Do Right.

Awage, my soul, thy hours are fleeting, Thy life is rapidly completing, Time with eternity is meeting. Soon comes the night. Thy retribution, too, will come, According to thy state, thy doom. Do right, do right.

Though clouds thy firmament o'erspread, And tempests burst around thy head, Though, life its greenest foliage shed, In sorrow's blight; And though thy holy hopes and fears Lie buried 'neath the gathering years-Do right, do right.

The warring elements' worst wrath, The earthquake and the whirlwind's breath, The valley and the shade of death, Need not affright; For duty's calm commanding form, With rainbow arms shall clasp the storm. Do right, do right.

Faint not in all the weary strife, Though every day with toil be rife. Work is the element of life, Action is light; For man is made to toil and strive, And only those who labor live.

Do right, do right. Life is not all a fleeting dream, A meteor flash, a rainbow gleam A bubble on the floating stream, Soen lost to sight;

For there's a work for every hour-

In every passing word a power-

The Americans have done every. thing in past years to secure it: but the new railway, the river, and regular lines of ocean steamers are opening an effective competition with the old routes. Whichever course commerce may ultimately take. Toronto will be one point of departure; thence it may flow south or east according to cost or facilities. It is hoped that the east may prevail, and then Montreal and Quebec will share in the advantages; Montreal is already busy, but Quebec looks as if it required a little awakening. The three cities are at the present moment in strong rivalry; concurrent with the struggle for commercial advantages against the settled enterprise of America there is a lively competition between them for the political pre-Government.
