

THE TOWER OF LONDON:
Fred Adcock.

"Stay yet, look back with me unto the Tower.
Pity, you ancient stones, those tender babes
Whom envy hath immured within your walls,
Rough cradle for such little pretty ones!"
Shakespeare's "Richard III."

Chapter 6.