Serious Loss to Doherty Organ Co. Clinton, Nov.17.—Last night at 11 o'clock fire-broke out in one of the large buildings of the Doherty Organ Co., and resulted in a very serious loss. The building contained the machine, case, key and finishing departments, and, with the exception of a few machines, all the interior, is a total loss. Some six or eight hundred organs, in the course of construction, were all destroyed. The company carried heavy insurance, but the interruption of trace and the loss to the employes and the town cannot be estimated. The engine-room, dry kiln, as well as the other large buildings and lumber yards, were not affected by the fire.

No Evidence Adduced That the Police Stood in With the Alleged Gamblers.

TWO DETECTIVES PLACED BETS

Expected Sensational Incidents Did Not Materialize-Inquiry Will Be Continued Next Saturday.

new facts of any great important were brought out on Saturday afternoon at the investigation into the charges made that the police were standing in with the gamblers. The sensational incidents which were anticipated as a result of the refusal on Tuesday last of Mr. H. C. Hocken, editor of The Evening News, to testify, were absent.

Mr. Hocken does not languish behind prison bars, and there is no prospect of him ever doing so, as a result of his refusal. The editor did not testify, neither did Mr. Bernard McMullen, who, it was stated, collected the information contained in the articles by Mr. Hocken. It was apparent that these gentlemen had furnished certain information to City Solicitor Caswell, without revealing the source. This proved his position in regard to his informants. He said he was prompted to take the stand against gambling by the opening of the room opposite No. 1 Police Station. Many witnesses were called, chief among them being Abram Orpen and Richard Jackes. These gentlemen were represented by Mr. E. F. B. Johnston, K.C., who advised them strongly not to answer any questions that would leave them open to any criminal prosecution. James Offord, another them strongly not to answer any questions that would leave them open to any criminal prosecution. James Offord, another witness, was represented by E. E. A. Du-Vernet, and he, also, declined to answer questions not relevant to the issue. Other

Abram Orpen, who is alleged to be in a position to exercise a certain influence over police officers, after having his legal rights clearly defined, went on and testafied, being represented by Mr. Johnston. His testimony was punctuated by objections made on his behalf by the lawyer. He explained that he carried on an extensive brick business, the office of which is room 8, York Chambers.

"Do you know of any policemen going to that office?" asked Mr. Caswell.

"I do not."

"Do you know if Sergt. Hales went there?"

"To police ever go there?"

"Yes, but not with a brass band."

"Is there any betting carried on there?"

"Do you know of an establishment in Toronto Junction where gambling is reputed to be carried on?"

To this question there was no answer, and it opened up another long argument, as to the rights of the witness, Orpen, in refusing to answer certain questions. He admitted he knew of the building, but did not know who owned it. not know who owned it.

Mr. Orpen said this organization was a joint stock company; the witness was president and Brennan secretary. Mr. Orpen declined to answer the question: Judge Asks a Question.

Judge McDougall asked: "On what ground does the witness object?" and the latter promptly replied, "On the legal ground."
Again the question of the legal rights of Mr. Orpen was opened up, and resulted in the objection being sustained.
