Mason & Risch Great "Forced Removal" Sale of All High-Grade Pianos Offers Values Unparalleled in Calgary's Musical History.

PIANOS OF THE HIGHEST QUALITY
ARE GOING IN THIS SALE

Terms of $5, $6, $8, and Monthly Arranged on the instrument of your choice

Store Open Evenings. 710 Centre Street

That piano of quality you've longed for—and whose regular price made you hesitate—and which you always find absent at ordinary "piano sales" is awaiting you, priced at half at Mason & Risch's great "Forced Removal" Sale of all high-grade pianos. Nothing like this great sale has ever been attempted in our forty years' experience. So-called "Piano Sales" have been foreign to our business. We have never had a piano sale. We have only one business that now enables us to offer more than one hundred of both new and first class instruments of the world's best makes at prices cut down to, and under, the regular market.

On the first day of September the base on our present quarters expires and leaves us temporarily homeless, as our new store in the Mason & Risch block will not be ready for occupancy for some little time to come.

What are you going to do with all these fine instruments?

What can we do, but to sacrifice them, and this we are forced to do on buyers' own terms.

Remember, also, the reputation of the house of Mason & Risch, Ltd., stands behind every instrument offered. Just come in and investigate. The piano and prices will tell their own story. Out-of-town customers should send at once for prices and list of the special offers.

Reservations made by telephone or telephone.

The store will be open every evening.

SEARCHES MANY YEARS FOR LOST BROTHERS

Reno, Nevada, Aug. 27.—Through the persistent search made by a sister for her brothers who left their home in St. Charles, Quebec, twenty-six years ago, Mary Alda Bousquet has been rewarded in finding two of them and is in Nevada now attempting to locate the third brother that in estate may be settled up in Canada.

Miss Bousquet said that her three brothers lived in San Francisco at one time, but they were ignorant of others' presence in the same city. One is a contractor in Oregon, the other is a carpenter in Oakland. The third brother, Amedee, was last heard from four years ago in Jackson, Amador county, Cal., where he worked in a mill. From there he left for Nevada where he previously had been located, once in Tonopah and again in Carson city.

Miss Bousquet has been in every city in the country and almost every town in the West in quest of this missing brother. She will stay in Reno a few days and then move on to other parts of the state.

For two years now she has been in California visiting every city where she might hope to obtain a trace of Amedee. The other two brothers are married and happily located, and when the long lost third brother is found there will be a reunion.

Emperor William to Better Case, August 27.—The condition of Emperor William, who since Friday last has been suffering from a severe cold and an attack of muscular rheumatism, is improved tonight. His Majesty's appetite is better and it is possible that he will be able to leave his bed on Tuesday.

Bladder Twine Shortage. Moose Jaw, August 27.—Hand to mouth is the position of the bladder twine situation. Only 8,000 pounds is left of 24,000 expressed to the Massey-Harris Co. Saturday. Another 10,000 at Moose Jaw Implement Company represents the city's entire stock with very little viable supply. Express orders are the rule now as Winnipeg seems cynically indifferent to ordinary freight orders.

These ranches are still ranches. The cowboys who live upon them are the real thing. Every season they round up, rope and brand thousands of head of cattle. The dude is given the privilege of seeing this done. He may even participate in the work of the branding pen. The wild horses of the plains are brought under the corral, tamed and ridden. These men of the West go out into the vastness of the West to take up the cowboy life and to see the world as it is.

ALL THE WEST IS GOING INTO DUDE RANCH GAME OF TRAINING COWBOYS

Life of the "Puncher" Has a Glamour for the Average Easterner

Western Points Are Dotted With These Schools of the Dude Cowpuncher

Tenderfoot is Made Over Into a Broncho Buster in the Course of 60 Days

710 Centre Street

CHEYENNE, Aug. 27.—Are you a "dude"? If so, are you doing anything for it? If not, do you want to do it? I do. There are a thousand salaried men for you in the Rocky Mountains. There are a thousand graduate cowpunchers as attendants. The vacation season is here and the dude is calling. You are or should be tagged and "it" for 30 days of 80 days on a "dude ranch" in our own wild and woolly West, cure guaranteed.

What are Dude Ranches? For there is a great new industrial institution known as the "dude ranch" that is overrunning the West. Dude ranching is a new calling that is giving with that of branding the troika-maverick that seeks to elude the lariat—the tentacle of the mounted man-creature. Under the old regime, in the work of the open range, the horse wrangler was an important functionary, for he it was who looked after the well-being of the herd of mounts. Taking this man as a precedent, the individual who looks after the well-being of the errand tender, the dude rancher, is a new functionary, for he it was who looked after the well-being of the herd of mounts. So has the new industry of "dude ranching" and the new calling of "dude wrangler" come into being.

Location of Dude Ranches. All the West is going into the business of dude ranching. All that region between Glacier park, where the Rockies break out into the final extravagance of grandeur, to Brownsville, where the Rio Grande empties into the Gulf, and the entire West is dotted with these dude ranches. From historic San Antonio and the plains of San Angelo, where Tom O'Leary was at home, to the top of the earth at Platteau, where the great eagle no longer soars, are scattered schools in frontier life. They find their perfection, however, on the slopes of the Yellowstone National park, where the Rockies of Wyoming still retain the greatest isolation from the disturbing foot of the locomotive. That greatest of national playgrounds is lost in half a western state full of scenery as good, and furnishes a breeding reserve for more of the best things of the woods that are to be found elsewhere.

So it is in Wyoming that dude ranching has seen its highest degree of development. At Sheridan, skirted by the Big Horn mountains, which sheltered armies of Crow and Sioux Indians and boasted the Hole-in-the-Wall, the last stand of the great nation of the Northwest—do dude ranches outfit for trips through these regions of romance. At Cody, that town that took its name from Buffalo Bill and which rests in the shadow of a "hog-back" mountain, which is to be the tomb of this frontiersman, when he dies, are fitted out other parties that outfit for journeys up the Shoshone river and into the national park by Sylvan Pass—a trip of unsurpassed beauty. From Lander, where may be seen sunning himself the original Trampus, the gambler who took issue with the Virginian, the plume may be made into the wilds of the national forest and the park of the South. Rock Springs gives another opening into the park from the south and into Jackson Hole, the last of Uncle Sam's elk each winter in flight from the greater cold of the mountain tops.

In the vicinity of all these towns there have been great cattle ranches since white man first took up his home in the West. These ranches are still great in the production of cattle and sheep. But the barbed-wire fence is crowding in upon them, the avocation of the men who rode the range is being in a degree usurped and another use is being made of these sons of the West.

As the railroads came to reach more nearly all points in the west and those who travel were thus brought more easily in touch with the romance that hovers about its free life, there grew a demand for men to show those charms to the untutored. Gradually accessible ranches became resorts to which occasional travellers came to sojourn for vacation purposes. These told of the wonder of the West, the avocation of the men who rode the range is being in a degree usurped and another use is being made of these sons of the West.

These ranches are still ranches. The cowboys who live upon them are the real thing. Every season they round up, rope and brand thousands of head of cattle. The dude is given the privilege of seeing this done. He may even participate in the work of the branding pen. The wild horses of the plains are brought under the corral, tamed and ridden. These men of the West go out into the vastness of the West to take up the cowboy life and to see the world as it is.

PRICE OF DIAMONDS STILL GOING UPWARD

Indianapolis, August 26.—Diamonds this year are 7 1/2 per cent. higher in the rough and about 16 per cent. higher or cut than last year, and the market in Amsterdam, Holland, is decidedly the hardest for the buyer in its history, according to J. C. Sipe, an Indianapolis importer, who has just returned from Amsterdam.

"The trouble with the market is that none of the mines are producing heavily, with one or two exceptions, and from those mines where the production is large a poor grade of stone is being taken," Mr. Sipe explained. "In fourteen years the price of diamonds has advanced 100 per cent. They began going up in 1898, and each year since there has been an increase. Only a short time ago I allowed a woman $250 on a pair of earrings she bought from me fourteen years ago for $150. Her husband had objected to her buying diamonds, she said. Though she knew the stones had advanced considerably in value, she was much surprised at the amount."

"I have made about $10 a year for wearing these earrings," she said, "and my husband has bought four or five automobiles in that time. The earrings which he has traded back for considerably less than he paid for them. I guess my investment will compare very favorably."

Mr. Sipe spent four weeks on his trip, allowing a week for the journey each way and two weeks for buying in Amsterdam.

"In England the 'high cost of living' never paid more than a shilling, cost than it is in the United States," Mr. Sipe continued. "In London many persons with whom I am acquainted said that prices are going up at a great rate, and I observed that in the hotels I paid considerably more for food than ever before. For example, a piece of mutton, for which in former years I never paid more than a shilling, cost me two shillings this year. "It seems that that knocks out completely the argument that the high cost of living in this country is due to the tariff, for if free trade England is finding its cost of living advancing at a greater rate than it is in America, certainly tariffs have little to do with it."

BURIED UNDER LOAD OF COAL; ASPHYXIATED

Fireman Shoveling Coal From His Tender Discovers Dead Body

MOOSE JAW, Aug. 26.—William Atkins, aged 35 years, a C.P.R. employee met death tonight in a remarkable and tragic manner. While a fireman shovelling coal out of his tender he came on what appeared a discarded shoe. He went on shovelling until another shoe and trouser leg appeared, then he dug furiously until the body of a man was taken out, but in spite of the fact that he had died of asphyxiation.

It is presumed that Atkins had fallen into the tender just as it was being filled with coal. He was found by a fireman shovelling coal from the tender just as it was being filled with coal. He was found by a fireman shovelling coal from the tender just as it was being filled with coal.
