

motion is intended to enable the House to move from one order to another within the same type of order—from one order of Private Member's Business to another order of Private Member's Business, or from one Government Order to another Government Order.

This Standing Order, as is the case with others has to be read in the light of a number of Standing Orders dealing with the same subject. We have Standing Order 15 which sets out the daily order of business, and Standing Order 18 which sets out the precedence of business. What we would be doing now, by accepting this motion, would, to my mind, be changing this precedence; we would, in effect, be acting in contravention of Standing Orders 15 and 18. It is a motion which attempts to suspend the normal course of business and, in my view, this is a substantive motion which requires notice.

I would call the attention of the House to Standing Order 32(1) referring to motions which are debatable. Standing Order 32(1)(m) refers to the management of the business of the House and the arrangement of its proceedings. Perhaps this motion might be classified as a disarrangement of the business of the House, if not as an arrangement.

I would also refer honourable Members to citation 10 of Beauchesne's 4th edition to the following effect: "Standing Orders may be suspended for a particular case without prejudice to their continued validity, for the House possesses the inherent power to destroy the self-imposed barriers and fetters of its own regulations. It may even pass an order prescribing a course of procedure inconsistent with the Standing Orders. A motion for such temporary suspension requires notice under Standing Order 41—"

For all these reasons I suggest to honourable Members that there is no possible course open to the Chair but to refuse the motion as it has been presented by the Minister of Public Works.

Debate was resumed on the motion of Mr. Laing, seconded by Mr. Sharp,—That Bill C-147, An Act to amend the Yukon Act, be now read a second time.

By unanimous consent, the said debate was adjourned.

The House resolved itself again into Committee of Supply.
