

Modyford had represented the African Company's interests in Barbados. Moreover, one of the agents in Jamaica, Hender Molesworth, was appointed Lieutenant-Governor of the colony. On the death of Sir Thomas Lynch, he became the acting chief magistrate; and, in 1689, he was appointed Governor of the island.¹

¹ C. C. 1689-1692, f. 69.