 200 miles. This road is one of the finest mountain roads in the north-west. Good food and starting places are numerous along the road, and after leaving Ashcroft one may secure provisions at the different stores in Clinton, 100-Mile House, Saxe Creek and Quesnelle. From Quesnelle the route then leads over what is known as the Dawson telegraph trail, which has many hard places, but is well known road to Quesnelle, a distance of 200 miles. This road is one of the finest mountain roads in the north-west. Good food and starting places are numerous along the road, and after leaving Ashcroft one may secure provisions at the different stores in Clinton, 100-Mile House, Saxe Creek and Quesnelle. From Quesnelle the route then leads over what is known as the Dawson telegraph trail, which has many hard places, but is well known road to Quesnelle, a distance of 200 miles. This road is one of the finest mountain roads in the north-west. Good food and starting places are numerous along the road, and after leaving Ashcroft one may secure provisions at the different stores in Clinton, 100-Mile House, Saxe Creek and Quesnelle. From Quesnelle the route then leads over what is known as the Dawson telegraph trail, which has many hard places, but is well known road to Quesnelle, a distance of 200 miles. This road is one of the finest mountain roads in the north-west. Good food and starting places are numerous along the road, and after leaving Ashcroft one may secure provisions at the different stores in Clinton, 100-Mile House, Saxe Creek and Quesnelle. From Quesnelle the route then leads over what is known as the Dawson telegraph trail, which has many hard places, but is well known road to Quesnelle, a distance of 200 miles. This road is one of the finest mountain roads in the north-west. Good food and starting places are numerous along the road, and after leaving Ashcroft one may secure provisions at the different stores in Clinton, 100-Mile House, Saxe Creek and Quesnelle. From Quesnelle the route then leads over what is known as the Dawson telegraph trail, which has many hard places, but is well known road to Quesnelle, a distance of 200 miles. This road is one of the finest mountain roads in the north-west. Good food and starting places are numerous along the road, and after leaving Ashcroft one may secure provisions at the different stores in Clinton, 100-Mile House, Saxe Creek and Quesnelle. From Quesnelle the route then leads over what is known as the Dawson telegraph trail, which has many hard places, but is well known road to Quesnelle, a distance of 200 miles. This road is one of the finest mountain roads in the north-west. Good food and starting places are numerous along the road, and after leaving Ashcroft one may secure provisions at the different stores in Clinton, 100-Mile House, Saxe Creek and Quesnelle. From Quesnelle the route then leads over what is known as the Dawson telegraph trail, which has many hard places, but is well known road to Quesnelle, a distance of 200 miles. This road is one of the finest mountain roads in the north-west. Good food and starting places are numerous along the road, and after leaving Ashcroft one may secure provisions at the different stores in Clinton, 100-Mile House, Saxe Creek and Quesnelle. From Quesnelle the route then leads over what is known as the Dawson telegraph trail, which has many hard places, but is well known road to Quesnelle, a distance of 200 miles. This road is one of the finest mountain roads in the north-west. Good food and starting places are numerous along the road, and after leaving Ashcroft one may secure provisions at the different stores in Clinton, 100-Mile House, Saxe Creek and Quesnelle. From Quesnelle the route then leads over what is known as the Dawson telegraph trail, which has many hard places, but is well known road to Quesnelle, a distance of 200 miles. This road is one of the finest mountain roads in the north-west. Good food and starting places are numerous along the road, and after leaving Ashcroft one may secure provisions at the different stores in Clinton, 100-Mile House, Saxe Creek and Quesnelle. From Quesnelle the route then leads over what is known as the Dawson telegraph trail, which has many hard places, but is well known road to Quesnelle, a distance of 200 miles. This road is one of the finest mountain roads in the north-west. Good food and starting places are numerous along the road, and after leaving Ashcroft one may secure provisions at the different stores in Clinton, 100-Mile House, Saxe Creek and Quesnelle. From Quesnelle the route then leads over what is known as the Dawson telegraph trail, which has many hard places, but is well known road to Quesnelle, a distance of 200 miles. This road is one of the finest mountain roads in the north-west. Good food and starting places are numerous along the road, and after leaving Ashcroft one may secure provisions at the different stores in Clinton, 100-Mile House, Saxe Creek and Quesnelle. From Quesnelle the route then leads over what is known as the Dawson telegraph trail, which has many hard places, but is well known road to Quesnelle, a distance of 200 miles. This road is one of the finest mountain roads in the north-west. Good food and starting places are numerous along the road, and after leaving Ashcroft one may secure provisions at the different stores in Clinton, 100-Mile House, Saxe Creek and Quesnelle. From Quesnelle the route then leads over what is known as the Dawson telegraph trail, which has many hard places, but is well known road to Quesnelle, a distance of 200 miles. This road is one of the finest mountain roads in the north-west. Good food and starting places are numerous along the road, and after leaving Ashcroft one may secure provisions at the different stores in Clinton, 100-Mile House, Saxe Creek and Quesnelle. From Quesnelle the route then leads over what is known as the Dawson telegraph trail, which has many hard places, but is well known road to Quesnelle, a distance of 200 miles. This road is one of the finest mountain roads in the north-west. Good food and starting places are numerous along the road, and after leaving Ashcroft one may secure provisions at the different stores in Clinton, 100-Mile House, Saxe Creek and Quesnelle. From Quesnelle the route then leads over what is known as the Dawson telegraph trail, which has many hard places, but is well known road to Quesnelle, a distance of 200 miles. This road is one of the finest mountain roads in the north-west. Good food and starting places are numerous along the road, and after leaving Ashcroft one may secure provisions at the different stores in Clinton, 100-Mile House, Saxe Creek and Quesnelle. From Quesnelle the route then leads over what is known as the Dawson telegraph trail, which has many hard places, but is well known road to Quesnelle, a distance of 200 miles. This road is one of the finest mountain roads in the north-west. Good food and starting places are numerous along the road, and after leaving Ashcroft one may secure provisions at the different stores in Clinton, 100-Mile House, Saxe Creek and Quesnelle. From Quesnelle the route then leads over what is known as the Dawson telegraph trail, which has many hard places, but is well known road to Quesnelle, a distance of 200 miles. This road is one of the finest mountain roads in the north-west. Good food and starting places are numerous along the road, and after leaving Ashcroft one may secure provisions at the different stores in Clinton, 100-Mile House, Saxe Creek and Quesnelle. From Quesnelle the route then leads over what is known as the Dawson telegraph trail, which has many hard places, but is well known road to Quesnelle, a distance of 200 miles. This road is one of the finest mountain roads in the north-west. Good food and starting places are numerous along the road, and after leaving Ashcroft one may secure provisions at the different stores in Clinton, 100-Mile House, Saxe Creek and Quesnelle. From Quesnelle the route then leads over what is known as the Dawson telegraph trail, which has many hard places, but is well known road to Quesnelle, a distance of 200 miles. This road is one of the finest mountain roads in the north-west. Good food and starting places are numerous along the road, and after leaving Ashcroft one may secure provisions at the different stores in Clinton, 100-Mile House, Saxe Creek and Quesnelle. From Quesnelle the route then leads over what is known as the Dawson telegraph trail, which has many hard places, but is well known road to Quesnelle, a distance of 200 miles. This road is one of the finest mountain roads in the north-west. Good food and starting places are numerous along the road, and after leaving Ashcroft one may secure provisions at the different stores in Clinton, 100-Mile House, Saxe Creek and Quesnelle. From Quesnelle the route then leads over what is known as the Dawson telegraph trail, which has many hard places, but is well known road to Quesnelle, a distance of 200 miles. This road is one of the finest mountain roads in the north-west. Good food and starting places are numerous along the road, and after leaving Ashcroft one may secure provisions at the different stores in Clinton, 100-Mile House, Saxe Creek and Quesnelle. From Quesnelle the route then leads over what is known as the Dawson telegraph trail, which has many hard places, but is well known road to Quesnelle, a distance of 200 miles. This road is one of the finest mountain roads in the north-west. Good food and starting places are numerous along the road, and after leaving Ashcroft one may secure provisions at the different stores in Clinton, 100-Mile House, Saxe Creek and Quesnelle. From Quesnelle the route then leads over what is known as the Dawson telegraph trail, which has many hard places, but is well known road to Quesnelle, a distance of 200 miles. This road is one of the finest mountain roads in the north-west. Good food and starting places are numerous along the road, and after leaving Ashcroft one may secure provisions at the different stores in Clinton, 100-Mile House, Saxe Creek and Quesnelle. From Quesnelle the route then leads over what is known as the Dawson telegraph trail, which has many hard places, but is well known road to Quesnelle, a distance of 200 miles. This road is one of the finest mountain roads in the north-west. Good food and starting places are numerous along the road, and after leaving Ashcroft one may secure provisions at the different stores in Clinton, 100-Mile House, Saxe Creek and Quesnelle. From Quesnelle the route then leads over what is known as the Dawson telegraph trail, which has many hard places, but is well known road to Quesnelle, a distance of 200 miles. This road is one of the finest mountain roads in the north-west. Good food and starting places are numerous along the road, and after leaving Ashcroft one may secure provisions at the different stores in Clinton, 100-Mile House, Saxe Creek and Quesnelle. From Quesnelle the route then leads over what is known as the Dawson telegraph trail, which has many hard places, but is well known road to Quesnelle, a distance of 200 miles. This road is one of the finest mountain roads in the north-west. Good food and starting places are numerous along the road, and after leaving Ashcroft one may secure provisions at the different stores in Clinton, 100-Mile House, Saxe Creek and Quesnelle. From Quesnelle the route then leads over what is known as the Dawson telegraph trail, which has many hard places, but is well known road to Quesnelle, a distance of 200 miles. This road is one of the finest mountain roads in the north-west. Good food and starting places are numerous along the road, and after leaving Ashcroft one may secure provisions at the different stores in Clinton, 100-Mile House, Saxe Creek and Quesnelle. From Quesnelle the route then leads over what is known as the Dawson telegraph trail, which has many hard places, but is well known road to Quesnelle, a distance of 200 miles. This road is one of the finest mountain roads in the north-west. Good food and starting places are numerous along the road, and after leaving Ashcroft one may secure provisions at the different stores in Clinton, 100-Mile House, Saxe Creek and Quesnelle. From Quesnelle the route then leads over what is known as the Dawson telegraph trail, which has many hard places, but is well known road to Quesnelle, a distance of 200 miles. This road is one of the finest mountain roads in the north-west. Good food and starting places are numerous along the road, and after leaving Ashcroft one may secure provisions at the different stores in Clinton, 100-Mile House, Saxe Creek and Quesnelle. From Quesnelle the route then leads over what is known as the Dawson telegraph trail, which has many hard places, but is well known road to Quesnelle, a distance of 200 miles. This road is one of the finest mountain roads in the north-west. Good food and starting places are numerous along the road, and after leaving Ashcroft one may secure provisions at the different stores in Clinton, 100-Mile House, Saxe Creek and Quesnelle. From Quesnelle the route then leads over what is known as the Dawson telegraph trail, which has many hard places, but is well known road to Quesnelle, a distance of 200 miles. This road is one of the finest mountain roads in the north-west. Good food and starting places are numerous along the road, and after leaving Ashcroft one may secure provisions at the different stores in Clinton, 100-Mile House, Saxe Creek and Quesnelle. From Quesnelle the route then leads over what is known as the Dawson telegraph trail, which has many hard places, but is well known road to Quesnelle, a distance of 200 miles. This road is one of the finest mountain roads in the north-west. Good food and starting places are numerous along the road, and after leaving Ashcroft one may secure provisions at the different stores in Clinton, 100-Mile House, Saxe Creek and Quesnelle. From Quesnelle the route then leads over what is known as the Dawson telegraph trail, which has many hard places, but is well known road to Quesnelle, a distance of 200 miles. This road is one of the finest mountain roads in the north-west. Good food and starting places are numerous along the road, and after leaving Ashcroft one may secure provisions at the different stores in Clinton, 100-Mile House, Saxe Creek and Quesnelle. From Quesnelle the route then leads over what is known as the Dawson telegraph trail, which has many hard places, but is well known road to Quesnelle, a distance of 200 miles. This road is one of the finest mountain roads in the north-west. Good food and starting places are numerous along the road, and after leaving Ashcroft one may secure provisions at the different stores in Clinton, 100-Mile House, Saxe Creek and Quesnelle. From Quesnelle the route then leads over what is known as the Dawson telegraph trail, which has many hard places, but is well known road to Quesnelle, a distance of 200 miles. This road is one of the finest mountain roads in the north-west. Good food and starting places are numerous along the road, and after leaving Ashcroft one may secure provisions at the different stores in Clinton, 100-Mile House, Saxe Creek and Quesnelle. From Quesnelle the route then leads over what is known as the Dawson telegraph trail, which has many hard places, but is well known road to Quesnelle, a distance of 200 miles. This road is one of the finest mountain roads in the north-west. Good food and starting places are numerous along the road, and after leaving Ashcroft one may secure provisions at the different stores in Clinton, 100-Mile House, Saxe Creek and Quesnelle. From Quesnelle the route then leads over what is known as the Dawson telegraph trail, which has many hard places, but is well known road to Quesnelle, a distance of 200 miles. This road is one of the finest mountain roads in the north-west. Good food and starting places are numerous along the road, and after leaving Ashcroft one may secure provisions at the different stores in Clinton, 100-Mile House, Saxe Creek and Quesnelle. From Quesnelle the route then leads over what is known as the Dawson telegraph trail, which has many hard places, but is well known road to Quesnelle, a distance of 200 miles. This road is one of the finest mountain roads in the north-west. Good food and starting places are numerous along the road, and after leaving Ashcroft one may secure provisions at the different stores in Clinton, 100-Mile House, Saxe Creek and Quesnelle. From Quesnelle the route then leads over what is known as the Dawson telegraph trail, which has many hard places, but is well known road to Quesnelle, a distance of 200 miles. This road is one of the finest mountain roads in the north-west. Good food and starting places are numerous along the road, and after leaving Ashcroft one may secure provisions at the different stores in Clinton, 100-Mile House, Saxe Creek and Quesnelle. From Quesnelle the route then leads over what is known as the Dawson telegraph trail, which has many hard places, but is well known road to Quesnelle, a distance of 200 miles. This road is one of the finest mountain roads in the north-west. Good food and starting places are numerous along the road, and after leaving Ashcroft one may secure provisions at the different stores in Clinton, 100-Mile House, Saxe Creek and Quesnelle. From Quesnelle the route then leads over what is known as the Dawson telegraph trail, which has many hard places, but is well known road to Quesnelle, a distance of 200 miles. This road is one of the finest mountain roads in the north-west. Good food and starting places are numerous along the road, and after leaving Ashcroft one may secure provisions at the different stores in Clinton, 100-Mile House, Saxe Creek and Quesnelle. From Quesnelle the route then leads over what is known as the Dawson telegraph trail, which has many hard places, but is well known road to Quesnelle, a distance of 200 miles. This road is one of the finest mountain roads in the north-west. Good food and starting places are numerous along the road, and after leaving Ashcroft one may secure provisions at the different stores in Clinton, 100-Mile House, Saxe Creek and Quesnelle. From Quesnelle the route then leads over what is known as the Dawson telegraph trail, which has many hard places, but is well known road to Quesnelle, a distance of 200 miles. This road is one of the finest mountain roads in the north-west. Good food and starting places are numerous along the road, and after leaving Ashcroft one may secure provisions at the different stores in Clinton, 100-Mile House, Saxe Creek and Quesnelle. From Quesnelle the route then leads over what is known as the Dawson telegraph trail, which has many hard places, but is well known road to Quesnelle, a distance of 200 miles. This road is one of the finest mountain roads in the north-west. Good food and starting places are numerous along the road, and after leaving Ashcroft one may secure provisions at the different stores in Clinton, 100-Mile House, Saxe Creek and Quesnelle. From Quesnelle the route then leads over what is known as the Dawson telegraph trail, which has many hard places, but is well known road to Quesnelle, a distance of 200 miles. This road is one of the finest mountain roads in the north-west. Good food and starting places are numerous along the road, and after leaving Ashcroft one may secure provisions at the different stores in Clinton, 100-Mile House, Saxe Creek and Quesnelle. From Quesnelle the route then leads over what is known as the Dawson telegraph trail, which has many hard places, but is well known road to Quesnelle, a distance of 200 miles. This road is one of the finest mountain roads in the north-west. Good food and starting places are numerous along the road, and after leaving Ashcroft one may secure provisions at the different stores in Clinton, 100-Mile House, Saxe Creek and Quesnelle. From Quesnelle the route then leads over what is known as the Dawson telegraph trail, which has many hard places, but is well known road to Quesnelle, a distance of 200 miles. This road is one of the finest mountain roads in the north-west. Good food and starting places are numerous along the road, and after leaving Ashcroft one may secure provisions at the different stores in Clinton, 100-Mile House, Saxe Creek and Quesnelle. From Quesnelle the route then leads over what is known as the Dawson telegraph trail, which has many hard places, but is well known road to Quesnelle, a distance of 200 miles. This road is one of the finest mountain roads in the north-west. Good food and starting places are numerous along the road, and after leaving Ashcroft one may secure provisions at the different stores in Clinton, 100-Mile House, Saxe Creek and Quesnelle. From Quesnelle the route then leads over what is known as the Dawson telegraph trail, which has many hard places, but is well known road to Quesnelle, a distance of 200 miles. This road is one of the finest mountain roads in the north-west. Good food and starting places are numerous along the road, and after leaving Ashcroft one may secure provisions at the different stores in Clinton, 100-Mile House, Saxe Creek and Quesnelle. From Quesnelle the route then leads over what is known as the Dawson telegraph trail, which has many hard places, but is well known road to Quesnelle, a distance of 200 miles. This road is one of the finest mountain roads in the north-west. Good food and starting places are numerous along the road, and after leaving Ashcroft one may secure provisions at the different stores in Clinton, 100-Mile House, Saxe Creek and Quesnelle. From Quesnelle the route then leads over what is known as the Dawson telegraph trail, which has many hard places, but is well known road to Quesnelle, a distance of 200 miles. This road is one of the finest mountain roads in the north-west. Good food and starting places are numerous along the road, and after leaving Ashcroft one may secure provisions at the different stores in Clinton, 100-Mile House, Saxe Creek and Quesnelle. From Quesnelle the route then leads over what is known as the Dawson telegraph trail, which has many hard places, but is well known road to Quesnelle, a distance of 200 miles. This road is one of the finest mountain roads in the north-west. Good food and starting places are numerous along the road, and after leaving Ashcroft one may secure provisions at the different stores in Clinton, 100-Mile House, Saxe Creek and Quesnelle. From Quesnelle the route then leads over what is known as the Dawson telegraph trail, which has many hard places, but is well known road to Quesnelle, a distance of 200 miles. This road is one of the finest mountain roads in the north-west. Good food and starting places are numerous along the road, and after leaving Ashcroft one may secure provisions at the different stores in Clinton, 100-Mile House, Saxe Creek and Quesnelle. From Quesnelle the route then leads over what is known as the Dawson telegraph trail, which has many hard places, but is well known road to Quesnelle, a distance of 200 miles. This road is one of the finest mountain roads in the north-west. Good food and starting places are numerous along the road, and after leaving Ashcroft one may secure provisions at the different stores in Clinton, 100-Mile House, Saxe Creek and Quesnelle. From Quesnelle the route then leads over what is known as the Dawson telegraph trail, which has many hard places, but is well known road to Quesnelle, a distance of 200 miles. This road is one of the finest mountain roads in the north-west. Good food and starting places are numerous along the road, and after leaving Ashcroft one may secure provisions at the different stores in Clinton, 100-Mile House, Saxe Creek and Quesnelle. From Quesnelle the route then leads over what is known as the Dawson telegraph trail, which has many hard places, but is well known road to Quesnelle, a distance of 200 miles. This road is one of the finest mountain roads in the north-west. Good food and starting places are numerous along the road, and after leaving Ashcroft one may secure provisions at the different stores in Clinton, 100-Mile House, Saxe Creek and Quesnelle. From Quesnelle the route then leads over what is known as the Dawson telegraph trail, which has many hard places, but is well known road to Quesnelle, a distance of 200 miles. This road is one of the finest mountain roads in the north-west. Good food and starting places are numerous along the road, and after leaving Ashcroft one may secure provisions at the different stores in Clinton, 100-Mile House, Saxe Creek and Quesnelle. From Quesnelle the route then leads over what is known as the Dawson telegraph trail, which has many hard places, but is well known road to Quesnelle, a distance of 200 miles. This road is one of the finest mountain roads in the north-west. Good food and starting places are numerous along the road, and after leaving Ashcroft one may secure provisions at the different stores in Clinton, 100-Mile House, Saxe Creek and Quesnelle. From Quesnelle the route then leads over what is known as the Dawson telegraph trail, which has many hard places, but is well known road to Quesnelle, a distance of 200 miles. This road is one of the finest mountain roads in the north-west. Good food and starting places are numerous along the road, and after leaving Ashcroft one may secure provisions at the different stores in Clinton, 100-Mile House, Saxe Creek and Quesnelle. From Quesnelle the route then leads over what is known as the Dawson telegraph trail, which has many hard places, but is well known road to Quesnelle, a distance of 200 miles. This road is one of the finest mountain roads in the north-west. Good food and starting places are numerous along the road, and after leaving Ashcroft one may secure provisions at the different stores in Clinton, 100-Mile House, Saxe Creek and Quesnelle. From Quesnelle the route then leads over what is known as the Dawson telegraph trail, which has many hard places, but is well known road to Quesnelle, a distance of 200 miles. This road is one of the finest mountain roads in the north-west. Good food and starting places are numerous along the road, and after leaving Ashcroft one may secure provisions at the different stores in Clinton, 100-Mile House, Saxe Creek and Quesnelle. From Quesnelle the route then leads over what is known as the Dawson telegraph trail, which has many hard places, but is well known road to Quesnelle, a distance of 200 miles. This road is one of the finest mountain roads in the north-west. Good food and starting places are numerous along the road, and after leaving Ashcroft one may secure provisions at the different stores in Clinton, 100-Mile House, Saxe Creek and Quesnelle. From Quesnelle the route then leads over what is known as the Dawson telegraph trail, which has many hard places, but is well known road to Quesnelle, a distance of 200 miles. This road is one of the finest mountain roads in the north-west. Good food and starting places are numerous along the road, and after leaving Ashcroft one may secure provisions at the different stores in Clinton, 100-Mile House, Saxe Creek and Quesnelle. From Quesnelle the route then leads over what is known as the Dawson telegraph trail, which has many hard places, but is well known road to Quesnelle, a distance of 200 miles. This road is one of the finest mountain roads in the north-west. Good food and starting places are numerous along the road, and after leaving Ashcroft one may secure provisions at the different stores in Clinton, 100-Mile House, Saxe Creek and Quesnelle. From Quesnelle the route then leads over what is known as the Dawson telegraph trail, which has many hard places, but is well known road to Quesnelle, a distance of 200 miles. This road is one of the finest mountain roads in the north-west. Good food and starting places are numerous along the road, and after leaving Ashcroft one may secure provisions at the different stores in Clinton, 100-Mile House, Saxe Creek and Quesnelle. From Quesnelle the route then leads over what is known as the Dawson telegraph trail, which has many hard places, but is well known road to Quesnelle, a distance of 200 miles. This road is one of the finest mountain roads in the north-west. Good food and starting places are numerous along the road, and after leaving Ashcroft one may secure provisions at the different stores in Clinton, 100-Mile House, Saxe Creek and Quesnelle. From Quesnelle the route then leads over what is known as the Dawson telegraph trail, which has many hard places, but is well known road to Quesnelle, a distance of 200 miles. This road is one of the finest mountain roads in the north-west. Good food and starting places are numerous along the road, and after leaving Ashcroft one may secure provisions at the different stores in Clinton, 100-Mile House, Saxe Creek and Quesnelle. From Quesnelle the route then leads over what is known as the Dawson telegraph trail, which has many hard places, but is well known road to Quesnelle, a distance of 200 miles. This road is one of the finest mountain roads in the north-west. Good food and starting places are numerous along the road, and after leaving Ashcroft one may secure provisions at the different stores in Clinton, 100-Mile House, Saxe Creek and Quesnelle. From Quesnelle the route then leads over what is known as the Dawson telegraph trail, which has many hard places, but is well known road to Quesnelle, a distance of 200 miles. This road is one of the finest mountain roads in the north-west. Good food and starting places are numerous along the road, and after leaving Ashcroft one may secure provisions at the different stores in Clinton, 100-Mile House, Saxe Creek and Quesnelle. From Quesnelle the route then leads over what is known as the Dawson telegraph trail, which has many hard places, but is well known road to Quesnelle, a distance of 200 miles. This road is one of the finest mountain roads in the north-west. Good food and starting places are numerous along the road, and after leaving Ashcroft one may secure provisions at the different stores in Clinton, 100-Mile House, Saxe Creek and Quesnelle. From Ques