

HAMILTON HAPPENINGS

LIBERAL CANDIDATE TO GO TOGETHER TO BUSINESS

Bundas Audience Was Anti-Pact—Hon. Adam Beck on Reciprocity—Good Meetings at Hamilton.

HAMILTON, Sept. 13.—(Special.)—Hon. Adam Beck, Gordon Wilson and W. O. Sealey, M.P., comprised the drawing card of the Conservative meeting to-night. While the meeting had been arranged by Mr. Wilson, Mr. Sealey was present by invitation and was most fairly received, being allowed to follow the Conservative candidate alternately and to close the speech making.

Hon. Mr. Beck devoted considerable time to the hydro-power question and warmly commended the stand taken by Mr. Wilson on that important question. The hydro project had been dealt with irrespective of politics and this year would save the consumers of Toronto half a million dollars, and within three years Hamilton would be saving a quarter of a million dollars by means of the great scheme.

Replying to the prediction of H. C. Beckett of Hamilton, that the commission would face a deficit, Hon. Mr. Beck said: "Tell Mr. Beckett that the money in my pocket to-night, which is not more than 35 cents, will cover the deficit in 1912, or any other year. There will never be a taxpayer or a taxpayer of the province will ever be called on to pay one cent for the system."

Referring to the reciprocity agreement, Mr. Beck declared that there had been no demand for the treaty, that Patterson and Fleming had been sent to Washington unprepared and that Sir Wilfrid Laurier had violated his promise not to conclude the terms of the pact without determining the desire of the people of the country in the matter.

The speaker graphically described the conditions which would take away the Canadian horse market if the pact is adopted and related the experience which had followed when the export duty had been imposed on timber sent from Canada by the States, when the Canadian mills had immediately become busy and American mills had been forced to close down.

Gordon C. Wilson poked fun at his opponent and wanted to know why he had changed his heart on the reciprocity question. He quoted from one of the Liberal candidate's speeches, in which Mr. Sealey had said: "We would swamp us in our own market, while we would be unable to meet them in theirs."

Mr. Sealey devoted the time of his first period to a defence of his record in which he claimed he had made good on all his pre-election promises and was very fairly heard also several in the audience seemed disposed to take his statements very lightly and he was frequently asked to get down to the discussion of reciprocity.

At the nomination to be held here to-morrow it is reasonably sure that the names of eight candidates will be officially placed before the electors in the constituencies included within the boundaries of Wentworth County, in the county riding of Gordon C. Wilson will be named for the Conservatives, W. O. Sealey, the present member, for the Liberals, and A. B. Wilson will run as an independent.

The nomination booth will be at the Mountain View Hotel. Three candidates will also be named in West Hamilton: T. J. Stewart, M.P., for the Conservatives; Major John J. McLaren for the Liberals; and Hiram Dickson as an independent labor man. Samuel Marker, M.P., and John Peoples will be the respective Conservative and Liberal nominees in East Hamilton. The city nominations will be held in the court house for the east riding, and in Association Hall for the west. Large crowds are expected at all three places.

Big Open Air Meeting. The cool weather had little effect on the size and enthusiasm of the crowd which attended the open air meeting at Point Hill in the north-west part of the city to hear the arguments against the reciprocity agreement presented by T. J. Stewart, M.P., Samuel Barker, M.P., and George Lynn Stranahan. The speakers were lustily cheered time and time again, and the audience indicated by their actions that reciprocity will make a very poor showing in that part of the city.

J. W. Carstairs and J. W. Wright held a good meeting at Crown Point tonight in the interests of the candidacy of Gordon Wilson. As was to be expected, a good crowd turned out and greeted the speakers' expressions with plentiful applause. Crown Point is perhaps the strongest anti-reciprocity district in the city of Ontario.

Rev. Anderson, 11 Catherine-street north, and James Blowers, 103 Rebecca-street, were arrested by the police to-night, charged with the theft of a horse and buggy from a local livery man. The alleged theft was committed on Labor Day, when the two young men hired the outfit and drove to Toronto, where they left it. The horse and rig were returned several days ago. The men will appear before the magistrate to-morrow.

Killed by Fall. Arthur Marshall, the 4-year-old son of an Anson Township farmer, fell from the nose of his father's barn yesterday afternoon and died half an hour after the result of his injuries. No inquest will be held, as Coroner Farmer decided that the boy's death was purely accidental.

PUBLIC AMUSEMENTS

Gertrude Elliot Coming in Patterson's "Rebellion."

Just prior to her New York run in the play, "Rebellion," Gertrude Elliot is to appear at the Royal Alexandra next week in Joseph Medill Patterson's remarkable play that had a try-out in the west last spring, creating such a stir that it is looked upon as one of the best sensations of the year. Patterson, who wrote the play, "The Fourth Estate," is one of the leaders in the popular modern school of theatrical-point playwriting, "Rebellion" is a play of modern conditions that hammers on some pretty serious problems.

Miss Elliot has just begun her second season as an American star. The charming younger sister of the beautiful Marjorie Elliot, who recently played an Englishwoman when she married Forbes-Robertson. Great Britain's foremost actor. Until last season, Miss Elliot resided in her native country only as a co-star with her husband. It was not until last year, when Liebler & Co. brought her over to star in "The Revue of To-morrow," which she had produced in London, that her country folk had an opportunity to see her as an independent star. Best sale opens to-morrow.

"Thais" Coming to Princess. Jos. M. Gaites announces his much heralded dramatic version of "Thais" as the attraction at the Princess Theatre for the week beginning Monday, Sept. 18. The announcement of the coming of "Thais" should be a great attraction to the theatregoers of this city, for the book of Anatole France, from which Paul Willach secured the foundation for the play, is a powerful and consistent story of life in the second century, and, besides being a great novel, was the foundation of the internationally successful Grand opera of the same name. With this story woven into a drama by such a vigorous dramatist as Mr. Willach, the many characters portrayed by artists like Tyrone Power, Colman, and Julian L'Estrange and fifty others of similar calibre and all enhanced by Maessen's glorious music, which will be utilized as the incidental and entr'acte music, by special arrangements with the Society of Authors, Composers and Editors of Music, Inc., who have given Mr. Gaites exclusive rights to use the score for this purpose, the play of "Thais" should live up to the many claims being made for it.

The curtain will rise promptly at 8.10 in the evenings and at 2.10 at the matinees.

"The Virginian." Owen Wister's story of "The Virginian," as dramatized by himself and Kirk La Shelle, comes to the Grand Theatre in a great play that is no more. Owen Wister knew his west, and this knowledge has enabled him to create illusions of realistic, striking pictures that stand out in the memory long after the curtain has fallen on the west to civilization.

"The Virginian" still ranks as the leader of the melodrama founded on life and incidents in the far west, wholesome in point of morals, cleverly constructed, deeply interesting because of its intense realism, it is a stage story that will endure for an interminable time; such a story as this can never be written again. The play is a masterpiece of the art of the stage, and the La Shelle Virginian Company have engaged for this season.

George Kelly gives a strong, healthy, intelligent portrayal of the Virginian, Mr. C. Ross will be seen as Trip Tucker. Others in the company are Mary Elizabeth Forbes, Eleanor Wilton, Harry Holiday, Charles R. Gilbert and Frank Conway. Under the management of the La Shelle Virginian Company, a good performance is assured.

The Bowery Burlesquers. The Bowery Burlesquers will be at the Gayety next week, and have taken possession of this latest absurdity in the line of entertainment and christened their offering "Too Much Isaac."

Fitzgerald and Quinn, who have been entrusted with the steller parts, while all the other roles are played in expert hands. Little girls, with coquettish smiles and queenly looking damsel, are enlivening the most striking feature of the offering will be "Madam X" entitled "Madam X—ousé Me." The famous courtroom scene includes so many snappy, brilliant and irresistibly funny situations that it would be hard to twist additional humor into this exceptionally clever skit.

Money Floating Thru the Air. On Saturday, at the opening of the new Lixette's limited drug store, 224 Yonge-street, there will be money floating thru the air.

There will also be free drinks, Rowland and souvenirs for everybody. Read the ad. in to-morrow's World for full particulars.

The Centre of New York is reached by the Lehigh Valley R. R. at 10:30 a.m. and 8:30 p.m. daily. Connections for Philadelphia and Atlantic City over the only double track line. Further particulars at King-street east.

WOMAN KILLED BY TRAIN LEVEL CROSSING DEADLY

Mrs. Hannah Wright Struck by Engine on C.P.R. Tracks in Dovercourt.

Shortly after 10 o'clock yesterday morning Mrs. Hannah Wright of 1081 Dovercourt-road was struck and instantly killed by a westbound C.P.R. freight train on the track immediately north of Dovercourt-road.

Mrs. Wright, who was about 65 years of age, tried to cross the tracks going north while a westbound freight train approached, and had almost cleared the tracks when struck by the engine and thrown 30 feet almost to the fence.

Dr. C. M. Hincks of 108 Geary-avenue was called, but the woman died almost as soon as he arrived.

It is claimed by Engineer R. Nolan that the bell was ringing when they passed the street intersection. They are, however, no gates or watchman at the crossing, where, it is said, 5000 people pass every day.

WAS INSPECTOR IRRITATED?

Children's Aid Society Officer Says Prosecution Was Result of Animus.

Charged with demanding $10, thru menaces, from Mrs. Bert Hall, with intent to steal the same, W. A. Gunton, agent of the Children's Aid Society, appeared before Judge Winchester yesterday morning, and was exonerated.

Mr. Gunton stated that Staff Inspector Kennedy appeared to be more anxious to press the charge than Mrs. Hall herself, and in his opinion personal animus was shown. He says that some time ago he remarked to Mr. Kennedy that from his observation, soliciting on the street by women was more prevalent than in either Buffalo or Detroit, and that he thought the remark may have nettled the official guardian of the city's morals.

Mrs. Hall said in the court that the accused came to her house and asked for Myrtle Jones, stating that he was a government agent of the Children's Aid Society. According to her evidence, Mr. Gunton told her that she was liable to be given from five to seven years for harboring a ward of the Children's Aid Society, and she told him that if she could do anything to help the girl she would. The next day she made a street appointment and handed him ten dollars for the girl's use.

J. J. Kelso was subpoenaed, but did not appear, and it was necessary to telephone for him. He stated that agents were authorized to receive money on behalf of the wards, but thought that Mr. Gunton had made a
