FENCE TALK No. 3

Page Wire Fences only seem to cost a cent or two more a rod than common wire fence. They really cost fully three cents a rod less—and then some. Figure it for yourself:

Page Fence horizontal wires—the wires that have to stand the pulling strain, are made of a grade of steel wire termed "high carbon." Other fences' horizontals are "hard steel," or hard drawn wire, at best.

High-carbon Page wire will stand a strain of 2,400 pounds.
The other kinds break at 1,800 at best.

That explains why a Page Fence will stretch tighter and stand up longer.

That accounts for Page Fences needing but two fence-posts to the other fence's three.

See now what that figures in a mile of fencing:

Two cents a rod more for Page Fence in the first place, or $6.40.

100 fewer posts for the Page Fence—because the tougher wire lets it stretch tighter and stay tighter. Are the 100 posts worth 12c. apiece? Call it that—tho' it's nearer 20c. a post, most places. But call it $12.00 saved in posts—which balances the 2c. a rod more first cost and leaves $5.60 to the good.
What would you take to dig 100 post holes? To cart 100 posts? To set and tamp 100 posts? To staple the fencing 100 times oftener than you need to with a Page Fence?

Doesn't ten dollars look small for all that extra work?

Well, that is only a part of the saving you make on every mile of Page Fence you put up, as compared with any other fence.
Our free book, sent from the nearest Page place for your asking, tells the rest—and tells you how to prove Page betterness beforehand.
