How to Organize

A Farmers' Telephone Co.

We have published a very instructive telephone book especially for the man who wants to know ALL about telephone matters. It tells how to organize, how to build the lines, about different types of phones, construction, gives by-laws, and constitutions; in fact it is a telephone encyclopaedia every farmer should have. We send it free if you mention this paper. Ask for Book 1102, "How the Telephone Helps the Farmer." You will get it soon. Address nearest office.

THE SPICE OF LIFE.

A Brooklyn public-school teacher says that she once required a pupil to compose a sentence with the word "dogma" as the subject. The pupil, a lad of ten, after some deliberation, submitted his effort. It read as follows: "The dogma has five pups."

Joseph Jefferson, the actor, once told this story to a friend:

"I was coming down in the elevator of the Stock Exchange building, and at one of the intermediate floors a man, whose face I knew as well as I know yours, got in. He greeted me very warmly at once, said it was a number of years since we had met, and was very gracious and friendly. But I couldn't place him for the life of me. I asked him as a sort of a feeler how he happened to be in New York, and he answered, with a touch of surprise, that he had lived there for several years. Finally I told him, in an apologetic way, that I couldn't recall his name. He looked at me for a moment, and then he said, very quietly, that his name was U. S. Grant."

"What did you do, Joe?" his friend asked.
"Do?" he replied, with a characteristic smile. "Why, I got out at the next floor, for fear I'd ask him if he had ever been in the war!"

H. A. Fuller, toastmaster at the annual banquet of the Pennsylvania bankers' convention in Wilkesbarre last month, introduced with this story the banker, who responded to the toast, "Our Depositors."

"A depositor in a neighboring trust company is an eccentric farmer of middle age. This farmer, though he is wealthy, overdraw his account one day to the tune of $500."

"Notification of the overdraft was at once sent to him."

"He replied:

"You tell me I have overdrawn my account $500. Well, I know it. So what is the necessity of bothering me about it? Why not trust me as I do you? Do I go to you when I have money in your institution and shout: 'You have $500 of mine?' Such statements are superfluous either way."

Professor Blackie used to form a very picturesque feature in the Edinburgh streets. He was a cheery old patriarch, with handsome features and hair falling in ringlets about his shoulders. No one who had seen him could possibly forget him.

One day he was accosted by a very dirty little bootblack, with his "Shine your boots, sir?"

Blackie was impressed with the filthiness of the boy's face.

"I don't want a shine, my lad," said he. "But if you go and wash your face I'll give you a sixpence."

"A' richt, sir," was the lad's reply. Then he went over to a neighboring fountain and made his ablutions. Returning, he held out his hand for the money.

"Well, my lad," said the professor, "you have earned your sixpence. Here it is."

"I dinna want it, auld chap," returned the boy, with a lordly air. "Ye can keep it and get your hair cut."

HOW TO SPOIL A CHILD.

An indulgent mother was travelling one day with her three-year-old son, his nurse and a copy of a magazine which absorbed the mother's attention. The son with his nurse occupied the seat behind her. The nurse attempted once in a while to curb the boy's restless and rebellious spirit by a gentle denial of his latest whim. Each time the mother noticing only that some argument was in progress, and not looking up from her book, said, "Let him have it."

The nurse yielded, of course, to authority, and let the child do as he would. Finally a strong and busy-looking wasp flew against the window pane. The youthful hunter reached out to grasp it, and wailed dejectedly when he was restrained by the watchful nurse. Again the fond mother, without raising her eyes, exclaimed:

"Do let him have it!"

The howl which followed almost drowned the nurse's quiet reply. "He's got it."

MILK

The interior of a cow's udder contains a marvellous collection of blood veins, milk tubes, etc.

As far as known the milk secretion is largely dependent on the amount of blood passing through the udder.

If the blood circulation, the digestion and assimilation of food are good she will show a higher milk secretion than otherwise; as in a boiler, the better the condition it is in the more steam can be generated.

Clydesdale Stock Food will stimulate the organs of circulation and digestion, because it makes the food "tasty," increasing the digestive juices that dissolve the food, and this means more milk and at a profit.

For cows at "Calving," there is nothing better as it tones and regulates the system, helping her to "clean" better, and, lessening the usual danger.

Can stop feeding it without harmful effects as there is nothing injurious in it. Human beings can take it with benefit. We take it every day.

Your money cheerfully refunded by the dealer if not satisfied.
