

For Better Rural Life

Macdonald College, consisting as it does of three schools—the School of Agriculture, the School for Teachers, and the School of Household Science—is unique in its service to the great rural community to which it is dedicated. Around the farm, the school and the home, centre most of the things that are worth while in rural life, and in reaching out the helping hand to each of these through one or other of her three schools, Macdonald College is taking a worthy part in the betterment of the rural life of Canada. Her agriculturally-trained sons are going out into the farming communities with a new sense of the dignity of their

Poultry Management—Macdonald College.