The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON

WILL all the kind folks who contribute suggestions for the benefit of my shy lady, please consider themselves heartily thanked both by her and me.

I couldn't use all of your letters because some of them duplicated suggestions and because some of them came after I had written on the subject, but I enjoyed them all very much. You see, to hear you folks speak and know you were still there. Every once in awhile I have a terrible wonder if I am playing to any empty house. If there could be such a thing as a blind and deaf actor who, because of his infirmity, would have no way of knowing how large and how well pleased his audiences were I think he'd feel the way I sometimes do.

And if after the play some of his audience should come up and grasp him by the hand to let him know they had sat through the play and had enjoyed it, I think he'd feel the way I do when I receive letters from you folks.

I had the pleasure of being a witness to a very charming little incident this noon.

A pretty young girl came out of a restaurant just ahead of me, slipped quietly up to a big cart horse which stood by the curb, and shyly offered him a couple of lumps of sugar. The big creature mumbled the sugar up out of her hand with something as near delighted surprise as a horse could show, and the girl stroked his big nose for a moment and then passed on.

Such a little thing to do but such a sweet one. And that isn't meant for a pun by any means.

I think it's people who have time for little kindnesses like that who make the account of the world's joys and sorrows show a credit on the joy side.

Are you one of them?

"While you were writing about how a man hates to smell perfume on a woman," queried the masculine man who occasionally does me the honor to read my humble fancies, "why didn't you say something about gasoline?"

"Yes, that's what I mean—gasoline. Don't you know there's lots of women have that smell hanging over them all the time. Anything to do with automobiles? No, I suppose it's from having things cleaned. That's what they tell me anyhow. I don't know much about that. All I know is that sometimes after I dance or even just shake hands with a woman, my hands will smell of gasoline the rest of the evening. Infernal, I call it. You hear girls talking about getting the smell of tobacco from dancing with a man who smokes. Now I put it up to you if tobacco isn't a much more decent smell than gasoline!"

Reminds me of the hero of a magazine story I read the other day. He found my lady's white glove lying on the table and in true chivalric style pressed it passionately to his lips.

But modern cleaning methods were evidently too much for chivalry, for his most unchivalric comment was, "It smelled of gasoline."

Those of us who are millionaires must of necessity kiss ourselves to the cleaners occasionally. But I don't think that means we need smell of gasoline.

For the sake of chivalry and incidentally common decency, instead of laying the clearest waists gloves in the drawer where they will smell up every thing else and incidentally take upon themselves a half-sack-of-half-gasoline odor, that is worse than straight gasoline, why not make it an invariable practice to hang them for a day or two in the open air where they will get a good six per cent in results.

Daily Hints For the Cook

FROSTING.

Melt two squares of unsweetened chocolate and spread over the cakes. Mix together one cupful of confectioner's sugar and two tablespoonfuls of milk, until smooth and creamy. Spread over the chocolate when it is hardened. These cakes are nice for the children's lunch boxes.

TARTS.

Make a rich pie crust, roll thin and cut out with a biscuit cutter, cut holes in half of them with a thumb, bake until a light brown, then spread the whole cakes with a red jelly and put a cake with holes on top so jelly will show through.

STEWED TOWNSHIP RICE.

Truss the fowl for boiling and stew it in about a quart of mutton broth, season with a little pepper, salt and half a blade of mace, for an hour, or more if it is an old fowl, skimming it often. About half an hour before the fowl is ready to serve, add a large cupful of rice, and when tender strain the broth from it and place the rice on a sieve to dry and swell before the fire, keeping the fowl hot; then place it in the centre of a hot dish with the rice arranged in rather a high border around it. Serve with parsley and butter sauce.

CHESTNUT SALAD.

Mix together two cupfuls each of tart apples cut into half inch dice, celery cut into half-inch pieces. Put in a double boiler, two tablespoonfuls butter, nine tablespoonfuls of vinegar, half teaspoon of sugar, one teaspoon of salt, one-quarter teaspoon of pepper, yolks of four eggs. Beat all this well together and stir until thickened. After it is cooled and just before serving add the dressing and a cup of whipped cream to the salad mixture.

MORNING LOCALS

A meeting of the Early Closing Association took place at the store of Percy Steel, Main street, last evening. Considerable information on how the movement is working in other cities was presented and discussed.

The committee investigating the conditions in the country market will meet in the city hall Friday night at 8.30. The chairman, Ald. Jones, said last night that it had not been decided whether any more witnesses would be called or not.

The liquor license commissioners held a meeting in the office of the inspector yesterday afternoon and evening. The licensees, Sylvester B. Madden for the Opera House Rooms, Union street. The former licensee, Hazen Campbell, died about a week ago.

Before the ladies' auxiliary of the N. H. S. yesterday afternoon Miss Homer gave the second of the series of lectures on "Folk Lore in Opera." Mrs. Kent Scoville gave, at the piano, an interpretation of the motifs that pleased the audience, as did Miss Homer's lecture. Both ladies were tendered hearty votes of thanks.

The work of paving in Synthe street was finished yesterday when Mayor Frink laid the last block. It is expected that the work of improving German street will be finished on Friday evening.

Before Coroner Gillmor at St. Martins yesterday the inquest into the death of Manfred Vaughan was held. A verdict of accidental death was returned by the jury, which was composed of R. W. Skillen, J. F. Osborne, J. C. Boyer, H. Kane, and Roy Ross. So far as it could judge carelessness was not the cause of the explosion which resulted in his death.

The eclipse of the moon last night was only partially visible on account of a cloudy sky.

The thirty-sixth anniversary of the City Cornet band was observed socially by the members last night, when, at the invitation of their director, Frank Waddington, they enjoyed an entertainment at the band rooms in King street east. A fine programme was given, and refreshments served. A feature of the evening was singing by Hugh Campbell. Speeches were delivered by James Connelly, Wm. Wallace, Robert McCarthy, Jeremiah Sullivan, and Wm. F. Higgins.

The Dominion-White Star liner Dominion arrived at Montreal yesterday. She reported that the wireless operator, E. Sharpe had disappeared and it is believed that he jumped overboard.

The assembly of the Orling Club in the O'Regan building last evening was well enjoyed. There was a pleasing programme of dances.

C. BRUCE McDUGALL KILLED IN SYDNEY

Former Publisher of Free Speech Falls Down Stairs and Breaks His Neck

Sydney, N. S., Nov. 16.—C. Bruce McDougall, editor and publisher of the Vindicator, published at Moncton (N. B.), fell down a flight of stairs in the Windsor Hotel here tonight and broke his neck. He lived about five minutes after being found and was dead when physicians arrived.

McDougall was here in connection with the defence of several newspapers arrested in Glace Bay for selling the Vindicator. He was to have left for Moncton on Monday night but when on his way to the train he was assaulted and terribly beaten by several persons and left on the road. He was later removed to the hotel.

An inquest will be held tomorrow morning. A brother of deceased will arrive tomorrow.

McDougall was well known in St. John, where he spent some time in jail for publishing libels on prominent people in a paper called Free Speech. On his release he resumed publication of the sheet under the name of The Vindicator.

IS THIS YOUR BOY

Who at tender age must face the hard world without preparation or protection?

No. You could not think of such a thing. And yet, would you neglect your health as you do if you waited to think of your family and how they would get along without you?

You have not the old-time vigor and energy. You go home tired and worn out, feel cross and irritable, lack the old-time smile and good cheer which brought sunshine into your home at your arrival.

You don't sleep well, the brain is not so clear and active, little things annoy and worry you. In short, the nervous system is exhausted. You know this but do not want to consult a doctor, and scarcely know what to do.

Use Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. It cannot fail to do you good, for it is made up of the elements of which your rundown system is most in need. Through the medium of the blood it sends new energy and vigor to every organ of the human body.

You can feel yourself getting stronger every day. You can prove it by noting your increase in weight. You will sleep better, appetite and digestion will improve, and you will feel in the vigor and energy which can only come from within.

You need not begin this treatment today by beginning this treatment. You need not begin this treatment today by beginning this treatment.

This treatment is not stimulant to whip up tired nerves and strain. It cures the nervous way by filling the system with rich red blood. It will cure in a day, but its benefits are natural and lasting. Its persistence on your part it will work wonders.

THE CITY CORNET BAND

Editor St. John Times:—

Sir—In St. John we have no fall festival, no symphony orchestra, in fact no orchestra at all, no opportunity whatsoever to hear opera, to say nothing of the beautiful symphonies and symphonic poems, of the German, Russian, Italian and French schools, our incomparable Beethoven, also the English Elgar and our very own MacDowell, whose sad fate strikes just such a minor chord to us, as Beethoven's deafness, Schubert's and life and Mozart's ignominious burial. Their souls live in sound and, once met, float on forever before us. The rendition of the march from Tannhauser at the concert last night, although avowing of "handiness" (and was it not a band with a big "B"), nevertheless was pleasing to the student of Wagner. The many melodies, for which Wagner is famous, were nicely brought out and the ensemble work was most commendable. The selections from Verdi were also very commendably treated, and here is where the ensemble work showed up best, for one could not help making a comparison of Verdi and Wagner, and the band, although only a band, could teach us how Wagnerian Verdi is.

I recall once hearing Creatore and his band playing the sextette from Donizetti's "Lucia" and Rossini's overture to "Guilherme Tell." They were pleasingly rendered, and I thought then what a lot of noise Wagner could make with a band, and I felt glad that Creatore had selected the soft Italian operas (to subdue band effect), although the effect is more novel than perfect.

Now, where we have no orchestra, no opera, the best thing we can have in our band and the manner in which they handled the selections from Wagner's Tannhauser and Verdi's "Rigoletto" was very creditable and worthy of St. John, and among the best things we heard last night was that the City Cornet Band intends to continue these "musical-fests" every two months, but why not monthly? Perhaps it was a mistake and the band meant "two every month."

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, I am yours sincerely, EWYN BRUCE MACKINNON.
