

Morehead was arraigned before two magistrates, but these gentlemen seeing the whole proceedings were irregular, submitted the case to the Coroner of the District. A jury of twenty-three persons was empaneled, the body disinterred, and the three worthies who had before performed the post-mortem, were ordered by the jury to repeat their examination and give before them the results. The jury after a patient hearing, returned a verdict that the testimony, and especially that of the medical men, established that Robert C. Morehead, was guilty of criminal conduct, the grossest ignorance, and most criminal neglect. The coroner issued his warrant and Dr. Morehead was arrested and lodged in gaol. The day following the case was cited before Mr. Justice Monk of this city who issued a writ of habeas corpus and liberated Dr. Morehead on bail. These, we believe, to be substantially the facts of this case. They are the facts as given to us, and we lay them before the profession without comment. This we would, however, say that we think Dr. Morehead has a just and good cause of action for damages and defamation of character against Dr. Larocque, and we would very much like to see the matter tried and carried through to the very utmost. It has fortunately very seldom been our lot to record a similar case of so gross and unusual ignorance, not against Dr. Morehead, but against his opponant Dr. Larocque, as it was manifestly Dr. Larocque's duty to second his confrere by resorting to all means in their power to arrest the hæmorrhage, which result more than likely would have been attained on remeal of the placenta.

In the article on "The use of Amalgam, &c.," in the November number of the Journal, page 196, read Mr. F. G. Callender, member of Royal College of Dental Surgeons, and professor of Dentistry at the same college.

Page 203, read Mr. W. G. Beers says [all amalgamists say the same, and I may remark that they are only a repetition of the stale arguments of twenty or thirty years since] that those who use amalgam, &c.
