Significant Testimony.

Highly important and significant testimony on the relations of the liquor traffic to the industrial problem was given a few days ago in a license court in Philadelphia by Mr. Edwin Cramp of the great shipbuilding company. Mr. Cramp appeared before the license court to remonstrate against the granting of licenses to four saloon keepers in the vicinity of his works. He stated the grounds for his appearance as follows:

"We object solely for business reasons to the proximity of these four drinking places and have practically nothing to add to the remonstrances already filed. The saloons are actually at our gates and have resulted in many accidents and the demoralization of our men."—Christian at Work.

What Gough Believed.

Joel Stratton, the man through whose kind words John B. Gough was converted, should have a monument for giving to two continents this great temperance apostle, whose gratitude was well shown by the shower of gold that poured into the lap of Mrs. Stratton, when her husband had left her destitute. Gough went into the prisons and among the slums, and thousands of drunken men and erring girls were saved. Gough believed not only in rescuing the drunkard, but also believed in the annihilation of the liquor traffic. He died while speaking, and his last words as he fell with paralysis, "Young man keep your record clean," rang out all over the land. His life, after all, was a grand success and shows that no drunkard, however low, but may be rescued and rescue others.

—Oakland Enquirer.

People often sing, "Where is my wandering boy to-night?" but the truth is, when the parents went to church or temperance meetings this "wandering boy" also left home and joined his associates on the street corner. The parents are singing this song and shouting, "Down with the saloons," while they are giving their boy full liberty to do as he pleases. And he generally lives up to his privileges. This is one phase of a large subject, and it is a phase which should be looked squarely in the face. However ardent people may be in supporting the cause of temperance, they may by their very neglect, by their shortcomings in home training, help to foster the liquor traffic. Their plain and manifest duty is to nip the evil in the bud by wise and careful training of their boys in all that is excellent and lovely and of good report. In the work of temperance reform everyone must build over against his own house.
