RED SOX AND GIANTS TIE IN THE SECOND GAME OF SERIES

Steve Yerkes, Boston second baseman.

There would be more scoring but the batter drove a hot inner that Fletcher managed to hold and double up Yerkes at third.

The Giants in the sixth were easy for the Red Sox. Yerkes was out, Yerkes to Stahl, signaled his second hit and Merkle sent a fly to Speaker.

Murray then tried to steal second, but was out by a yard on Carrigan's good throw to Wagner. Fletcher made his second error of the game in the sixth inning, missing Lewis' ground ball.

Gardner's sacrifice, Mathewson to Merkle, put Lewis on second and went to third on Stahl's out, also Mathewson to Merkle. He was left at third when Wagner rolled a little grounder which Mathewson running over toward the first base line got a home run.

The National leaguers started the seventh inning with some promise of scoring. Herzog singled to right, Meyers fled out to Yerkes and Herzog stole second. Fletcher fled to Stahl and Mathewson ended the hopes of the Giants for the inning by striking out.

Then came the eighth inning into which was crowded much of the excitement of the game, and when the inning was over the score stood tied.

The Red Sox had the lead in the ninth, but the Giants were not to be outdone. They had a home run in the ninth, but the Red Sox were not to be outdone.

Doyle singled to centre and Snodgrass took second. Doyle was forced at second when Herzog's difficult foul fly after a hard run and then the New Yorker doubled to centre and Becker and Murray came across the plate with two runs.

These put New York in front for the time being. There was wild excitement in the stands but the inning ended when Meyers went out to Wagner to Stahl.

One run behind Boston became desperate, but their eighth inning opened inauspiciously. Yerkes put up a high fly to Murray and Speaker went to the bat.

Yerkes hit out a sacrifice fly to Lewis, scoring Merkle and putting New York in the lead again. Mathewson fled out to Yerkes. Yerkes opened the Red Sox tenth by dropping a grounder in front of the plate which Wilson got and threw to Merkle. Then Speaker made his long triple on which he scored on Wilson's error at the plate. Lewis doubled but was left on.

There was no scoring in the ninth. Merkle opened the tenth for New York with a solid drive to centre for three bases. After Herzog had been retired, Wagner to Stahl and Meyers had been passed purposely, McCormick who had been sent in to bat for Lewis, scoring Merkle and putting New York in the lead again.

Mathewson fled out to Yerkes. Yerkes opened the Red Sox tenth by dropping a grounder in front of the plate which Wilson got and threw to Merkle. Then Speaker made his long triple on which he scored on Wilson's error at the plate. Lewis doubled but was left on.

MISS THOMSON WINS DRIVING COMPETITION

Toronto, Oct. 9.—An incessant downpour of rain at the Rosedale Links today failed to dampen the ardor of the participants in the ladies' championship match.

The most interesting contest was between Miss Ada McKenzie, of Mississauga, and Miss Dorothy Campbell, of Hamilton, the champion, who has been under a physician's care since Monday.

Miss Campbell a close runner. At the 17th hole Miss McKenzie led by two strokes and at the 18th hole the contestants were tied. Miss Campbell winning on the extra hole.

Miss Campbell tomorrow gets Miss Nesbitt, of Toronto in the semi-final. Both ladies have won the Canadian championship twice and the winner of this tourney will become permanent owner of the association trophy.
