DEWEY IS SICK

Confined to His Cabin With a Fever.

The Italian Newspapers Are Publishing His Biography.

Leghorn, Italy, Aug. 15.—Admiral Dewey yesterday remained on board the Olympia, which arrived here from Naples, Ill. with fever. The captain of the vessel received the visits of officials and others in his place.

James A. Smith, United States consul at Leghorn, accompanied by Edward C. Cramer, United States consul at Florence, visited the Olympia yesterday to take leave of Dewey. The newspapers, Gazzetta Livornese and Il Telegrafo, of this place, have published biographies of the "Victor of Cavite."

A late dispatch states that Admiral Dewey is still indisposed. Various officials visited the Olympia this morning. The departure of the American admiral for Florence has been postponed.

MUTINY ON A TRANSPORT.

San Francisco, Aug. 15.—After leaving Manila the transport Warren, carrying the Colorado regiment, ran up against a typhoon, which battered her up considerably and she also had to face a mutiny among the men. As a result 24 of the Warren's crew underwent trial and were sentenced to terms varying from three months to two years, and the Warren is sailing for San Francisco with a green crew of Filipinos.

The mutiny was brought about by one of the men claiming he was sick and refusing to work. He was placed in irons. Every man in the crew then quit work and declared they would not resume until their comrade was released and sent to the hospital.

Concerning Arbitration.

The present People's Strike against the London Street Railway is an irrefutable argument in favor of the principle of arbitration. In the great mining strike in England, when everything else failed, Lord Rosebery contrived to induce the parties to submit their dispute to arbitration, whereupon the differences were adjusted, and peace once more smiled where had previously raged industrial war.

The London Free Press quotes the Toronto Globe as saying that compulsory arbitration is not possible under free contract. We do not remember to have seen in the Globe the statement attributed to it by our local contemporary; or the quotation may have been clipped baldly, apart from the context. We do not agree with the opinion attributed to the Globe. According to theories of fine-spun logic, there are many things that are "not possible," but which practically are found to be not only possible, but workable as well. Compulsory arbitration is not only possible in New Zealand, but workable and satisfactory. In New Zealand compulsory arbitration is brought to bear on disputes, even between private employers and a certain number of employees with whom difference has arisen. Much more is such interference justifiable in ## cases of semi-public franchises, claiming special track-laying and carrying privileges over public streets for long periods of time.

Compulsory arbitration in such cases

would work all right. The decision would, of course, have to be founded on fact, and on justice. A decision so founded and published would carry with it irresistible weight. It is simply nonsense to say that compulsory arbitration would be unworkable. The very fact that compulsory arbitration was about to be entered upon, would in nine cases out of ten bring the parties together in voluntary arbitration.

The New York Outlook (edited by

Rev. Dr. Lyman Abbott) says: "A city ought never to surrender its control of its streets and its means of transportation. If it gives to a private corporation the right to use the streets, and depends on the private corporation for means of transportation, it should have the right to compel that corporation to do what an impartial tribunal says is just and right in its dealing with its employees. Wherever such a franchise is granted, it should be accompanied with a provision that whenever a certain proportion of the employees have any complaint to make against the corporation, they shall have a right to demand that the complaint be submitted to an impartial tribunal, and that the corporation must submit to the decision of such tribunal."

Cape Town, Aug. 15.—A dispatch

from Pietermaritzburg, capital of Natal, says that at a farmers' meeting, called there to consider the defense of the colony, it was resolved that the duty of every loyal, able-bodied colonist, able to rise and shoot, was to aid in the defense of the colony against invasion, and it was announced that the volunteers would be sent to the frontier in the event of war, and that the rifle associations would be left to defend their own districts.

The reported shipment of £400,000

from London banks is believed to be due to the enormous purchases by the Transvaal Government of ammunition, provisions and forage, the supplies exceeding those of many European nations. The field cornets are distributing arms to burghers.

It is reported that a former officer of the British army is now recruiting among the volunteers here with the object of forming an irregular corps for the protection of Beuanaland.

Mag.-Gen. Sir W. Francis Butler,

commander of the British troops in South Africa, against whom there is much feeling because of his alleged Boer sympathy, will be transferred, it is understood, to England.

"The Standard" and "Diggers" News

says: "The Boers are convinced that there is nothing for it now but the arbitrament of arms."

All sorts of warlike rumors are in circulation. It is alleged that the field cornets have received orders to supply all unarmed burghers with rifles gratuitously, and to substitute Mausers for Martini-Henrys wherever the latter are still in use.

A late dispatch states that the government has amended the South African Republic, compelling persons who are not burghers to co-operate with them in the defense of the national territory and the suppression of rebellion.

Gen. Joubert, vice-president of the republic and commander-in-chief of the Transvaal forces, denies that the burghers are loading their rifles and preparing for war. Despite Gen. Joubert's denial it is reported that the government made large purchases of rifles last Saturday.

Dispatches from Durban, in Natal, announce that an armor-plated train, fitted with loopholes, has been sent to the Natal-Transvaal border, and that artillery of the Orange Free State is going to occupy Van Remens Pass.

WHAT ITALY WANTS.

Marquis Rigi, the Italian charge d'affaires, has asked the Tsung Li Yamen for permission to open mines in Che Kiang, and to establish an Italian professorship in the Pekin University. He has also asked for two railway concessions, which it is not likely will be granted. His other requested will probably be conceded.

CRAZY MAN WITH A PISTOL.

At the branch of the Credit Bank at Charlottenburg, Prussia, on Saturday, Mr. Prien, a retired army captain, and former president of the Hamburg marine office, after presenting a check for payment, discharged a revolver at a bank director and clerk, dangerously wounding both. He then jumped into a train, and alighted at the zoological gardens, where he fired at an official who tried to bar his entrance. He then pressed the muzzle of the revolver against his own temple and rapidly fired three shots, falling dead. No burghers are loading their rifles and preparing for war. Despite Gen. Joubert's denial it is reported that the government made large purchases of rifles last Saturday.

DISPATCHES FROM DURBAN, IN NATAL,

announce that an armor-plated train, fitted with loopholes, has been sent to the Natal-Transvaal border, and that artillery of the Orange Free State is going to occupy Van Remens Pass.

THE PLAQUE.

London, Aug. 15.—The Daily Mail publishes the following dispatch from Oporto, Portugal: "The suspicious disease which broke out here recently has become epidemic. Its symptoms are identical with those of the bubonic plague. The doctors disagree as to its precise character, but admit that it must be allied to the dreaded eastern malady. Sanitation and the water supply here are bad, and the wildest rumors are current. The authorities, however, are taking energetic measures."

At Hong Kong there were 23 deaths

from the plague during the past week and 25 new cases were reported.

ROYAL BETROTHAL.

Vienna, Aug. 14.—It is reported that the imperial heir-presumptive of Austria, the Archduke Francis, is betrothed to the Grand Duchess Helen Vladimirovna of Russia, who was formerly affianced to Prince
