WAR SPECTACLE AT EXHIBITION

Grand Stand Show at Toronto of a Nature to Evoke Outbreak of Patriotic Fervor

The mammoth war spectacle, "The March of the Allies," and the "Review of the Fleet," will be the big scenic production in front of the grand stand at the Canadian National Exhibition this year, and will be one of the most elaborate ever staged and a fitting climax to each day's entertainment in this "Patriotic Year."

The background is the ancient city of Calais, saved by the Canadians when they so gallantly stopped the German drive at St. Julien at such enormous cost. Its picturesque chateaux and historic environment adapt themselves admirably to reproduction. On either side beneath frowning cliffs are seen military camps with the soldiers of the allied armies in the hustle, bustle and action of war time. The brilliant uniforms of the field marshals, generals, etc., add splendor to an impressive scene.

Suddenly the fleet appears over the horizon under full steam with the Queen Bess leading the first battle line and the Lion in advance of the others. The Iron Duke majestically appears with Admiral Jellicoe aboard, and, as she passes between the watch dogs of the Empire lined up in battle array, the Admiral is greeted with salvos of broadsides.

It will be a faithful portrayal of the scene just before war was declared last summer when the fleet had been mobilized, on the orders of Churchill, off the British coast.

The cannonading continues as the officers go ashore to review the troops, which swing past the grandstand in the final wonderful tableau. It will be a panorama of Empire greatness, a picture of such striking reality as to evoke a veritable hysteria of patriotic fervor among the thousands who will nightly crowd the grand stand.

Elizabeth and the "Shermans"

Elizabeth lives in Scotland and takes a deep and abiding interest in the European war.

"Did God make everything?" she asked her fond mother lately.

"Yes," was the reply of the unsuspecting parent.

"Did he make make bugs?"

"Yes."

"And caterpillars?"

"Yes."

"And Shermans?"

"Yes—y-y-yes, of course, he made Germans, Elizabeth."

"Then what for did he do it?"

"What for? What for? Why, Elizabeth, dear, you are too little to understand. He made Germans just as he made English people. There are lots of nice kind Germans."

"Nice Shermans, mummy? Really nice?"

"Oh, yes, very nice. But, Elizabeth—"

"Then what for do we shoot them?"

"Because—because some of them are naughty," said her mother, desperately.

"Oh, Elizabeth, do go and play!"

"Does God like it when we shoot them?"

"I—I don't know."

Elizabeth ponders in silence.

"I thought you knew everything," she announces reproachfully after deep meditation. "Does God like it?"

"No, I'm sure God doesn't like it. But you see the Germans began it."

"Began shooting at us?"

"Yes."

"Then what for did God make them?"

"Why—why, God made them nice and kind just as he made us, but naughty people have told them to shoot other people."

"What did God make the naughty people for?"

"I—I don't know."

"The naughty people won't go to heaven, will they?"

"No—no—naughty people never go to heaven."

"But will good Shermans go to heaven?"

"Yes—yes, of course they will."

"And will they meet good soldiers there?" (To Elizabeth all "soldiers" are khaki-clad Britons.)

"Yes. Yes. Certainly they will."

"Sure and certain?"

"Certain," responded her mother firmly, feeling sure of her ground at last.

Elizabeth ponders. "I don't believe I care much about going to heaven," she announces at last with a serene smile.

"Isn't there anywhere else you and I could go, Mummy, except Hell?"

FRANCES FENWICK WILLIAMS.

When Incubator Heat Fails.
 If by some mischance the lamp of your incubator should go out and the eggs become quite cold to the touch do not throw them away, especially if the trouble comes in the second half of the incubation period. Start up the heat as soon as possible and keep the machine going. It is very probable that life was not destroyed, although it may take an extra day or more to finish the hatch. We have known eggs to be left out of the incubator by mistake for twelve hours or more and still prove a good hatch. Give plenty of time at the last until you can assure yourself of the result.—Kansas Farmer.

FARM LIVE STOCK.

The growing colt needs abundant exercise to go with liberal feeding.

With the right care sheep are the most responsive of any of the farm animals.

It is the hog that is kept growing without being overtaxed that makes the best profit.

Training the colt to a prompt, rapid walk will add many dollars to its value.

Remember that no breed of sheep will be satisfactory unless given kind, intelligent care.

If the little pigs persist in squealing possibly they are not getting the feed that they need regularly.

SILAGE AS A FEED FOR BEEF CATTLE

The following method has proved very successful with me in feeding cattle, writes a correspondent of the Orange Judd Farmer: The calves are allowed to run with the cows during the summer and early fall, then weaned and put by themselves on pasture. Later they are allowed the run of a stalk field and put up at night and fed a ration of grain and silage. In this way they are kept in a thrifty condition during the winter.

In the early fall I put young stock in the feed lot and begin to feed for the market. If I have to buy a few calves I select those showing breeding and quality, even if they do cost more. In some cases when nothing but common and mean feeders could be bought they were obtained at a low price and turned on a short feed.

The average farmer should not select too heavy feeders, as the markets now seem to discriminate against heavy stuff.

The Aberdeen-Angus came to us from Scotland and has long since become a rival of the other beef breeds. His greatest popularity is found in the middle and western states, although many have gone to the south and southwest. These cattle are prized for their early maturing qualities. In the economic use of food the Angus is second to no other breed. In recent years it has carried away its share of prizes at fat stock shows and in block contests. The quality of meat is second to none. The bull shown is a typical Aberdeen-Angus.

My feeding plant is very simple indeed. In fact, any corn belt farmer could afford one like it. It consists of a shed like structure 66 by 36 feet, sixteen feet to the eaves, and covered with galvanized roofing; a silo 12 by 32 feet. The straw and clover hay are put in the shed so that the cattle have free access to both at all times.

My steers were given corn, fodder with the ears left on during September and the first half of October while they were on pasture. On Oct. 25 they were put up in the feed lot and given a ration of corn, clover hay and straw. As they were already accustomed to ear corn, they were given a generous feeding twice daily. As they were to be fed but three months, their corn ration was increased daily. On Nov. 19 I commenced feeding silage. It took several days to get them accustomed to eating silage, and as the silage was quite rich in corn they were fed a little less ear corn. It was quite noticeable that they ate less clover hay and straw after silage was added to their ration.

It is usually safe to say that when a child is pale, sickly, peevish and restless, the cause is worms. These parasites range the stomach and intestines, causing serious disorders of the digestion and preventing the infant from deriving sustenance from food. Miller's Worm Powders, by destroying the worms, corrects these faults of the digestion and serves to restore the organs to healthy action.
